Pete Field Base for Forest Fire Fighters

Peterson Field is being used as a busy base for firefighting bombers as the U. S. Forest keeps a close check on the fire danger in Pike National Forest.

Slurry bombers have been refueling and getting loads of slurry at Peterson Field for fires out of control in Wyoming and Roosevelt, Routt and White River national forests in Colorado.

Nine fire fighters from Pike National Forest have been fighting a fire near Cody, Wyo. They worked with 400 firefighters including 250 Indians, on the 740-acre blaze.

Now eight of the local Forest Service personnel have been moved from the Cody fire to a new blaze in Medicine Bow National Forest in Laramie, Wyo.

A Peterson Field - based B-17 bomber was used Friday to drop slurry on the Laramie fire. It returned Friday night for more slurry and fuel after dropping two loads. It will probably take off again this morning.

Slurry is a mix of about one pound of Bentonite clay to 10 pounds of water. It is a runny pink material. The pink color is from dye so pilots can see where their loads land. Slurry is used to cool fires so ground crews can move in. It is also used on new fires to keep from immediately spreading. Borate is little-

Hunt Season Opening Today On West Slope

By United Press International

Hunters are expected to turn out in record numbers Saturday for the opening of the Colorado big game season on the Western Slope.

Western slope communities prepared for an invasion of about 150,000 hunters.

Some of them may be greeted by light showers or snow flurries, because a Pacific cold front moved in over the northwest Colorado mountains.

Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department officials expect the record kills of 149,000 deer and 12,000 elk to be surpassed.

Along with pleas for gun safety came requests for caution with fire. Dry weather already has provided tinder for forest fires this week northwest of Gunnison and east of Estes Park.

Gilbert Hunter, state game manager, has reported deer and elk in the state plentiful.

The big game season on the east side of the Continental Divide opens Oct. 24.

Game officials said tagging regulations will be enforced strictly. They emphasize also the $300 fine and possible 90-day jail sentence for trespassing.

Six check stations will be open at Artesia, Rifle, Idaho Springs, Del Norte, Poncha Springs and LaPorte.

Roving check stations will be used in the more heavily hunted areas.

Deposits in County Are Up $13 Million

Deposits in El Paso County banks continue to grow with banks showing a $13,861,823.54 increase over totals reported last June.

The increase represents the total deposits as of Oct. 1, requested by the comptroller of the currency.

On that date, county banks had $186,131,546 deposited, compared with $172,947,055.88 June 30.

Colorado Springs' seven national banks registered a $13,232,688 increase in deposits over the June total. Deposits in these banks — First National, Exchange National, Colorado Springs National, Pikes Peak National, Northern National, Western National and East Colorado Springs National — was $153,565,625.65 at the close of business Oct. 1.

The other banks in the county had $32,565,920.75 on deposit at the close of business Oct. 1.

Deposit figures for individual banks, current, for the last quarter, and a year ago, are:

First National — $77,137,461.01, Oct. 1; $77,137,461.01, June 30; $67,147,646.01, Sept 30, 1963.

Exchange National — $41,221,848.53, Oct. 1; $40,678,476.07, June 30; $38,318,090.44, Sept. 30, 1963.

Hermanitz Enters Insanity Plea

Othmer Hermanitz pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to murder Friday morning, and Judge William M. Calvert ordered the defendant to undergo a psychiatric examination at the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital Denver.

No date was announced when the defendant should re-appear in court.

Hermanitz, 49, is accused of the Aug. 8 pistol slaying of William Edward Lucas also known as Kelly Lucas, 44, 2322 Lockhaven Dr. at the Wayside Inn in Fountain.

The defendant appeared in court 15 minutes before the usual Friday morning defendants were scheduled. His attorney, William Eckhart explained to the Gazette Telegraph that his client had been under heavy sedation since he had been in County Jail and the lawyer was apprehensive as to how his client would re-act were he brought across to court with the other prisoners who are always handcuffed and chained.

Largest Rail Merger Ever Is Completed

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI)—A direct link between eastern ports and the cattle-grain producing regions in the heartland of America was established Friday with the largest rail merger in history.

The consolidation tied together the Norfolk and Western Railroad with five other lines, producing a $1.9-billion corporate giant.

The new 7,800 mile system threatened to overtake the Southern Pacific as the biggest money maker in rails.

However, the significance went beyond the mere creation of a huge new corporation, in that it possibly marks the beginning of an era of rail mergers.

The man who conceived the merger, Pennsylvania Railroad President Stuart T. Saunders, has said railroads must merge to compete with other types of transportation.

"Railroad mergers are absolutely essential," said Saunders when he was president of the Norfolk and Western. "The deadwood will have to be cleared away."

Since moving over to the Pennsylvania, Saunders has proposed an even bigger merger, that of the Pennsylvania with the New York Central.

The New Norfolk and Western Railroad includes the former Wabash, Nickel Plate, Sandusky; Akron, Canton and Youngstown, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroads. The actual merger took place at one minute after midnight. But it took four and one half years to plan and get the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Heinicke Named Bar President

Alfred Heinicke, 52, was named president-elect Friday of the Colorado Bar Association at its annual convention at the Broadmoor.

He will become head of the organization next year, succeeding Walter A. Steele of Denver, who took office this year.

Graydon F. Dowis Jr. of Sterling was elected senior vice president, and Donald S. Stubbs of Denver, Charles R. Corlett of Monte Vista and Roderick N. Steward of Delta vice presidents.

Businessmen May Seek Public Vote on Sales Tax

If a city sales tax ordinance is adopted on the second or third reading, Colorado Springs businessmen plan to resort to initiative procedures to let the people decide if they want the tax.

This would be at either a special election or the April general city election.

Initiative is a procedure for voters to propose a statute, constitutional amendment or ordinance to compel a popular vote on its adoption.

Initiative requires signatures on petitions. Over 13,500 persons signed petitions against the sales tax before the City Council approved it on the first reading of an ordinance Tuesday.

Initiative action will wait until there is final passage of the sales tax ordinance, said Attorney Bernard Trott, who represents the Consumers Against Sales Tax (CAST) committee.

"We feel that the decision should be made by the public rather than the City Council," he said.

"The business men of this community feel that the action of the City Council taken Oct. 13 imposing a city sales tax is detrimental to the interests of the entire city and is contrary to the desires of the people of this city," Trott added.

The decision to "take such action as may be necessary" to place the question of a city sales tax on the ballot was made Friday morning at a meeting of about 30 businessmen.

Barry Against Integration By Force

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater said Friday night that the busing of school children to force racial integration is "wrong and that an all-or-nothing attitude on civil rights will "end in disaster."

Goldwater, who voted against the 1964 civil rights act on the ground that part of it was unconstitutional, said the statute treads dangerously on the area of "unfair discrimination in the private affairs of men." He said government there can "do little more than offer moral leadership and persuasion."

The GOP presidential candidate, who has been accused in the South of "crawfishing" on civil rights, expounded on his views on "forced integration"

British PM Educated in State Schools

LONDON (UPI) — Harold Wilson, leader of the Labor Party is, at 48, the youngest British Prime Minister of the nation in this century. He also is the first prime minister to be educated in state schools instead of private ones.

He moved into No. 10 Downing St. Friday after his party won a narrow victory in the elections of Thursday. His party's victory was so narrow as to jeopardize his chances for a stable administration. The Labor victory ended 13 years of Conservative rule.

Despite the razor-thin majority for Labor in the new House of Commons, Wilson proclaimed his determination to push through his program to "get Britain moving again."

With only one of the 630 contests still to be reported, the breakdown in the new House of Commons showed:

Labor 317 seats, 61 gains, 2 losses.

"There will be many changes which we have been given a mandate by you to carry out," Wilson told the nation in a television broadcast a few hours

Tokyo Protests China Atom Shot

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government Saturday issued a strong protest against the explosion of Red China's first atomic bomb in the western part of the China mainland Friday.

"We deeply regret that Communist China has ignored the desire of the world's people against nuclear tests," the government said in a statement issued by the chief Cabinet secretary, Zenko Suzuki.

He expressed fear that China's atom blast will again contaminate the atmosphere with radiation and called on the Chinese Communists to stop nuclear tests.

Secret Service Had Jenkins' Arrest Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI informed the Secret Service in April, 1961, that President Johnson's former aide, Walter W. Jenkins, had been arrested two years earlier, it was learned Friday.

The FBI did so on the Secret Service's request for a check on Jenkins. The Secret Service may not have known, however, that the arrest involved a morals charge.

What followup investigations—if any—were made was not known. Johnson was vice president at the time.

Jenkins resigned Wednesday after public disclosure of his arrests in January, 1959, and last Oct. 7 on morals charges at the Washington YMCA. He is now under treatment for "extreme fatigue" at a Washington hospital.

Neither the FBI nor the Secret Service would comment Friday on reports that Jenkins' arrest record was known.

Johnson said Thursday night he never had received any information questioning Jenkins' personal conduct before

Miller Says Hubert Blind On Communism

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI)—Rep. William Miller Friday accused his Democratic vice-presidential rival, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, of being a radical, big spender and "blind on communism."

Miller, making his first campaign swing in Humphrey's home state, said "I shudder to think of what would happen to our beloved America if Humphrey should ever become president."

Sen. Barry Goldwater's running mate headed on to St. Cloud, Minn., and Milwaukee and Racine, Wis.

At a gathering of Minnesota GOP leaders and party faithful in Duluth, Miller said:

Nowhere else except in Lyndon Johnson can we find such a record of naivete and blindness to communism as in Hubert Humphrey.

"Nowhere else except in Lyndon Johnson can we find such a total disregard for fiscal responsibility as in Hubert Humphrey."

Miller blasted Humphrey for his association with the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA). He said "American people clearly do not support the ADA and the extreme and radical positions it takes."

The GOP vice-presidential candidate called Humphrey "one of the big spenders." He said "it might be more accurate to say he is one of the few men in government openly on record in favor of waste."

Pravda Throws Book at Nikita

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, Nikita S. Khrushchev's former mouthpiece, threw the book at him Saturday.

The organ of the Communist party accused its ousted chief of "harebrained scheming, immature conclusions and hasty decisions and actions divorced from reality, bragging and phrasemongering, commandism and unwillingness to take into account the achievements of science and practical experience."

The front-page editorial nowhere mentioned Khrushchev by name but there was no doubt about who was meant.

It said the Communist party opposed all these things and demanded "collective leadership" — exactly what Khrushchev insisted upon when he ruled the Soviet Union first in partnership with Georgi M. Malenkov and later with Nikolai N. Bulganin.

Both those men fell victim to Khruschev's relentless drive for power.

The editorial, first expression of party opinion since Khrushchev's downfall, said it was "irreconcilably and consistently opposing and continues to oppose the ideology and practice of the personality cult."

This was equivalent of accusing Khrushchev of dictatorship.

Informed sources said Friday that Khrushchev was ousted for nepotism — giving jobs to relatives — and bad tactics in the bitter dispute with Red China.

His Kremlin collapse almost coincided with Red China's explosion of a nuclear device, which observers believed the HANCOCK EXPRESSWAY OPENED County Commissioners Charles L. Smith and Roger Fay prepare to cut the ribbon on the Hancock Expressway, just north of Bradley Road. The 3.5 mile gravel surfaced section of the Expressway from State 29 to Security was opened to traffic at 4 p.m. Friday. Water will be used to cut down on dust until the section is paved with asphalt in May. The first 2.1 miles, beginning at Fountain St., were paved and opened July 11. Cost of the entire project was $343,000. Smith estimates that the road will carry about 20,000 cars in 24 hours.

Hubert Claims Barry Is Not Man for Job

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey Friday called Barry M. Goldwater a "part-time, off-and-on, now-and-then amateur and hobbyist" ill-equipped to be president.

Viet Forces Fight in Delta

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Four major engagements with the Communist Viet Cong were reported Thursday and Friday, with government forces mauling the foe in two battles and suffering reversals in two. Up to nightfall a total of 84 Viet Cong and 7 government dead had been reported.

Fighting was reported still raging in the southern delta region, where Vietnamese airborne units caught a major Viet Cong force, killing at least 44 of the guerrillas, American sources reported.

Hancock Expressway Links City, Security

The Hancock Expressway was opened to traffic for its full length Friday afternoon according to Charles L. Smith, county road commissioner. "Construction was completed six weeks ahead of schedule due to favorable weather and because the county acquired earth-moving equipment that helped to speed up the job."

The project, built at a cost of $343,000 by county crews, will cut the driving time between Security and Colorado Springs in half. The county engineers estimated, that if placed on private contract the expressway cost would have been nearly a million dollars.

"This saving to the taxpayers of this county will allow the road department to direct their efforts to the completion of Academy Boulevard, which was begun Thursday of last week. This section of Academy Boulevard lies between the Hancock Expressway and Drennen Road and it is anticipated that the half-mile portion will be built in the next week or ten days," Smith said.

The Hancock Expressway is now completed from Fountain Street in Colorado Springs to State Highway 29, a distance of 2.1 miles.

The remaining 3.5 miles from State 29 to Security will remain gravel surfaced until next May, at which time it will receive its asphalt paving, Smith said.

The final paving must be delayed due to unfavorable weather conditions, and until sufficient funds become available to pay the estimated $90,000 contract for final surfacing, the commissioner said.

The county intends to maintain the surface at frequent intervals to avoid roughness and al-

Mineral Firm Planning Mill

DENVER (AP) — An official of the Mineral Concentrates & Chemical Co. said in Denver Friday it plans to process basic mineral ores at its Badger Flats Mill near Lake George.

R. S. Myre, executive vice president and general manager, said this may encourage owners of closed mines in the area to reopen "since they would no longer be forced to pay freight on shipping low-grade ore to distant smelters."

The mill was opened in 1962 west of Colorado Springs to process beryllium ore. Ted Johnston, mill superintendent, said it can upgrade and separate ores containing lead, zinc, silver, copper and other ores at the rate of 50 tons per day.

Myre said such ore processing would not affect the output of beryllium ore.

Johnson Welcomes Assurance

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new rulers of the Soviet Union made a quick diplomatic bid Friday for friendly relations with the United States. President Johnson responded cordially, and cautiously opened the way for an eventual East-West summit meeting.

Acting on instructions from Moscow, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin called at the White House late Friday morning and told the President that the Soviet foreign policy of "strengthening peace, peaceful coexistence among countries with different social systems, and further relaxation of tensions" will stand unchanged despite the departure of Premier Khrushchev.

Johnson "welcomed this assurance," the President himself later announced in a statement, and said the Soviet government "could rely on the determination of the United States" to serve the cause of peace and international understanding."

Officials subsequently disclosed that Johnson also made clear to Dobrynin what he has said publicly on various occa-

Johnson Says Events Make 'Sobering Hours'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—President Johnson told an airport crowd Friday that "these are sobering hours in the history of the world" as he launched an abbreviated campaign swing through southwest Ohio.

Johnson recounted his busy day at the White House, telling the crowd he had talked to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin on the Russian leadership shakeup and met with top advisors on the dramatic news of Red China's nuclear explosion.

The President arrived aboard Air Force jet plane No. 1 and was greeted by a rousing crowd at the Greater Cincinnati Airport in nearby Covington, Ky. He had speeches in Cincinnati and Dayton Friday night before returning to Washington. He cancelled a scheduled overnight hop to Texas in order to return to Washington.

Johnson confirmed that he would meet with his National Security Council Saturday at the White House. He also formally disclosed that he talked by telephone with newly-elected British Prime Minister Harold Wilson earlier Friday and expressed hope the two could meet at some future date.

At the airport, the president said that although fast-paced foreign events made this one of

Charges Filed Against Three Men Friday

Criminal charges were filed against three men in District Court Friday afternoon.

Harvey James Spencer who is on parole from the Leavenworth, Kan., Federal Penitentiary was charged with burglary and larceny.

Spencer, 34, no permanent address, was released from the penitentiary less than one month ago after serving five and a half years for bank robbery. He is alleged to have broken into School District No. 8, Fountain High School, and stolen $632 and a movie camera worth $300, Oct 8.

The defendant was picked up Oct. 14 after he got into a hassle with a Ft. Carson man and pulled a gun on him. Bond was set at $2,500 by Judge William M. Calvert.

Ronald White, 24, Ft. Carson was charged with the Oct. 14 burglary of the Phillips Smith Drug Co. 131 S. Tejon St. and bond set at $2,500.

White is allegedly to have admitted to police 14 other burglaries since July. Earlier this year he was charged with the burglary of the Kerr Motor Co. 114 W. Colorado Ave. and after he pleaded guilty Sept. 4 was sentenced for an indefinite period in the State Reformatory, Buena Vista and then placed on probation by Judge Calvert Sept. 18.

James Leadrue Jones, 25, of Denver was charged with simple robbery and bond was fixed at $2,500.

According to the information filed against him the defendant stole a cash box from Delmar Chenoweth Oct. 9. The amount of money in the box was not specified.

"The American people must choose for the president of the United States between a dedicated professional in the arts and science of government — Lyndon B. Johnson — and a part-time, off-and-on, now-and-then amateur and hobbyist — Barry Goldwater."

Humphrey also attacked Goldwater for his suggestion that some nuclear weapons could be classified as conventional.

"The world entered a new era at Los Alamos in 1945, an era fraught with greater perils than any mankind has known before," Humphrey said.

"Sen. Goldwater cannot deal responsibly with the most fearful crisis of our time if he ignores its existence, if he argues that a tactical nuclear weapon is just an oversized hand-grenade."

Red Complains Of Candidates

DENVER (UPI)—Henry Winston, 53, former organizational secretary of the American Communist Party, said Thursday party leaders didn't approve of President Johnson but would like it even less if Sen. Barry Goldwater became president.

Winston was in Denver on a coast-to-coast trip to explain the Communist campaign position.

He said Goldwater wanted to repeal social gains of recent years and wanted to impose a racist and reactionary regime in the United States.

Winston criticized President Johnson for refusing to withdraw American troops from Viet Nam and for his alleged failure to use the powers of his office to protest civil rights.

He pointed out the Communist Party did not endorse either presidential candidate.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. Navy in the Pacific will remain unaltered despite the explosion of Communist China's first nuclear bomb, the 1st Fleet commander, Vice Adm. Lawson P. Ramage, said Friday.

All local Forest Service personnel are on radio alert for forest fires in the 1.4 million acre Pike National Forest.

During the past week, sunny weather has dried the no longer green forest and pushed the fire danger to "very high," according to G. Weidenhaft, supervisor of Pike National Forest. Similar conditions exist in Black Forest and throughout the state.

This weekend, as Eastern Slope hunters open the deer and elk season on the Western Slope, Forest Service crews will be touring the aspen areas near Colorado Springs, on the lookout for fires.

The Forest Service says that hunter's campfires, uncrushed cigarettes and unbroken matches are the primary causes of forest fires in October.

October is the worst month for forest fires in Colorado. In October 1962 there were 25 fires in Pike National Forest. There were less last year.

Approximately 30,000 hunters are expected to try their luck when Eastern Slope deer season opens Oct. 24. Some of them will probably start forest fires unless they are careful, the Forest Service says.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Treasury Department official E. E. Minskoff has denied he offered immunity to importer H. Medill Sarkisian if he co - operated in a government investigation.

Sarkisian's attorney, Robert T. Kingsley, charged in a U.S. District Court affidavit that Minskoff, chief of enforcement of the foreign assets control division, made the promise in May 1962.

Treasury Department officials hand raided Sarkisian's shop in Denver at that time. Sarkisian later was indicted by a grand jury under charges of violating the federal Trading with the Enemy Act by importing goods from Red China.

Kingsley said Minskoff told him if Sarkisian produced all the imports in questio and consented to publicity about the seizure, he would be subject only to civil penalties, confiscation of the objects and possible duty payments.

Minskoff said in Washington there never was any such promise made.

Rusk Says China Ban Atom Talk Phony

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday branded Red China's call for a world summit conference to eliminate nuclear weapons as a "smokescreen" to curry favor with the neutral world.

As did President Johson earlier in the day, Rusk said China's explosion of its first nuclear device was fully anticipated by the United States and taken into account in U.S. nuclear planning.

He made the remarks in a recorded interview.

Wednesday. He has asked the FBI for a full investigation.

It was learned Friday that after Jenkins' first arrest in 1959, the Washington metropolitian police asked the FBI to check Jenkins' fingerprints to determine whether he had a previous criminal record.

The FBI reported that the man had no such record.

The police card bore the notation "investigation suspicion." Apparently neither the police nor the FBI realized at the time that Jenkins was Johnson's top aide.

In April, 1961, at the Secret Service's request for a check on Jenkins, the FBI turned up the "investigation suspicions" notation and informed the Secret Service.

Ironically, Jenkins only last month advised the heads of federl departments and agencies to have the FBI check the backgrounds of prospective appointees.

In a memorandum dated Sept 10, Jenkins said "it would be unfortunate if undesirable individuals were put on the federal payroll simply because sufficient precautions were not taken prior to their appointment."

Jenkins urged that security name checks be made before a person is seriously considered for appointment, and especially before a firm commitment is made to appoint him.

In 1958, when Johnson was Senate Democratic leader, Jenkins was the subject of an FBI security check relating to access to classified material from the Atomic Energy Commission.

There is no knowledge of any subsequent security investigation having been made of Jenkins, either during Johnson's vice presidency or his presidency.

British PM Educated in State Schools

after Queen Elizabeth had named him to form a new government.

Before making the broadcast, Wilson conferred with top Labor party leaders at his new quarters in the official prime minister's residence and announced the first of his Cabinet appointments.

They included:

Foreign minister — Patrick Gordon Walker.

First secretary of state and minister of economic affairs — deputy party leader George Brown.

Defense minister — Denis Healey.

Chancellor of the exchequer — James Callaghan.

It was announced that Brown will be acting prime minister when Wilson is abroad. But he will not have the formal title of deputy prime minister.

Also appointed were Herber Bowden, lord president of the council and leader of the House of Commons; Lord Gardiner, lord chancellor; and Edward Short, government chief whip. The remainder of the Cabinet will be announced Saturday.

Labor's margin of victory had been so thin — not more than eight and possibly only four seats — that there was immediate speculation that Wilson might be forced to call new elections within a year.

Pravda Throws Book At Nikita Khrushchev

leaders here knew was coming almost to the minute.

Pravda, again without mentioning Khrushchev by name, said the Soviet Union could not "tolerate armchair methods, personal decisions and disregard for the practical experience of the masses."

The reference to the masses was a clear indication that the party's grass-roots soundings showed discontent with such things as the agricultural failures that forced Khrushchev to buy wheat from Canada and the United States.

The editorial said the new regime would carry out Khrushchev's policies of peaceful coexistence and support for the new nations of Africa and Asia. It also said the new men would go ahead with his plans for a Red summit showdown with Red China, but this was met with a certain amount of skepticism.

The charges against Khrushchev were brought up at a meeting of the Communist party Central Committee which began Monday.

Mrs. Rocky Gets Part-Time Child Custody

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller Friday won custody for two months a year of the four children she gave up to marry New York's governor.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph Gagliardi, who made the ruling, also gave Mrs. Rockefeller custoday of the children for brief holiday periods each year.

Gagliardi issued a supplemental decision late Friday settling the bitter custody fight between the state's first lady and Dr. James S. Murphy, the man she divorced to marry Rockefeller.

Gagliardi acted when attorneys for the two sides failed to reach an agreement on visitation rights.

The children — James, 13; Margaretta, 11; Carol 8; and Malinda, 4 — were awarded to Murphy last month in a custody fight initiated by the governor's wife. She had sought full custody of the children on grounds they were unhappy with their father. But Gagliardi ruled for Murphy.

The case then went back to Gagliardi for the fixing of visitation and vacation rights.

"The petitioner (Mrs. Rockefeller) shall have the right to have the children with her approximately two months of the summer vacation, the precise period to be fixed in the judgment," Gagliardi's decision said.

The court also ruled that Mrs. Rockefeller would get the children every alternate weekend during the school year, starting Nov. 13, the visitation period to begin Friday after school and terminate Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Rockefeller also will get the children for half of the Christmas and Easter vacations and "each of the parents shall have the children for some portion of Christmas day and Easter Sunday, respectively," according to the ruling.

Sante Fe Chief Involved in Crash

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (UPI) —All passengers and crewmen escaped injury Thursday night in a collision involving the Santa Fe Railway's westbound Chief and its east bound Super Chief.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight, just after the Chief had pulled into a siding about six miles east of here to await passage of the east bound train.

Barry Against Integration By Force

in an address prepared for delivery in Chicago.

It was his first major civil rights speech of the presidential campaign. He chose to make it in this politically strategic city with the nation's second largest Negro population and a history of school integration strife.

"It is wrong to compel children to attend schools restricted to members of their own race, however that may be defined," Goldwater said.

"It is also wrong to forbid children to attend schools restricted to members of another race. I condemn this sort of segregation because it is compulsory.

"To me it is wrong to take some children out of the schools they would normally attend and bus them to others—just to get a mixture of ethnic and racial groups that somebody thinks is desirable. This forced integration is just as wrong as forced segregation."

Before flying here in a bid for Illinois' 27 electoral votes Goldwater:

—Told corn belt crowds at Sioux City, Iowa, and the national corn picking contest near Sioux Falls, S.D., that he would "never jerk the rug from under the American farmer." He said the Republicans promise "an honest to God effort to solve the farm problem in a way that will not hurt the farmer" and estimated it would take "five, six or seven years" to make the GOP farm policy work.

—Expressed the belief it would be many years before Communist China develops a capability to "deliver" an atomic bomb. He gave the assessment as he cruised on the Missouri River in a gala rivercade at Sioux City.

Isbell Fades Into Larger Carolina Storm

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Ex-Hurricane Isbell, stripped of her tropical trappings, lost her identity Friday and was swallowed up by a larger storm over central North Carolina.

Isbell first lost her hurricane status early in the day when she moved ashore at Morehead City, N.C., her top winds down to 50 miles per hour.

The center of the new storm was north of Raleigh, N.C., near the North Carolina-Virginia border — and heading for a windy, wet passage through southeastern Virginia and up the coast.

Severe thunderstorms and "the possibility of one or two tornadoes" were foreseen by the Weather Bureau as the disturbance moved northeast. The danger was seen for an area extending from northeastern North Carolina all the way to southern New Jersey.

Heavy rains were predicted for Virginia, Maryland and Delaware, with high tides along the coast.

Isbell's top winds were down to 50 m.p.h. but her winds and heavy rains, with accompanying rising tides, still posed a threat to coastal areas in her path. The threat did not lessen when she merged with the larger storm.

Gales and tides two to four feet above normal were forecast for the area from the Virginia Capes to the Maryland coast, and for later Friday night as far north as New Jersey.

The Norfolk Weather Bureau predicted moderate to considerable flooding in the port city.

so to keep as much water as possible on it to alleviate dust, Smith explained.

Motorists may get on the Hancock Expressway by way of Fountain Street and South Hancock or at Main Street in Security. A new traffic light has been provided at the S. A. Wilson School in Security to safeguard the children in the area as a result of the increased traffic load.

Smith stated that he hoped the people in the Fountain Valley area would avail themselves of this facility as it will eliminate several railroad grade crossings as well as providing a more direct route into Colorado Springs. Posted speeds on the road will necessarily be lower for the present than when the paving is installed next spring, he said.

Johnson Says Events Make 'Sobering Hours'

the sobering hours in history, "there still is no more serious business than the election of the leadership of the strongest nation of the free world."

He said he was campaigning to fullfill his commitments to explain to the American people his policies.

The Chief Executive emphasized that the country needs "responsibility in foreign affairs." Without naming his rival, GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, Johnson added:

"We shouldn't have to worry about a nervous finger pushing the button that could wipe out 300 million lives."

He emphasized the theme of prosperity, pointing out that his anti - poverty program is designed to abolish hardship still afflicting "one-fifth of the people of this country."

He promised to wage a progressive campaign and discredited attempts of "mud-slinging and muck - raking" which he said he had observed "lost candidates more votes than it gained them."

Before a crowd of 40,000 in Cincinnati's Fountain Square, Johnson said, "Over the last 24 hours the meaning of this election has become clear."

"The strength of arms alone is not enough. Only by strength and stability and steadiness can we lead the cause of freedom in the world," Johnson said.

The President said "we can not know what lies ahead. We know there is peril...we know there are trials." He said the course to be chosen in Moscow and the course to be pursued in Peking will be guided by what Americans do in the American elections, "so be sure of what you do."

sions: that he is willing to go anywhere at any time and undertake any action which will advance the cause of world peace.

That is the kind of language he has used when talking about the possibility of an East-West summit conference. It involves no commitments but is a way of opening the door for future action if events justify such a course.

The Dobrynin-Johnson meeting was symbolic. It served as a first answer to the question of what kind of relations do Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin, who have succeeded Khrushchev, want with the United States. Dobrynin and Johnson played their roles for maximum emphasis on the symbolism of U.S.-Soviet Cooperation.

Officials said privately that they don't quite know what this means for the future but for the present it is encouraging, in the light of Johnson's policy of seeking accommodations with the Soviet Union by international agreement.

ELECTRIC FURNACE — New electric furnace by American Furnace Company, St. Louis, can heat entire home or apartment from closet. Hidden behind folding door, the quiet, compact unit can be combined with central air conditioning equipment and electronic filter to provide complete year-around comfort from same small space. Chimneyless furnace also can be installed in utility room, basement or other convenient location.

New Furnaces Offer Key to Yearly Comfort

Compact electric furnaces which can be combined with central air conditioning to provide clean, quiet, year-around comfort from a space as small as a closet have been introduced by American Furnace Company, St. Louis.

Designed to heat and cool apartments and homes with 800 to 3,000 square feet of living space, the new chimneyless furnaces also are recommended for multiple installation in large homes where zoned systems are desired.

Largest of the 10 models in the new UL - approved series requires only about five square feet of floor space, the smallest only three square feet. The furnaces can be installed in closets, utility rooms, basements, or other convenient locations.

Comparable in price with warm air furnaces using other fuels, the electric units actually can save the home buyer money by eliminating the need for a chimney.

The new AFCO units employ the familiar forced air principle of residential heating. As the thermostat calls for heat, the furnace blower moves pre-filtered air over a series of safe nickel - chrome wire electric elements encased in double walled steel. The air is warmed by the elements, then pushed through ducts and registers to all areas of the home.

With the addition of air conditioning equipment, the same blower, ducts, and registers will circulate cool, filtered air in summer.

Four of the new electric furnace models actually are combination heating and air conditioning units. They have built-in cooling coils which operate with air conditioning equipment to provide whole - house cooling in the summer.

Ohter models can be combined with any properly sized AFCO cooling unit at the time of original installation or in an easy, economical conversion later.

In addition to air conditioning, the units also are designed to accept the company's optional electronic air filters to complete a compact and highly - efficient all - electric comfort system. These filters will eliminate up to 90 per cent of the airborne dust, dirt, pollen, and other irratants circulating through the home.

The modern - styled furnace cabinets are of double - wall heavy gauge steel construction, enameled in a two - tone neutral color.

BREAK FOR HOME BUYERS

Predictions by some building experts that housing starts may be down slightly in 1964 may mean a break for today's new home buyer. When home builders find themselves competing more vigorously for the building dollar it can mean more quality features for the buyer. Such items as ceramic floor and wall tile, central air conditioning and heating, and built - in kitchen appliances should be even more prevalent in the 1964 housing market.

FOOD CHEAPER

The products of U. S. farms are now so cheap and plentiful that American spend only 18.7 per cent of their after - tax income for food, as compared to 30 per cent for families in England, and nearly 50 per cent in Russia, according to Time.

KARACHI — All types of fabric are needed in Pakistan for making parachutes.

Custom Design Is Beautiful And Practical

Women can't be standardized. Consider that, and you'll see why more and more homemakers insist on custom - designed kitchen cabinets. Given a choice, a gal willingly will sacrifice little luxuries in a house in favor of putting those dollars into a truly workable kitchen.

Custom designing allows for differences of opinion and habit — a most necessary ingredient in the kitchen. A cook's procedures and methods are as personal a matter as her collection of pots and pans, and it's far more sensible to build the kitchen to suit the lady than the other way around.

Personalized design also counts high for efficiency. Cabinets can be tailored for their specific contents, saving space — and motion. They can also be placed just where needed to separate the kitchen into time-saving work centers.

Cooking operations go near the range, with needed utensil drawers and condiment shelves. Salad making and general food preparation goes between the sink and refrigerator. China cabinets are located close to dishwasher and breakfast nook.

The baking center should be near the ovens, if they are separated from sufrace burners, and here you can treat yourself to all sorts of specials. The mixer can be set on a shelf that pulls out and up from base cabinets, locking into position at counter level. You can build in an extra - wide breadboard, flour and sugar dispensers, and give yourself counter space without overhead cabinets.

Equally important, custom design means beauty. The kitchen is a hard-work area, and beauty helps you whistle while you work. For cabinets prestige western woods like west coast hemlock can be specified and the finish can be a clear, washable plastic lacquer that captures all the wood's natural beauty while insuring easy upkeep.

Ladies who like to decorate will also appreciate golden hued hemlock for its compatibility with other textures and colors. The wood's fine vertical graining allows a choice of counter and floor materials with as much or as little pattern as desired. In colors, it combines beautifully with intriguing schemes like pink and charcoal, the blues and blue -greens, and even with butter yellow to orange hues.

A final point in favor of custom building is that advantage can be taken of extras for little cost. Quality hardware is in this category and includes not only easily grasped, easily cleaned door pulls, but also glides for drawers and for pull - out shelves in base cabinets. Adjustable shelving would be another desirable extra.

TEMPERATURE TIP

For ideal comfort conditions, the temperature along the floors in your home should be at least 65 degrees and never higher than 80 degrees this fall and winter, American Furnace Company, St. Louis manufacturer, advises.

Do You Wish You Had This Charming Well?

By BILL MEYERRIECKS

Rustic charm and tranquility are the general impressions that this week's Sketchbook design plan offer. These are found in the Wishing Well, plan S-183. A wishing well in the garden of your home also is a very practical fixtur.

Besides its decorative appeal, the well does serve as a useful garden center. It can store the garden hose as well as other gardening tools. Or it can be the centerpiece for an informal outdoor party with the refreshments right at hand in and around the well. You can use it for any number of things besides its basic decorative purpose.

Building the wll from the Sketchbook plan is a pleasant cool weather pastime that the entire family can enjoy. Our Sketchbook plan is designed to make the building of the well as easy as possible. The structure above the well is made from standard - size lumber only. You may well have enough scrap wood around the house to hold down the modest cost of these materials. The plan gives all details, sizes and steps of the entire project even to the concrete and stone work necessary for the well itself. You can adapt the plans to fit your own specifications and landscape situation.

You can add personal touches. A stout tree log or branch would add an even more rustic look to the well for the winlass and a small nail keg would serve as the bucket. However, the Sketchbook plan gives construction details of those parts. The plan is available through this newspaper for 50 cents. Sending for it will make the essential part of your long - held dream of a real wishing well come much closer to reality.

PICK THE SPOT in your garden that you wish this simply built wishing well to occupy, send for the plan to build it —and you're well on the way to having it become a reality. The well stands eight foot high at its peak, with the outside diameter of the well's wall approximately 52". You can adapt measurements to fit your particular circumstances. You can order SKETCHBOOK PLAN S-183 by filling out the coupon below, cutting it out and mailing with 50 cents to SKETCHBOOK in care of this newspaper.

House Plans You Can Buy

By Hiawatha Estes, AIBD

Which to build — a three or a four bedroom home? This is the question which constantly faces many home builders. However, it must be decided before they can make the final selection of their building plans. To make this decision easier, we have designed both a three and a four bedroom plan with the same front elevation.

Our three bedroom design, plan No. 30020, contains 1388 square feet while the four bedroom design, plan No. 4936, has 1585 square feet. In both plans, the living room - dining, entry, front bedrooms and garage are identical.

The center hall design gives splendid circulation to every section of the house. The entry is well lighted by the stationary window next to the front door.

The garage door has been offset so as to offer space along one wall for the location of the furnace and water heater. This also provides storage — or workshop space — at the front of the garage. The fireplace also extends into the garage so as to take up less space in the living room.

Wide wardrobes have been provided for all bedrooms in each of the plans. The wardrobes for the master bedroom in plan No. 4936 are in a dressing area. Both plans have an ample sized linen closet plus two closets near the front entry. Plan No. 30020 also has a huge closet, near the family bath, that opens to the hall.

From the entry, one has a good view of the fireplace. The combined living room and dining ell is 27' - 6" in length! Wide windows at the front corner of the living room add to the exterior appearance and offer a wide view toward the street. Sliding glass doors in the dining ell offer access to the patio.

Each of the master bedrooms has the luxury of a private bath. Both of the family baths feature pullman lavatories.

This den — or extra bedroom — is accessible from either the entry or the bedroom hall.

The gable roof extending over the front entry and stone planters add immeasurably to the attractive appearance of this handsome contemporary exterior.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $8.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until February 11, 1965. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Hallmark Homes - $1; Homes by Hiawatha - $1; Town & Country Homes - $1; Homes For Living - $1; Distinctive Homes - $1; Ranch & Modern Homes - $2. All books - a $7 value - only $5. Send all orders for either plans or books to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-CH, Northridge, California.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: We picked up several rolls of vinyl wall covering at a bargain price because of slight imperfections and plan to redo our kitchen walls. We also bought a special paste for this kind of material. Can you tell us whether the walls have to be treated first?

ANSWER: Yes, proper wall preparation is necessary. The walls must be washed with a strong ammonia solution and allowed to dry thoroughly before hanging the vinyl covering. However, if the walls have a gloss paint on them, as so many kitchen walls do, they must be sanded or steel wooled before the ammonia washing.

Walls which have decided spots or streaks or sharp light and dark contrasted areas must be given a prime coat of flat paint or covered with a special lining paper. The lining paper also is necessary before applying the vinyl covering to heavily textured walls. This type of material should be butted and not overlapped.

STOCK PURCHASE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Conde Nast Publications Inc. announced Friday it plans to offer to purchase 200,000 shares of its common stock at $14.50 per share.

Fireplace Can Be Everything Your Heart Desires

Is your fireplace everything your hearth desires? Or is it more nuisance than it's worth?

If the latter is the case, it may be due to a faulty flue. More likely it's because the fireplace is surfaced with a material that's easily soiled and hard to clean.

The solution is to resurface your fireplace with a durable material such as ceramic tile. Real tile is ideal for fireplaces because it cannot be burned or scratched. It's easily cleaned, too. All that's necessary is an occasional quick wipe with a damp cloth.

Tile also will add a decorative touch to your fireplace. You can choose from more than 250 colors and shades, plus a variety of shapes, including square, rectangular and triangular, measuring from one inch to nearly a foot on each side.

FURNISHING YOUR BEDROOM

After you have determined whether you want a full sized bed, twin beds, or king size bed you can start planning your bedroom.

Mrs. Ford

The bed or beds are usually placed against the largest wall space in the room.

Twin beds used side by side, and attached to a king size headboard with swing-away hinges, take less space than twin beds which are separated with a night stand in between, and are therefore often used where space is a problem.

Twin beds used this way have an advantage over the huge king sized mattress since they take standard size sheets and bedspreads and are easier to make up.

After your beds are in place you can then determine the amount of wall and floor space left over for dressers, chests and chairs. If you find only one large wall space available, you may want an extra large double or triple dresser which will solve all of your "drawer space" worries.

Always try to leave room for a comfortable chair or chaise. Wall to wall carpeting or area rugs are equally popular.

We invite you to take advantage of our free decorating service.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: In the Bible God created Adam and Eve. Now we believe or think that this man and woman were white. My question is: where did the colored people come from? —K. L.

ANSWER: It is interesting that you should think that Adam and Eve were white. Orientals think of Adam and Eve as being of their race; and Negroes think of them as being colored. The truth is: we are all so race-bound that we think in the color of our own skins. This is natural, but hardly logical. The race problem will never begin to be solved until we begin to see things through the eyes of the other person, and other races.

We naturally think of Jesus as being white. Many paintings of Christ show Him to be white, but the truth of the matter is: people reared in the hot sun of Palestine are a swarthy color or light brown—and our Savior must have had a skin color similar to the people of that region.

Where did the colored people come from? From the same place we did: from the hand of our Creator, and to despise them, or for them to despise us, it to despair of God's handiwork.

QUESTION: I see that you believe in hell. How can an intellectual person believe in such a medieval concept? I really didn't know that any educated preachers believed in hell any more. —F.L.

ANSWER: I am surprised that a modern person like you does not believe in hell. You can see it all around you—in the empty, purposeless lives of people who have no faith and no cause. You can see it on television any evening—in the modern jungles where men drink, lust, cheat, and kill their way into hell. You can read about it in the newspapers — where men rob, embezzle, and lie their way into hell by the hundreds and thousands. Ask the doctors, the psychiatrists, and the clergymen, if they believe in hell, and they will tell you that it is all around us. The Bible also teaches there is a future hell for those who reject God's mercy!

But the good news of the Gospel is that we need not live in hell, nor go to hell. The Gospel is that man is free to choose heaven or hell. You can be good by the grace of God, or good for nothing without Him. You can be a saint or a bum. Hell is not necessarily something people want, but the road that leads there, they deliberately take. It is the road that leads away from God.

Bill for Testimonial Dinner Not Yet Paid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board chairman of Airlift International Inc.—formerly Riddle Airlines — told stockholders Thursday that a $16,000 bill for transporting 80 persons to Las Vegas, Nev., and back in April, 1963, for a testimonial dinner in honor of Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., remains only partly paid.

But James H. Carmichael declined to say how much had been paid. "There has been a partial payment of the charter fee," he said. "A proper bill has been made for the remainder. Efforts are being made to assure its payment."

Carmichael said the bill had been sent by mistake to Bobby Baker, who later resigned as secretary to Senate Democrats. "Baker apparently had nothing to do with the charter," Carmi-

PRAYERS REMEMBERED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mme. Helena Rubinstein has given $10,000 to a Catholic convent whose sisters remembered her in their prayers at the time she defied two holdup men, it was announced Wednesday.

The 92-year-old cosmetics manufacturer was so impressed by a letter she received from the Sisters of Christian Charity in Mendham, N.J., last May that she made the gift through the Helene Rubinstein Foundation. She earmarked the money for the education of future teachers in the order.

Mme. Rubinstein forced two thugs to flee from her luxurious triplex penthouse on Park Avenue May 2 after refusing to open a safe at gunpoint.

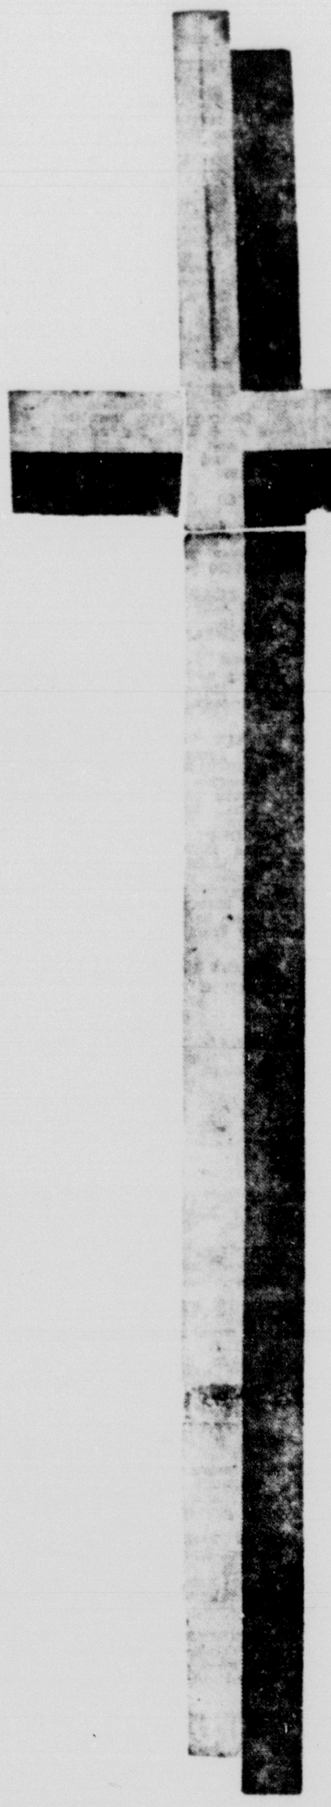
Worship In Church Every Week



ARE YOU COVERING UP

— why the mask? Is the strain of the business world too much? Are you actually that other person?

Why the mask? When caught in the transforming grace of that cover you claim a wonderful appreciation ... the wrinkles soften ... your approach is so different. And so it is with your life and mine, — with your strength, — courage, — patience and even with your church. Too often these attributes can be seen only through your mask ... friends don't see you as you really are. The true self is translated and reflected through the false cover. Don't be deceived. Your wrinkles, your outlook on life will never be softened and humanized by a mask. Please discard it forever. Your better self need ever be reflected from the lower reaches of your soul.

Don't Cover Up!

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. You in the Church and the Church in you form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Zion Temple Plans Gospel Concert

James Cleveland and the Cleveland Singers from Los Angeles, Calif., will present a concert at 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 8, in East Junior High School, 1600 N. Union Blvd. The concert is under the auspices of Zion Temple United Church of God.

Cleveland and his singers specialize in gospel and spiritual music and their recordings are sold throughout the nation.

Admission will be $1.00 in advance and $1.25 at the door. Persons who plan to attend should purchase tickets early as there is a limited supply. Tickets are available at Todd's Shoe Shop, Bumpers Beauty Bar, Price's Barber Shop, the Cotton Club, Pastor E. M. Sanders and members of the church. Pastor Sanders hopes that friends and the public will attend.

Missionary Speaks At Two Churches

Clarence Herrin, missionary to the Indians in the Kiamichi Mountains, Oklahoma, will speak at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at The Little Chapel of the Hills in Divide. He will also speak at Central Christian Church in Colorado Springs at 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Prior to his work as a missionary, Herrin was minister of the Christian Church in Commerce City.

The Kiamichi Mountains is where the "greatest gathering under heaven" takes place each year. Some 4,000 men from all over America attended the convention this year, including the Rev. K. O. Backstrand, minister of Central Christian.

Music Director Appointed

The Rev. C. L. Moser, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, announced that John Fetler has been appointed director of music. Fetler assumed his post at the beginning of October.

Active in the promotion of church music, choir festivals and choir clinics, Fetler has, in past years, served a number of other churches in Colorado Springs and in Evanston, Ill. He received his musical education at Lawrence College, Wisconsin, the University of Minnesota, the Chicago Conservatory, and under the composer-conductor Noble Cain. Fetler also writes extensively about music.

The choir is currently preparing for its annual Christmas cantata to be presented in the church.

First Lutheran Introduces Study Series

The issues of the world today, a new series delving into current problems confronting churches and congregations, will begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. at First Luthern Church. The Rev. George Housewright will deliver the first of six monthly presentations sponsored by the social ministry committee. The programs are open to anyone interested.

Subjects to be discussed include juvenile delinquency, the population explosion, war and peace, the United Nations, the Christian and politics. Pastor Housewright will discuss "The Church in Relation to Contemporary Society." For many years a parish minister, he was chosen by the United Lutheran Church to serve on its area evangelism staff where his role was to cousel members, churches and synods on the church's outreach into the world of today. He became pastor of St. Paul's Church in Denver.

Each program will last ninety minutes with time for questions included.

Mrs. James Wincek was elected this week as chairman of the South Colorado District, Lutheran Church Women.

Catholicism Classes Start At Ft. Carson

Chaplain (1st Lt.) Howard W. Johnson, is starting a series of adult instructions in Catholicism each Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m. at Fort Carson.

The chaplain is the only priest from the Diocese of Natchez, Miss., on active duty as an army chaplain.

Chaplain Johnson is a graduate of St. Bernad's Seminary, Cullman, Ala., and was ordained in his home parish, St. James, at Leland, Miss. He was zn assistant pastor at St. Joseph's Church, Greenville, Miss., where he taught religion at the high school there before he came on army duty. He is a recent graduate of the Army Chaplain School, Fort Hamilton, N.Y.

Chaplain (Capt.) Donald K. Adickes, an honor graduate of the career course at the Army Chaplain's School, Fort Hamilton, N.Y., has been assigned as the new Lutheran chaplain at Fort Carson.

Chaplain Adickes earned his AB degree in 1954 from Gettysburg College where he lettered in track, basketball and golf. Chaplain Adickes received his BD from Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia in 1957 and was ordained that June in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Village Church To Install New Minister

The Rev. Lamar Hocker of San Antonio, Texas, has accepted the assignment to serve as minister of the Village Christian Church. He assumed his duties the first of October.

Formal installation services will be held during the morning worship service Sunday. Representing the Christian Churches of Colorado (Disciples of Christ) will be Dr. Maurice Lyerla, executive secretary of Christian Churches of Colorado and Wyoming.

Also attending are representatives of the First Christian Church, the Pikes Peak Council of Churches and the local Ministerial Alliance. Dr. A. R. Brown, Jr., chairman of the official board of Village Christian, will preside.

The Rev. Hocker, formerly pastor of the Alamo Heights Christian Church in San Antonio, holds a B.A. degree from Texas Christian University; a B.D. degree from Brite Divinity School and has done recent graduate work at Brite. His former pastorates include Texas, Georgia and North Carolina.

A reception will follow the service. Visitors are invited to attend.

Pastor - Coach Speaks Sunday

The man who will deliver the homecoming sermon at Colorado College Sunday morning also is the assistant coach of the football team the Tigers will face at their homecoming game today.

He is The Rev. Dr. James Kallas, Professor and chairman of the department of religion at California Lutheran College and assistant coach of the visiting football team. Prof. Kallas' sermon is entitled "The Core of the Gospel, the Resurrection." Services will be at 11 a.m. in Shove Chapel. The Rev. Mr. Kenneth Burton, associate professor of religion and minister of Shove Chapel, will be worship leader.

Prof. Kallas, a graduate of Saint Olaf College in Minnesota, recieved his doctorate at Durham College in England where he was a Fulbright Fellow.

BISHOP R. MARVIN STUART

Bishop Stuart To Visit Springs Area

R. Marvin Stuart, Denver area Bishop of The Methodist Church, will arrive Friday for the purpose of getting acquainted with ministers and laymen in the Colorado Springs area and surrounding communities. His itinerary this month will also take him through Utah.

Elected to his office as Bishop in July, he succeeds Bishop Glenn R. Phillips who headed the Denver area from 1948 until August of this year.

Among the goals he has listed for himself in his new office are: Being a pastor to the ministers of the Denver Area and their families; providing an atmosphere in which experimentation can take place, both as to program and theology; encouraging laymen to take a more direct role in the life of the church; supporting ministers who are willing to speak out and take action on controversial issues; keeping the concept of world missions central in thinking and planning; and keeping the proper perspective by not allowing "busy-ness" of administration to deter from the deepening of the spiritual life, the sharpening of mental resources and making the church more relevant.

Arrangements for Bishop Stuart and his family are being made by the Rev. Sigurd E. Burch Jr., pastor of Trinity Methodist Church.

Navigator To Preach

The Rev. Lorne Sanny, president of the Navigators, has chosen "Is The Wool in Your Eyes?" as his sermon topic Sunday at Evangelical Presbyterian Church.

Sanny has been president of the Navigators since 1956. His background includes directing the follow-up work and training of personal counsellors for most of the Bill Graham crusades from 1951 to 1956.

Guest speaker at the 7 p.m. service will be Dame Corrie ten Boom, author, world traveler, and lecturer, who conducted a week's crusade at the church last March while writing her latest book, "A Prisoner and Yet," which deals with her experiences while a prisoner in a German concentration camp, is being made into a movie. Dame ten Boom is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Corbin during her stay in the Springs.

The public is welcome to attend any or all services.

Church of Christ Sets Gospel Meet

The Prospect Street Church of Christ will begin two weeks of evangelistic meetings Sunday, continuing through Sunday, Nov. 1.

The Rev. Edwin Wilson, minister of the Clear Creek Church of Christ, Ashland, Ohio, will be the evangelist.

Services are Monday through Friday evenings at 7:30 and on Sunday at 7 p.m. Special music will be presented by members of visiting congregations and members of the church. The public is invited to attend.

Rabbi Jacob Speaks To Student Nurses

Rabbi Louis Jacob spoke to a class of student nurses last Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital. His subject was "Judaism, A Philosophy of Purpose."

Rabbi Jacob states he was enthusiastically flooded with a host of questions at the conclusion of his talk.

Palermos Present Program At Free Church

The "Singing Palermos," representatives of Youth for Christ, International, will appear at the First Evangelical Free Church Monday at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

The Palermos, Phil and Louie, are celebrating their 25th year as traveling, musical teen evangelists. Born in Chicago of Italian parents, the two brothers have traveled most of the world, visiting twenty - seven countries.

They have participated in Guatemala's nation - wide Evangelism - in - Depth program. A recent trip took them to the Equadorian jungles' Auca Indians.

Billy Graham in the book "Life with the Palermos," says this about them: "It has been my privilege a number of times to be associated with Phil and Louie Palermo in evangelistic endeavors. In Youth for Christ rallies and other services across North America, we have worked together to win youth especially to our Saviour. There is something refreshingly different abo the Palermo Brothers."

The Palermos have just returned from a tour of Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

Masons Will Attend Service

Masonic groups of the area have been invited to the annual Masonic service at First Methodist Church at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg and Dr. LeRoy Arend, who was an associate pastor at the church for five years, will conduct the service. Dr. Arend was presented with a 25 year pin last Monday at the Masonic meeting. The pin was sent from his lodge in Kansas.

A coordinated school is scheduled for Sunday afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock. The school offers training for leaders of local churches, pastors, official board members, commission members, Sunday School teachers and officers, and others. Dinner will be served from 6 to 7 p.m.

Assisting at the school will be Mrs. Byron Cory, Mrs. M. L. Simpson, Mrs. Harold Poch, Mrs. J. Randall Brown, who formerly served as director of Christian education, Miss Louise Dutcher, the present director of Christian education, the Rev. Don Bleyle, the Rev. Robert Gilmore, Del Doty, the Rev. James Calhoun, Byron Cory, Don Fox, and the Rev. Harold C. Knudsen.

Youth for Christ To Show New Film

Pikes Peak Youth for Christ will present the premier showing of the new sacred film, "Inhale the Incense," at the rally this week at First Assembly of God auditorium. Filmed in Hong Kong, in color, it is the story of an American businessman and his wife on a vacation trip to that city.

There will also be numerous special musical selections and a sing-a-long with Ed Schneider.

Persons of all ages and church affiliations are welcome to attend. There is no charge for admission.

Beth-El Begins Revival Sunday Morn

A series of revival meetings will begin at the Beth-El Mennonite Church Sunday at 11 a.m. There will be services nightly, Sunday through Thursday, starting at 7:30, except the Sunday evening service which will begin at 7 o'clock.

Guest preacher is Pastor LeRoy Kennel of the Lombard Mennonite Church, a suburban church near Chicago, Ill. He will speak on the theme, "The Christian Manifesto: 'Eternal Life, Now and Always.'"

A native of Nebraska, the Rev. Kennel has held pastorates in city, rural, and suburban churches. He is a graduate of Goshen College Biblical Seminary, Goshen, Ind. He also has a master's degree in communication from the State University of Iowa, and has ten years of teaching experience at Goshen College, Chicago Teachers College and Morton Junior College. He is author of the booklet "MENNONITES: WHO AND WHY."

The public is invited to attend these special services.

Church Notes Anniversary

The pastor and members of Friendship Baptist Church, 633 E. Dale St., will celebrate the church's 19th anniversary Sunday.

The Rev. F. L. Chandler, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church of Pueblo, and members of the church, will be the guests. The Rev. Chandler will also deliver the anniversary sermon.

Services begin at 3 p.m. The Rev. A. D. Coffey, and Brother W. I. Moore, anniversary chairman, extend an invitation to the public.

Teachers Return From Convention

Don Strawn and Miss Leona March, teachers of the Seventh-day Adventist Church School, returned Wednesday from a four day church school teachers' convention in Glenwood Springs.

H. V. Reid, president of the Colorado Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, was the keynote speaker. Ward Scriven, Colorado conference education superintendent, was the conference coordinator.

Cripple Creek Church Makes Progress

The United Church of Cripple Creek is a mission church helped by the board of home ministries and the Colorado conference of the United Churches of Christ. It is organized along Congregational lines.

Becoming a full time church only last November, with a membership at that time of 17 persons, the church began to move forward. With a grant of $1000 from the board of home missions, and with a lot of making-do and work by the members, it has accomplished the following: Installed two gas furnaces, a new kitchen, rest room, redecorated the sanctuary, added new wiring, and is presently working on a parking lot and new entrance.

It offers a worship service on Sunday, church school, adult Sunday school class, Bible study group, women's guild, prayer group, a coke machine and record player for young people, uses movies and other visual aids. Services are Protestant — interdenominational — and all Sacraments are offered and observed. Since it is not a profit making organization, it depends on community support. The church invites all interested persons to participate in the programs.

Historian to Speak At All Souls Church

Harold Buss, director of command history at NORAD since 1957, will speak at the All Souls Unitarian Church Sunday at 10:30 a.m. His subject is "The Battle of Los Angeles," an incident of World War II "worthy of television's 'One Step Beyond'."

The bizarre power of rumor and hysteria will be discussed with Director Buss following his talk.

Duane Jones is recovering from a bulldozer accident which occurred in Monument last week.

The Lee McKittericks closed their cabin for the winter on Sunday.

The golden wedding celebration held by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Romitti Monday at the Roman Villa was a gala event. Mrs. Romitti greeted her guests in a lovely gold brocaded gown and wore an orchid corsage. The buffet tabels were decorated with gold leaves and baskets of golden mums and yellow chrysanthemums. A large wedding cake in the sape of an open Bible was forsted in gold colored icing. Friends and relatives called from 3 o'clock in the afternoon into late evening. The couple's children who were present were, Rudolph Romitti, Des Moines; Mrs. John Belico, of Hoquiam, Wash.; Mrs. Anthony Redosevich, of Des Moines; Mrs. Del Biondi, of Colorado Springs, and Robert Romitti of Palmer Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Romitti have ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, a number of who were present for the celebration. Also present was Isadore Romitti, from Des Moines, Iowa, who was the couple's best man at their wedding in Cargedolo, Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ira have moved from their ranch on the Perry Park Road and are now living is Colorado Springs. The Iras have sold their home and part of the ranch acreage.

Mrs. David Gibbs has been staying with friends in Colorado Springs following a death in that family. On Monday, Oct. 19, Mrs. Gibbs will undergo surgery at Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Douglass Eiteman and Mrs. Tom Hafer had lunch at the Broadmoor Hotel Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. M. Scott Carpenter arrived home Friday, Oct. 17 from a vacation trip to Arizona.

Col. and Mrs. Carl F. Duffner attended a meeting of the Bishop's Committee of the Episcopal Church in Sedalia on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hutton are attending the buffet supper at the U.S. Air Force Academy Officers' Club Sunday with Lt. Col. and Mrs. Rogers McDonough.

At a recent meeting of the Palmer Lake Town Council the budget was changed from a fiscal year to an annual one. Copies of the budget for the coming year, which had been published for ten days, was heard and discussed with the members of the Council. The budget will be read at the November meeting and any corrections or additions will be made at that time. The budget should be passed at the first reading. It will go into effect January 1, 1965, instead of April 1 as in the past.

Japan Told Russian Policy Won't Change

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union advised Japan today it plans to continue its policies of peaceful coexistence, disarmament and the peaceful solution of international problems despite the replacement of Premier Khrushchev.

Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov made hte assertion in a formal call on Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina to notify him of the sudden change in the Soviet leadership.

Vinogradov made the assertion eign policy will continue to be based on the lines adopted at the 20th, 21st and 22nd Soviet party congresses. The 20th party congress was marked by the start of the de-Stalinization program and a new foreign policy based on peaceful coexistence.

The ensuing congresses restated these themes, which were initiated by Khrushchev.

CONDITION REPORTED

DENVER (UPI)— Colorado General Hospital officials said Wednesday a woman who underwent a delicate six-hour kidney transplant operation Monday was in good condition. The woman, Mrs. Gerald B. Gengveld, 35, of Tucson, Ariz., received the kidney from her sister, Mrs. Martha Bestman, 41, of Grand Rapids, Mich. A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Menkveld would have died without the healthy kidney. it was the first such transplant at the hospital since last March 30 when doctors declared a temporary moratorium on the operations.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Dr. Hulse should be the model for all young clergymen. For he zooms church attendance and even causes children to flock into the front pews to listen to his illustrated sermonettes. But he earned this popularity by his energetic use of Applied Psychology. Scrapbook this case.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE U406: Dr. E. Duane Hulse is pastor of a big church in Madison, Wisconsin.

Theological seminaries might well hold him up as a model for their graduates.

For Dr. Hulse is a superb Applied Psychologist. For example, he keeps accurate record of each Sunday's attendance to contrast with that of the previous year.

This is the competitive "free enterprise" spirit applied to religion.

Like every golfing devotee, Dr. Hulse thus tries to prod himself into a better score.

As a young man, he decided that sleight-of-hand and magic would help hold the fascinated that sleightof-hand and magic would help hold the fascinated attention of the children down front.

So he invested of his meager earnings for several years and acquired an elaborate set of magic supplies.

He then employed a bit of magic each Sunday as a relevant example of some Bible lesson.

In fact, he became so talented as a stage magician, too, that he gave professional performances for a fee.

Naturally, his child sermons thrilled the children. And also made the adults sit forward on the edges of their pews in rapt attention!

But Dr. Hulse didn't stop there. He found that teen-age boys were thrilled by aviation. even bought his own private plane, which he would fly all over the Midwest to his speaking engagements.

He was written up in the newspapers and church journals as the "Flying Parson of Wisconsin."

Lacking money for foreign travel in the Holy Land, and also to establish better rapport with service men, he became a Naval Chaplain.

And when his ship toured the Mediterranean, he took his leave so he could visit Damascus, as well as stand where St. Paul addressed the Atheneans.

He also visited Aldersgate in London, where John Wesley stood.

Then he would weave his own eye-witness accounts of such famous spots into his thrilling sermons.

While pastor at Sheboygan, he organized a new Kiwanis Club and later became Wisconsin State Chaplain for the Kiwanis.

He piloted the construction of a magnificent new church at Wisconsin Rapids and played host to the conference.

To show his alertness to his community, he brought in jugs of cranberry juice to serve at the luncheons and dinners of the visiting clergymen, just to remind them that they were in the heart of the Wisconsin cranberry country.

Meanwhile, he is a talented fisherman, both with flyrod and reel and he likes ice fishing, too.

He can thus tell you the latest data on new bait. But he has also bagged many deer and pheasants, for he is likewise versatile with a shotgun.

Even before he acquired all this varied experience he was a good speaker, but he has constantly tried to improve his oratory.

So he rates as a professional speaker, flying his plane to out-of-state lecture engagements.

All young clergymen could profitably pattern after Dr. Hulse, for then our church pews would fill up again and Christianity would be on the march

Boys Are More Fussy About Their Clothes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government survey has found that boys are more fussy about their clothes than girls.

This fact turned up in a check made by the Agriculture Department to determine the attitude of teen-agers toward natural fibers, cotton and wool, and synthetic fibers, such as rayon and nylon.

Interviews with 1,691 teen-age girls and 1,649 teen-age boys in various parts of the country showed that 33 per cent of the girls and 37 per cent of the boys were interested in selecting their clothes because they wanted to wear the right style.

Likewise, 23 per cent of the girls classified themselves as "very particular and fussy" about their clothes compared with 27 per cent of the boys.

Cotton and wool were heavily preferred over the man-made fibers for most clothing items.

Ocean Explorer Plans To Ride Gulf Stream

GENOA, Italy (AP) — Undersea explorer Jacques Piccard says he's going to ride the Gulf Stream from the South Atlantic to the North Atlantic in his deep diving bathyscaphe.

Piccard told a news conference he wants to study the underwater flow of the Gulf Stream and pick up samples of ocean flora.

The trip may take two months, said Piccard, who is attending a meeting of the world federation of underwater activities. He said he would submerge off the coast of Latin America. He didn't say when.

Missouri Favored Over Air Academy Today

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

In a pivotal game for both, the Air Force Academy will be trying to shake off any ill effects of letdown from a week ago and the University of Missouri will attempt to live up to early expectations when they clash this afternoon in Falcon Stadium.

A crowd of around 30,000 is expected for the game, a third straignt at home for the Falcons. Kickoff is planned for 1:30 p.m.

With the feeling that Missouri has yet to reach its full potential, the Tigers have been tabbed as a 5½-point favorite for the third meeting between the schools. Both come into the contest with 2-2 records — a little surprising in each case.

Mizzou has been upset twice already this season in an opening 21-14 loss at California and a Big Eight Conference setback to Oklahoma State 10-7. Victories have been posted over Utah 23-6 and Kansas State last week 7-0.

On the other hand, Air Force startled Washington in the season's inaugural 3-2, and beat Colorado State University as expected. Also expected were the defeats by Michigan and Notre Dame (although the 34-7 margin against the Irish last week was more than they had in mind).

On that basis, it would seem that the Falcons are at least one game up on the form sheet and thus it could be deduced they are a little better than many had figured. And the reverse is true for Missouri — picked in some corners as the darkhorse for the Big Eight title.

Nonetheless, Coach Dan Devine's Tigers are expected to win today by about a touchdown. This has to be a tribute to the material on hand . . . and the probable dent in spirit to the AFA after building themselves up for a tremendous letdown against Notre Dame a week ago.

What effect the game with the Fighting Irish will have on this week's game will remain to be seen. But there is bound to be some loss of strength because of the injuries alone.

The only Falcon definitely out for this Missouri tilt will be defensive safety Lloyd Duncan who was smashed up by the burly Irish. In his place will be junior Paul Stein, who was figured for the position before suffering a deep cut on his foot before the season started.

But also short of full speed will be starting offensive end Fritz Greenlee, normally the fastest on the AFA squad. Greenlee was on the doubtful list all week because of a knee injury in the loss to Notre Dame, but he will be on the field at the start.

Missouri is also nursing a few bruises after last week's close game with Kansas State, but should be able to field its regular squad. Most of the bumps were felt in the middle of the Mizzou line.

Coach Ben Martin said before the season started that the first five games would be crucial to the outcome for the entire fall. Four have gone by and that upset of Washington gave the Falcons a brighter picture than the odds had calculated. Now, a victory over Missouri could buoy the Cadets for the last half of the schedule.

Devine, too, is placing special emphasis on this game in that he would like to see his Tigers realize their potential. They still have the most rugged part of the Big Eight race yet to go with the top league powers on the tail end of the slate and can ill afford to put all their eggs in this basket.

But so far Missouri has fallen short of its paper power. They have what some consider the best backs in the history of the school, but twice have tucked their tails in upset defeats.

Big factors in sub-par performances by MU have been nine interceptions which have stalled aerial offensive threats, and the lack of strong blocking for their runners on the power sweeps around ends — the trademark of Devine teams.

Both teams are expected to try and establish their ground games early, with the Air Force attempting to balance the attack and offset the defense that's usually stacked to meet Tim Murphy's passing, and Missouri relying on the always powerful running of its beefy backs.

Still, both could go to the air quite often if given the opportunity. Murphy has proven to be accurate for the Falcons, hitting over 57 per cent of his attempts so far. For Mizzou, quarterback Gary Lane was the Big Eight leader a year ago as a sophomore and currently is second in the league statistics. However, in their most recent game, Lane threw but one pass — undoubtedly because of the interceptions against him in earlier starts.

Air Force has had its troubles running and has yet to score this year on the ground. Fumbles were the worst nemesis (losing five in the CSU affair), but it should also be remembered that they were facing three of the top defensive teams in the land in Notre Dame, Michigan and Washington.

Guy Hogle, a 200-pound junior, has been the brightest surprise among the runners and will start at left half, but the Academy is still looking for a fine season from Paul Wargo, another unior at 195. Richt half Dick Czarnota is the most versatile in the backfield, used mainly on counters and reverse plays and as a primary receiver for Murphy's passing.

Besides Lane, Missouri is also loaded with powerful backs. Johnny Roland is probably the most dangerous and will start on offense after spending most of the early games on defense.

But 201-pound Earl Denny is also a fine open field runner, as is his replacement 185-pound Charlie Brown.

The Air Force is seeking its first victory over Missouri on this third try. In 1959 they opened the series with the Tigers taking a 13-0 decision at Columbia. The next year a great Mizzou eleven demolished the Cadets 35-3 on the way to a 10-1 record and a victory over Navy in the Orange Bowl. This will be the first time MU has played in Falcon Stadium.

After these first five games, the schedule can't get much rougher for the Falcons and this is why the Air Force would like to pull the upset for morale that could last through the final games. Next week they travel to Boston College, then return for a home test with Arizona, and finish out against UCLA, Wyoming and Colorado U.

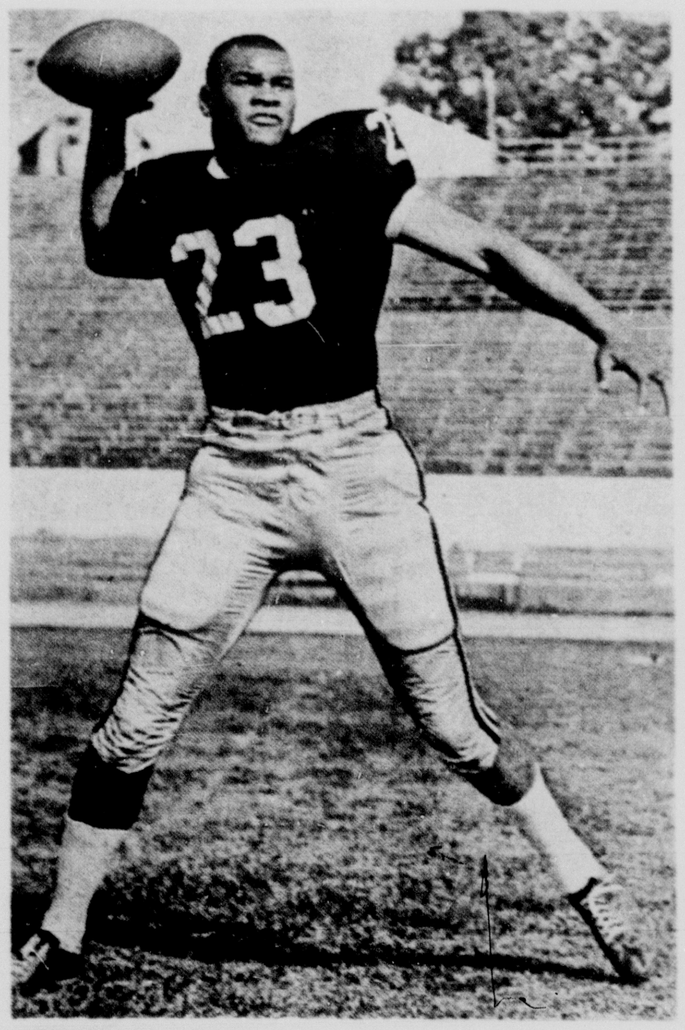
Saturday, Oct. 17, 1964 SECTION B



THREE-WAY THREAT — Missouri halfback Johnny Roland, back with the Tigers this season after being suspended from school a year ago, is a vital cog in the team's play on both offense and defense. Roland was the leading ground gainer in the Big Eight Conference as a sophomore is just getting back into stride. He can also throw the halfback pass, and is one of the best on defense. The 202-pound junior from Corpus Christi, Tex., is the team's leader in punt and kickoff returns. He missed school a year ago because of charges of stealing tires.

FALCONS TOP RUNNER—Halfback Paul Wargo is expected to see considerable action this afternoon as the Air Force Academy plays host to Missouri University in the Falcons third straight home contest of the season. Wargo, a 195-pound junior from Whittier, Calif., has been the top producer on the ground for the AFA so far this season with 97 yards on 33 carries. He has also caught five passes and has completed three of five himself. With the Academy trying desperately to get its running attack in gear, Wargo probably will be called on frequently today.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

College Prospect

A strapping younster of 17 years, Greg Cramblit generates lots of power from his 198-pound frame and the Cheyenne Mountain fullback—without doubt the finest to emerge from that school—is an awesome sight to the opposition.

His audacious antics on the gridiron have electrified the Cheyenne rooters that have grown accustomed to winning, after the Indians captured the state championship last year undefeated, and Cramblit has lived up to the accolades bestowed on him by the press which includes making the All-State first team.

Going into Friday night's encounter against Trinidad, Cramblit has accumulated 588 net yards rushing in six games for a remarkable 6.1 yard per carry average. He lugged the pigskin 96 times for the 588 yards rushing and in addition, Cramblit snatched nine aerials for 9 yards gained.

It was Cramblit's over-all performance which enabled the 1963 Cheyenne grid edition to record their first state championship. Cramblit played an outstanding game of both offense and defense, but it was his brilliant pass reception which allowed the Indians to pull out he victory over Lamar in the tate finals last year.

Cramblit established a new oring record in the Pikes Peak ague as the rampaging In- ans stormed to the loop cham- onship at 54-point per game p while the Cheyenne full- ck scored 19 touchdowns in ven games.

Despite the fact that the mbering-but-agile fullback was gued with injuries, includ- a knee infection which kept n on the sidelines for the St. ry's and Florence games t year, Cramblit managed recover in time to lead the be over beefy Durango in semi-finals and carried the jority of the ground gaining ponsibility in the state play- game against Lamar.

Cramblit was born in Center- e, Iowa, and lived there un- three years ago when his ents Mr. and Mrs. Del Cram- moved to Colorado Springs. Cheyenne's head football ch Guy Barickman rates mblit as top-rate college ball candidate. The former versity of Missouri freshman ch let this be known around mbia, Mo., and the Missouri ches were scheduled to take k at Cramblit Friday night. nford also indicated they interested in Cramblit and they were planning to send someone to look him over.

Bone Crusher

Eldon Helm, who last year led the Indians to the state championship, switched Cramblit from a tackle slot to fullback two years ago and the conversion proved successful.

Helm considers Cramblit as one of the finest fullbacks in this area and thinks he could make an outstanding college player.

Cramblit has the power and speed to make him a scoring threat each time he carries the ball. In addition to his offensive chores which includes well executed blocking, Cramblit anchors the Cheyenne defensive wall at the middle linebacker slot and performs with the same strong authority as his ball carrying.

In short, Cramblit is a keen competitor and he enjoys knocking people about. But he has the agility and speed to outrun his opponents and he has done just that this season in the Will Rogers League race which the Indians are presently leading via a 2-0 won-loss mark.

Cramblit is a good student and carts a "B" average in his senior year at Cheyenne Mountain High School. Watch for this lad on the college-front in a few years. Cramblit has all the ingredients to become a first-rate college football player.

He should make it!

Irish Two TD Favorite Today

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — UCLA's Larry Zeno-led Bruins challenge resurgent Notre Dame Saturday in an intersectional football clash which may prove the toughest test yet of the unbeaten Fighting Irish.

Ranked No. 4 in the national AP poll, new Coach Ara Parseghian's suddenly impressive Irish are two-touchdown favorites to sweep to their fourth successive triumph.

UCLA could puncture the Irish bubble, although Coach Billy Barnes' Bruins stumbled in adverse weather at Syracuse 39-0 after hurdling Pittsburgh, Penn State and Stanford.

The Irish, riding relentlessly behind the John Huarte-Jack Snow passing tandem and a bristling defense, have averaged 33 points a game in rolling over two Big Ten clubs, Wisconsin and Purdue, and Air Force.

Quarterback Zeno, UCLA's offensive kingpin, has completed 38 of 74 passes for 469 yards and seven touchdowns and has rushed 48 times for 186 yards.

But the elusive Bruin star will be confronted by an Irish defense which has yielded only 68 rushing yards and intercepted 10 passes in three games. The bruising Notre Dame defense is keyed around linebacker Jim Carroll with 45 tackles already recorded.

The Irish attack's most potent weapon is the Huarte-Snow aerial act. Huarte was hit on 31 of 59 passes for 490 yards and 6 TDs. Snow has snagged 20 passes for 358 yards and four touchdowns.

Indians' Board Elects to Stay

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians' directors voted Friday to keep their American League baseball franchise in Cleveland where it has been since the league was formed in 1901.

Because of losses from low attendance the last two seasons, the club had investigated invitations to move to Seattle, Oakland and Dallas.

The directors met for 4½ hours then announced their vote to remain in Cleveland was unanimous. General Manager Gabe Paul, who owns about 20 per cent of the stock, made the motion to keep the franchise here, and it was seconded by board chairman William R. Daley.

A statement issued from the meeting said:

"From the very beginning it has been our earnest desire to stay in Cleveland. In view of our financial experience, however, it would not have been fair to our stockholders to ignore proposals made by other cities.

"The board is aware that the decision to remain presents a considerable financial sacrifice but the cooperation of city officials and the support of the growth board and the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce and the community encourages us to feel we can succeed and operate on a sound basis here."

Friday's meeting was a resumption of a four-hour meeting Oct. 6 which was recessed. During the recess Paul visited Seattle, Dallas and Oakland, and he reported Friday to directors on the results of his investigations in those cities.

Then at the start of this week the Cleveland growth board launched a season ticket sale campaign which will continue to Dec. 1. A few hours before directors met, the board reported it had sold more than $550,000 worth of tickets, including 2,580 season tickets .Prior to the 1964 opener, only 1,925 season tickets were sold.

Another incentive to remain came from Mayor Ralph S. Locher in a report to Paul Friday morning. He said the city would cut its rent for Cleveland Stadium from seven to six per cent of gross receipts and pay approximately two-thirds of the cost of stadium help. This expense, previously borne entirely by the baseball club, had been estimated about $50,000 a season.

The Mayor promised also that the city would make extensive improvements inside and outside the stadium at a cost of about $1 million.

Prior to the Oct. 6 meeting of the directors the television contract of the Indians had been improved by $140,000 for the 1965 season.

Paul had estimated the Indians lost about $2 million in the last two seasons when their total home gates were only 562,507 and 653,293. Last year's club finished in a tie for fifth; this year in a tie for sixth.

Raiders, Pats End Game in 43-43 Tie

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Mercer's 38-yard field goal with five seconds left enabled winless Oakland to tie Boston 43-43 and erase the Patriots' edge from a fantastic double comeback in an American Football League spectacular Friday night.

Boston quarterback Babe Parilli had completed his fourth scoring pass, an 11-yarder to Larry Garron with 28 seconds to go, capping a 22-point final quarter surge. Parilli completed 24 of 45 aerials for 432 yards.

The Patriots — down by 20 points at one stage — came charging back for a 35-34 margin when Parilli found Art Graham on an eight-yard flip. Graham held onto the ball long enough for a reception although grimacing in pain from a jammed right knee.

Cotton Davidson, starting in place of Tom Flores at quarterback for Oakland, then steered his club downfield on an 84-yard drive, finished off with a nine-yard toss to Art Powell.

A sensational 59-yard play which started as a Parilli pass to Jim Colclough and ended in a double lateral to Gino Cappelletti and then Ron Burton carried Boston to the Oakland 31 setting up Boston's final points. Parilli hit Cappelletti at the 11, then found Garron all alone on a flare pass at the right corner for the final 11.

Palmer Offense, Defense Team to Stop Central

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Ben Bryant provided the offense and Claude Spears provided the defense as Palmer slipped past Pueblo Central, 15-9, Friday night in Wasson Stadium.

The win was the first for the Terros in South Central League play after a loss and a tie. Palmer bolstered its season mark to 3-2-2. Central suffered its fourth straight SCL defeat and has an 0-5-1 season record.

Bryant, Palmer's 173-pound fullback, drove for both touchdowns and Spears scored a safety when he dropped Central quarterback Emil Lenerand in the Pueblo end zone. Spears was truly a terror on defense as he penetrated the Wildcat backfield time and again to nail runners for losses.

The victory came just six days after Palmer has taken a 0-0 tie against Pueblo South. South's Colts lost to Centennial Friday, 25-0.

Pueblo's Wildcats enjoyed a 3-0 halftime lead after Lenerand reported to be hobbled with a leg injury, booted a 23-yard field goal with 2:24 left until intermission.

Palmer came back right after the second half kickoff to drive 65 yards in 11 plays. Bryant went over from the five and Spears converted to give the Terrors a temporary 7-3 lead.

The Terrors lost only one fumble all night, but it set up Central's lone TD. The Wildcats recovered on the Palmer three extra point attempts, their only penalty yardage of the night, but Central still couldn't get the extra point.

Spears ended a short Terror drive following the kickoff as he crashed a 53-yard punt to the Pueblo three - yard line. In two plays guard John Van Druff picked up a Wildcat fumble and the Terrors drove to the Pueblo 19, where Spears tried the second of three unsuccessful field goals, this one was short and Pueblo took over on its own 20.

Lenerand tried to find a receiver open to get into the middle of the field, but Spears threw him for a loss to the nine. Then the Terror end spilled Central's top runner into the end zone to tie the score with 10:04 left to play.

Palmer took the short kickoff after the safety and drove to the 18, where Spears' third field goal attempt went wide. But the Wildcats fumbled on the first play following, Frank Wilson recovering, and the Terrors went in from the 19, Bryant picking up the final yard.

Besides his fine defensive efforts, Spears booted four punts for a 46.5 average. Three of his boots counted for 53, 53 and 51 yards. The latter actually travelled 71 yards but came to rest just inside Pueblo's goal line.

Bryant performed workhouse duties as he tore through the hefty but porous Central line 27 times for 96 yards.

The Terrors travel next Friday to Trinidad.

WILDCAT GETTING CLAWED — Bill Chapparo, Pueblo Central halfback, was stopped after an 11-yard, first quarter, run Friday night by Palmer's Larry Williams ((11) and an unidentified Terror. Chapparo gained only eight yards rushing, but caught a pass for Central's only touchdown as Palmer won, 15-9. Pueblo players coming up on the play are Cliff Frazier (74) and Jack Butler (80.)

76ers Score Win Over Pistons

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Hal Greer collected 32 points and Paul Neumann 20 and triggered the Philadelphia 76ers to a 125-113 victory over Detroit Friday night in the opening game of the 1964 National Basketball Association season.

The 76ers went ahead 2-1 in the opening minute and were never headed. Philadelphia built up a 22-point advantage midway in the third period before the Pistons closed the gap in the final 10 minutes.

Detroit came within nine points of Philadelphia with just three minutes left.

U.S. Tracksters Display Good Form; Ryun Shines

TOKYO (AP) — The first crack in the United States' wall of enormous Olympic strength appeared Saturday when America's platform divers briefly took over the first two positions, then plummeted to fifth and 32nd in the seventh day of the Tokyo Games.

But that was the only cloud for the Yanks as their powerful track and swimming forces moved methodically through more qualifying rounds and promised a multiplication of their leading 19 gold medals.

Defending champion Bob Webster of Santa Ana, Calif., briefly took the lead, then dropped to fifth after four preliminary high dives.

And Louis Vitucci of Hollywood, Fla., second after three dives, dropped to last in the field of 32 after he collapsed twice in an attempt to make an armstand forward cut-through and received a score of zero.

Compounding the U.S. trouble in this event, which America has failed to win only once since 1912, was the rise of two Russians to first and second positions.

The track men, however, continued a show of U.S. strength that has dominated the Games, pushing a maximum complement of three through qualifying rounds and heats in the 1,500-meter run, hammer throw, shot put and 400-meter dash.

Young Jim Ryun, the 17-year-old Wichita schoolboy sensation, had the fastest time of the three, 3:44.4. Dyrol Burleson of Cottage Grove, Ore., was caught in 3:45.6 and Tom O'Hara, the little Chicago redhead, was timed in 3:46.7.

And the teen-age swimmers remained on their record-breaking course, smashing two more Olympic records during qualifications.

The Yanks' junior varsity did the honors in the heats of the 800-meter freestyle relay, smashing a minutes-old Games record with a time of 8:09.0. Germany had lowered the record to 8:09.7 moments before.

The U.S. team was composed of Bill Mettler of Mesa, Ariz., Dave Lyons of Kenilworth, Ill., Mike Wall of San Jose, Calif., and Ed Townsend, Santa Clara, Calif.

And a couple of teen-age American girls broke the Olympic mark twice in the 400-meter freestyle heats.

First, Ginny Duenkel of West Orange, N.J., reduced it to 4:48.7. Then world record holder Marilyn Ramenofsky of Phoenix, cut it to 4:47.7, finishing almost five seconds in front of Australian veteran Dawn Fraser. Terri Stickles of San Mateo, Calif., also qualified in 4:49.3.

And the American marksmen continued to provide excellent support, with Bill Morris of Russell, Kan., taking the bronze medal in clay pigeon shooting in a shootoff for third. It was the United States' fifth shooting medal in three events.

World record holders Hal Connolly of Culver City, Calif., and Dallas Long of Los Angeles, both favored to capture gold medals, led the advance in the hammer and shot put.

Wood Paces Kadets Victory Over Panthers

By DICK FOSTER

Harrison's Panthers found themselves outgunned for the thrid time in loop play Friday night, as Air Academy High got back on the winning way with a 27-0 victory. Actually the Panthers were battered by a near one man army named Bill Wood.

Harrison, whose defense has been a lagging thing all season, had much of the same trouble Friday. Their offense, too, showed signs of mal-function, penetrating inside the Academy 30 only twice the whole night. But the biggest thing in Harrison's way was Wood.

The senior back showed fine power and balance — a combination that the Panthers couldn't harness. Wood gained 182 of the Kadets' 233 ground yards, and 16 of 32 in the air.

Between the opening and closing minutes of the game was contained a lot of frustration for Harrison. The Panthers took the opening kickoff and with their best effort of the evening, moved to the Kadets' 17 yard line. A fumble called a halt to that drive and Academy started moving.

The Kadets' first play drew a five yard penalty, but Wood fixed that with a 62 yard trip to the Harrison 25 on the following down. Two plays later Wood moved another 22 yards to the Panther three, and Jon Sparks carried over from the one, three plays later.

Tony Blanchard added the first of three extra points and ended the second of two drives that consumed most of the first period.

Twice in the second period, Academy came close to paydirt, but Harrison was able to dig-in on its two yard line and thwart off the first drive. The second resulted in seven points but only after a 32-yard Sparks to Wood touchdown aerial was called back for clipping. Academy then started goalward again and added their second touchdown on a 14 yard Wood run.

Dan Wiggins socred the third Kadet talley with a two yard run late in the third frame. Harrison lost the second of two fumbles on their 28 yard line. That was all they had to do, for Academy took it from there to the goal line in five plays.

Later in that third quarter, Academy scored their last seven pointer on a 10 yard Lynn Montague run. The Kadets got the ball on Harrison's 25 and a pass interference penalty put it on the 10; from there Montague crossed.

Late in the fourth period, Harrison quarterback Bill Doud launched a last effort to get the Panthers on the scoreboard. A series of long bombs made things tense while Harrison moved from their 31 to the Air Force 26. But it was there that time ran out.

Brown Says He'll Retire In Two Years

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown disclosed Friday that he plans to play only two more seasons with the Cleveland Browns and then retire.

Brown said he had an understanding on these plans some time back with Art Modell, owner of the National Football League club.

Brown is 28 and now playing his eighth year with Cleveland.

He made his remarks in an interview taped for broadcast on radio station KYW next week.

"Two more years is an outside possibility," Brown said. "I might stop before that, but I won't play any more than that. These are my plans."

BPA Tourney Set For Classic Bowl

Big time bowling is scheduled to make its first appearance in Colorado Springs when the National BPA Tournament switches sites from Denver to the local bowling establishment, Classic Lanes.

According to an announcement made by Ralph Archer, who is promoting the event, the tournament site was switched to Colorado Springs because he felt this area would afford better community support than Denver.

The BPA tournament is scheduled for Feb. 23-27 and will attract 91 national professional bowlers. The finals will again be aired over the ABC-TV network and according to Archer some 20 million kegling fans viewed the BPA tournament last year from Denver.

Florence Shuts Out Mustangs, 33-0

FLORENCE — The powerful Huskies proved overwhelming to their visitors Friday night as the undefeated Florence football squad breezed to its fourth straight Pikes Peak League win over Manitou Springs, 33-0.

Dick Shadwell, the PPL top scorer, had a field day against the smaller Mustangs as the Florence fullback led the onslaught with three touchdowns. Shadwell scored on runs of 73, 64 and nine yards.

Ray Moore scored on a 30-yard inereception pass and Bob Trujillo posted the fifth TD on a three - yard plunge.

The Huskies are now 4-0 in the PPL chase whereas the Mustangs are 2-2 in loop competition.

D&B Blanks Fairplay

The Colorado Deaf and Blind school's football team scored a decisive 38-0 triumph over Fairplay Friday afternoon at the D&B field in eight - man Black Forest League competition.

Danny Lawson scored the first TD for the D&B squad on a 71-yard run while Bill Krohn hit for the second D&B tally on a 70-yard jaunt. Quarterback Eldon Ragland hit end Steve Calderone for the next touchdown and Ronnie Sluyter fired another TD pass to Calderone.

The D&B gridders scored their final two TD's in the third period with Krohn smashing over from six yards out and Lawson recording the final TD via a pass interception which covered 90 yards.

Salida Slips Past Fowler

FOWLER — The mighty Spartans of Salida had to scramble to defeat the home team Friday night in a Pikes Peak League encounter.

The Salida gridders had to settle for a 13-0 victory over the pesky Fowler aggregation.

Keith Baker scored both TD's for Salida. Baker scored in the first period on a two - yard plunge and the Spartan halfback scored the second touchdown on a one-yard run.

The Spartans picked up the second TD extra point when quarterback Norman Williams fired to Bustos.

Archer Decisions Dick Tiger

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joey Archer, a fancy dan from New York City, won an upset 10-round split decision over Dick Tiger of Nigeria, the former world middleweight champion, at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Boos from many in the crowd of 9,098 greeted the decision that qualified Archer for a title shot against the winner of next Friday night's Joey Giardello-Rubin Carter middleweight title bout in Las Vegas.

Tiger just shrugged his shoulders as he listened to the decision.

Judge Al Berle and referee Zack Clayton voted for Archer, 5-4-1 and 6-3-1, respectively. Judge Joey Castellano gave it to Tiger, 5-4-1.

The Associated Press had Tiger on top by 9-1, figuring he was the aggressor throughout and absorbed most of Archer's jabs on his gloves and elbows.

A quick ringside poll of sports writers showed seven for Tiger, seven for Archer with four calling it a draw.

Tiger just shrugged his shoulders as he listened to the decision.

First-Quarter Score Gives Fountain 7-0 PPL Victory

FOUNTAIN — Slotback Dan Grigsby scored Fountain's only touchdown Friday night as the Trojans edged Leadville, 7-0. The win kept Fountain in second place in the Pikes Peak League with a 3-1 record.

Grigsby scored in the first quarter on a four-yard run after Joe Martinez scooted 41 yards to set up the TD. Jim Daniels ran the extra point.

Leadville is winless in four PPL outings and owns a 1-6 season mark. Fountain won its fifth game of the year against one loss. It was the third straight shutout for the Panthers.

Fountain travels to Manitou Springs Wednesday to play the Mustangs. In another Wednesday game, Leadville hosts Fowler.

Fountain outgained the Panthers, 204 yrads to 144. The Trojans picked up 192 yares on the ground.

Cramblit Powers Locals to Victory

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Cheyenne Mountain's flashy Indians enrolled in the schools of hard knocks Friday night at Harrison High School field—but the Will Rogers League team quickly turned teacher, unleashing bullish Greg Cramblit for four first half touchdowns to smother Trinidad of the South Central circuit 27-7 in a non-conference contest.

Guy Barickman's slick Cheyenne unit thus handed the young WRL its second win in as many starts over opposition from the touted South Central League this fall. Air Academy High contributed earlier with a convincing 18-7 triumph over Pueblo South.

Cramblit, the Indians' all-state fullback who has been content to work as a decoy much of this season, slapped the usually defensive - tough Miners with a devastating display of running power Friday as the Colorado Springs' school shot Trinidad out of the contest before it was well under way.

The 198-pound strongman of the Cheyenne attack ripped through the startled Miner line on sprints of 54 and 70 yards for two touchdowns, smashed across from a yard away for a third, and combined with quarterback Ted Garcia on a 39 yard pass play for the fourth.

Overall the massive Cramblit accounted 183 of the 238 yards that Cheyenne picked up overland, with 166 of the total coming during the Indian - dominated first half. During the final two periods the relaxed home club was on the defensive most of the time as Trinidad struggeld furiously in a futil attempt to get back into the contest.

The final statistics actually saw the Miners with a lead in the first down department and a surprisingly small deficit in total yardage. But this was a night when figures didn't reveal the true story. In the early part of the game, when it really counted, the Indians crushed the flat Miners with almost ridiculous ease.

Cramblit launched the fun shortly after the opening kick, after Trinidad had surrendered the ball on a fumble at the Indians' 46 yard line. Cheyenne had been smothered on its first series of downs and was forced to punt but on the second play from scrimmage Trinidad bobbled it away with Craig Fay pouncing on the loose ball.

On the first play following, Cramblit ripped through a tear in the right side of the tightly-packed Miner line and was off on hih 54 yard jaunt before they could recover. Garcia's conversion attempt sailed wide to the right, however.

The alert Cheyenne defense proveded another opportunity immediately following the kick-off when George Stowell snared a Mike Bosso pass and returned it to the Trinidad 46. This time the Indians plunged downfield in nine plays, with Cramblit twisting over from the one. Garcia added the conversion.

The frustrated Miners quickly went to the air on their next series of downs and moved to the Cheyenne 30 where a fourth down play fell short of a first down by a yard. Back in business offensively, Cheyenne wasted just one play before Cramblit roared through a gaping hole in the center of the line and sped 70 yards for the backbreaker.

Another Trinidad drive late in the period eventually stalled at the Indians' 15. Cheyenne immediately pushed back downfield, rolling to the Miners' 39 from where Garcia calmly ignored the pressuring Trinidad line to flip a screen pass to Cramblit who again fled through the defenders on a lengthy touchdown trip.

The Miners controlled play in the final two periods, allowing Cheyenne only four downs in the third quarter, but it was far too late. Trinidad finally capped a 69 yard march when Bosso streaked around the right flank on a nine yard keeper early in the fourth quarter. The Miners had another apparent tally called back late in the contest as a 47 yard pass play from Bosso to Charles Nardine fell prey to a clipping penalty.

Cheyenne returns to conference action next Saturday, hosting Widefield in a WRL game that could clinch a title tie for the league - leading Indians.

T-Birds Need Victory Tonight Over Eagles to Keep Apace SCL Chase

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO —The South Central League season still has several weeks to run, but there'll be no indication of that tonight when Pueblo East and Wasson square off at Public Schools Stadium here in a contest that should go a long way toward determining the 1964 champion.

Game time between the coleaders of the southern AAA conference is 7:30 and a crowd of some 7,500 is anticipated.

Gib Funk's Thunderbirds, who surrendered their SCL crown on this same plot of groud a year ago, return tonight with every intention of taking a giant stride toward the '64 pennant. Tonight's winner will be assured of at least temporary possession of the league's top spot and using early season performance as a guide, the Eagles will rate a one touchdown favorite.

Last year's Thunderbird demise came under strikingly similar circumstances. Wasson rolled into Pueblo late in the campaign, sporting a streak of 14 consecutive league triumphs, only to be throughly demuscled by a band of swifties representing Centennial. The 41-7 lacing was the worst ever suffered by a Wasson team and it was also the first victory for the Bulldogs over a Thunderbird grid squad.

If those are the ingredients for inspiration, East should be ready to roll tonight. The Eagles have never been successful in gridiron combat with a Wasson team and the Pueblo club also must figure that its turn to win a league title has arrived. Since the SCL underwent expansion to eight teams in 1959, only Palmer, Pueblo South and the Eagles have failed to snare a crown. Trinidad claimed the '59 laurels, followed by Grand Junction, Central, Wasson, and Centennial.

Tonight's collision will match the league's most stringent defense against one of its most volatile offensive units. The Eagles have yielded only a single touchdown in each of two league starts and prior to the start of the conference campaign, whitewashed three consecutive opponents. Offensively, East has not been overpowering but the team has shown an ability to control the ball and has had occasional success with its passing game.

Wasson has not been as stern defensively as has been characteristic of past T-Bird editions, but no previous Thunderbird unit has had such a dazzling array of offensive machinery. The leader is quarterback Jim Smith, who has been an inspirational player in clutch situations with his running and passing skills.

The Thunderbirds' other principal danger spot has been at fullback but there will be a question mark there this evening. Bob Toof, the dandy litte senior speedster, has been side lined with an injury and he will see only limited duty, if any. Funk was still undecided as to the composition of his backfield as late as Friday but he will definitely have Smith behind center and Rod Wells at left-half. Bob Oyler, who usually works out of right half, may be moved to the fullback spot and if that is the case, Bruce Meade will take over his halfback post. Otherwise, Funk expects to start Mike Remy at fullback.

In the line, only one change has been indicated. That is at left end where Terry Skodack is expected to replace Budgie Hamilton. Otherwise the 'Birds will have Larry Friedrich and Yogi Grandcourt at tackles, Curtis Kraushaar and Mark Fleming at guards, Dave Kendrick at center, and Charlie Steel at the opposite flank.

Yankees Fire Yogi Berra; New Manager to Be Named

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra was dismissed as manager of the New York Yankees Friday, climaxing an unprecedented World Series aftermath.

The Yankees made the announcement only a few hours after Johnny Keane had quit as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Keane's Cardinals beat Berra's Yankees Thursday in the seventh game of the World Series.

Ralph Houk, the Yankee general manager, made the announcement and said Berra had accepted a two-year contract in the Yankee organization as a special field consultant working under Houk.

"The decision was made before the World Series," said Houk, who pointed out that the decision was made by him and club president Dan Topping. He also said that the Columbia Broadcasting Company, which has purchased a controlling share in the Yankees, was not consulted.

Under questioning after his announcement, Houk said "this morning was the first Yogi knew about this."

Houk, who said the Yankees probably would make an announcement within the week about a new manager, said Al Dark is among those being considered and said that now Keane's name would likely be added to the list. Houk said four men were on the list.

Dark was fired as manager of the San Francisco Giants at the end of the season and replaced by Herman Franks.

Asked if any current players on the Yankees were under consideration, Houk said he thought it "was an unfair question since we're going to have an announcement within the week."

Houk said "all four of the men on the list are experienced managers and not one of them is in the Yankee organization." However, he refused to name the other two men on the list.

Houk said he had started thinking about the change in mid-August but the decision was not made definitely until a few days before the World Series.

Houk was asked if players had complained about Berra's managing, as reports have indicated, and he answered:

"I don't want to put the blame on anybody."

Then Houk was asked about Berra's four coaches — Whitey Ford, Frank Crosetti, Jimmy Gleeson and Jim Hegan.

"It is the policy for the manager to name his own," he answered.

Then, Houk was asked why the move had been made and he replied simply:

"It was better for all concerned."

Rolling Julius Seeks Win

The Cen-Tex Kennel's Rolling Julius will be hitting the silt of the oval at Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club tonight in the ninth and featured race for his second straight win.

Keeping company with him will be G. A. Alderson's Dan Onery; Betty Babe from the Frank Pierce string of racers; F. B. Stutz's Sebag; Cecil Wilson's Tough Stock; Just Elmer, a kennel-mate of Betty Babe; Larry Hughes' Sunbrook and T.V. Hoss from the George Murphy Kennels.

It was a win in the eighth last Wednesday for Rolling Julius, who at 84 pounds is one of the largest greyhounds racing on the RMKC oval this year, and in his last effort paid $7.80, $4.80 and $2.80 across the board.

Out to make trouble for Rolling Julius tonight will be Tough Stock and Just Elmer, the place and show finishers in Wednesday's Grade A event. In his tie-up with Tough Stock, (the place pay-offs were $27.00 and $5.20) on the 6-8 quiniela Wednesday, fans collected $78.60 on their $2 tickets and Just Elmer paid show money of $3.00.

Three Grade A races, the eighth, ninth and tenth, are on the 11-race card at RMKC tonight and there is a real treat in store for greyhound fans next Wednesday night when RMKC's veteran Racing Secretary Frank Jones will match a brace of eight of the fastest sprinters on the oval this season in the RMKC Sprint Championship.

Post time for the first race each evening remains at 8 p.m.

Tigers Attempt to Record First Win Over California Lutheran

Colorado College, frustrated by a long string of injuries and a ballooning strand of defeats, goes after what it will hope to prove to be the first victory of the 1964 campaign this afternoon in a Homecoming contest against California Lutheran of Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Kickoff time for the next to last home game of the current season is 2 p.m. at Washburn Field and for the first time this fall the Tigers will be at least an even choice to pull out a win.

Even as Coach Jerry Carle and his staff were plotting strategy which they hope will end a five game string of losses, a new problem jumped up which could prove crippling before the afternoon is over. Ray Jones, the swift sophomore fullback from Pueblo, twisted a knee in a non - contact drill and was on the doubtful list as late as Friday afternoon.

Jones, who is the leading rusher on the squad, is only the latest in a long line of casualties which has deprived the CC squad of some of its better material this fall. Carle said that Lex Towns, a smallish runner from Grand Junction who returned to the squad just this week, will probably move in for Jones.

CC will be carrying a 0-4 mark into the contest and will be coming off a resouding setback at the hands of a strong Nebraska Wesleyan team last Friday. The Tigers' overall loss streak now extends to five with the addition of the final contest of last season which saw the local school fall to Colorado Mines.

Lutheran, 19-16 loser to CC a year ago, comes here with a 2-2 mark which includes wins over LaVerne College and Claremont - Mudd. Losses were to Occidental and Colleg of Southern Utah.

Carle announced earlier in the week that he plans two switches in the backfield which are designed to pep up the Tiger attack. Mike Denson, 178 pound sophomore from Lakewood, will take over at quarterback following a strong performance against Wesleyan. Denson, who is an adequate passer and a strong option runner, should add to the team's offensive punch.

In additon the Tigers coach will go with Bob Stapp, a high school teammate of Denson's, at right - half. Stapp also moves with good speed and has been running especially well as of late. Mike Mestek, the only senior among the starting backs, will open at the other halfback.

In the line the Tigers will go with basically the same group who worked against Wesleyan. Sophomore Bill Janowski and senior Lee Muller give the team a pair of strong pass-catching threats at ends. Huge Dave Hayes and Bill Jacobson will open at tackles with Harry Intemann and Bob Bishop at guards and Roger Williams at center.

For one of the few times in recent outings the Tigers will match their opponents in the weight department. With the aid of the 250 pound Hayes, CC will own a one - pound edge in the line with an average of 199. Overall the Tigers will own a 190 - 189 difference but the California school will have a 174-173 edge in the backfield.

Lutheran is the first of two California opponents on this year's schedule. CC will go to Santa Clara University next weekend. The Nov. 7 game will see the Tigers traveling to Doane College in Nebraska before they return home to face ancient rival Colorado Mines in the Nov. 14 finale. Mines is the only one of the Rocky Mountain Conference schools remaining on the schedule following the Tigers' withdrawal from that historic league last year.

Card Manager Keane Resigns

By TOM PENDERGAST
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST.LOUIS (AP) — Johnny Keane resigned Friday as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, only 19 hours after leading the National League baseball club to its first world championship in 18 years.

But the graying, 53-year-old skipper—associated with the Cardinals 35 years—and his petite wife, Lela, had made the decision 19 days ago. That was a week before the regular season ended.

Keane's announcement came only a few hours before Yogi Berra, loser to the Cardinals in the Series, was removed as manager of the New York Yankees after guiding them to the American Leage pennant in first year.

Keane personally presented to Cardinal President August A. Busch Jr. Friday morning his letter of resignation typed by his wife and dated Sept. 28. Busch, whose Anheuser-Busch Inc. brewery owns the Cardinals, was visibly shaken.

"This really has shocked me," said Busch, who earlier had been reported offering Keane's job to Leo Durocher, then a coach with the Los Angeles Dodgers. "I didn't know a thing about it until I saw Johnny this morning. All I can say is that I'm damned sorry to lose Johnny."

"My wife and I were in complete agreement with this decision," Keane told reporters at a news conference in the board room of Busch's old red brick brewery office. "She agreed that anything I wanted to do was OK with her."

"We feel it's better for she and I to move along now."

The blue-eyed Keane thus became the third field manager in major league history to step down after carrying his team to the pennant and baseball's World Series championship. One of the others also was a Cardinal manager.

Bill Carrigan of the Boston Red Sox quit after his team took the series in 1916. Rogers Hornsby, at the time with the Cardinals, was traded to the Giants after leading the Redbirds to the 1926 championship.

Keane said his decision was not made on the spur of the moment.

"My wife and I started talking seriously about this around Sept. 18," he said. "We made our decision on the 28th."

His letter of resignation said its effective date would be "as of the last National League championship game, whether it be the end of the season or at the end of the World Series."

Ironically, it became effective only hours after one of the most climatic finishes in baseball history. St. Louisans were still celebrating their beloved Cardinals' World Series victory over the New York Yankees when Keane walked into Busch's office Friday morning.

"I told Mr. Busch not to make any offer," Keane said. "I handed him my resignation and said my decision was firm—that I didn't want to embarrass him—but that no offer would be acceptable."

Keane's letter said:

"This is to submit my resignation as field manager of the St. Louis Cardinals effective as of the last championship National League game, whether it be at the end of the regular season or at the end of the World Series."

"I want you to know that I have enjoyed working for you since you have owned the Cardinals, as well as the many years I spent within the organization prior to that time.

"I regret very much the necessity of this decision, especially severing the close relations I have had with so many of the Cardinal personnel"

"I also wish to express my gratitude to the city of St. Louis and to the St. Louis people for being so kind to me and my family for so many years, and to the Cardinal players who have been so loyal and to whom I am deeply indebted for a full effort 100 per cent of the time.

"I resign my position only with the friendliest of feelings and wish nothing but success to you and your fine Cardinal team."

It was signed, "respectfully, Johnny Keane."

Keane's exit from the world champion Cardinals and the removal of Berra climaxed an unprecedented World Series aftermath.

Neither the Cardinals nor the Yankees made any immediate announcement of managerial replacements.

Asked if Leo Durocher had been hired to head the Cardinals next year, Busch replied: "I have no comment on that." Busch earlier had offered Durocher the job but that was before Keane led the Cards to the World Championship.

Busch called a meeting of a six-member board Friday to look into the possibility of a replacement for Keane.

"I don't have a job," said Keane. "I'm open to suggestions, but I'm not interested in the minor leagues."

Keane said he had not been approached by anyone, but that "there are a few positions around that may be available."

Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates won't be back and no manager has been named there. However, Keane said he had not talked with anyone about going to Pittsburgh.

Keane also was asked about the New York Mets, where former general manager Bing Devine—whom Busch fired in August—is now assistant to President George Weiss.

"I don't know anything about any position on the Mets," Keane replied.

The blue-eyed Keane, however, said that Devine's firing—"along with a number of little things, none important"—may have helped influence his resignation. Devine and Keane were close personal friends and had frequently stood up for each other.

Keane had seemed out as St. Louis manager in August, amid reports that Busch and Dorocher had reached an agreement and that Durocher would manage the club next year.

But the Cardinals' amazing pennant drive—coupled with Philadelphia's collapse — hiked Keane's stock. Then, when the Cards had three games left in the regular season, Busch offered Keane a new contract at a substantial salary increase. Keane turned him down, saying he would decide his future after the season.

The Cards then clinched the pennant on the final day and went on to win the seven-game World Series from the Yankees, taking the world championship Thursday in a 7-5 victory.

Published reports had said that Keane was miffed and felt humiliated over interference from Busch's 82-year-old special consultant, Branch Rickey, and the firing of Devine. Bob Howsam, a Rickey sidekick, replaced Devine. Reports said Keane was seeking a new contract from Busch with the following provisions:

1. A large increase in salary over his present $35,000 yearly.
2. A two-or three-year contract.
3. A policy of non-interference from Rickey.

However, Keane denied all this Friday.

"REGRETFUL DECISION" — Johnny Keane, right, sits grimly, smiling only occasionally, as August A. Busch Jr., owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, reads Keane's resignation at a news conference Friday. Keane who led the Cardinals to a World Series championship, said he made his "regretful decision" Sept. 28. Redbird general manager Bob Howsam sits to the left of Busch. (AP Wirephoto)

Keane Linked To Bucs

By JOE BRADIS
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The big talk in Pittsburgh these days is who will replace Danny Murtaugh as manager of the Pirates.

Many names have been tossed about, including that of Johnny Keane, who resigned Friday from the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Keane denied reports he would take the managerial job at Pittsburgh and General Manager Joe L. Brown has denied he's offered it to Keane.

In fact, Brown says he has talked to no one but has a candidate in mind, subject to the approval of the Pirate owners.

Brown was not available for comment on Keane's resignation and whether he might change his mind and now offer the job to Keane.

It was learned Brown was headed for Columbus, Ohio, presumably to talk to John W. Galbreath, the principal owner of the Pirates.

Colt - Packer Tilt Top NFL Contest

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, scoring at the highest average clip in the National Football League since 1950, encounter the Green Bay Packers, most reluctant to give up ground, in Memorial Stadium Sunday.

Another capacity crowd of 60,213 will watch the game in which the Colts will be shooting for their fifth straight victory after stumbling in their opener.

The Colts have averaged 35.8 points a game in sweeping to first place in the Western Conference. The 44-year-old league's record for a season is 38.8 by the 1950 Los Angeles Rams.

Green Bay held the Colts to their lowest point production, 21 and all in the first half, on Sept. 20. But the Packers scored only 20 and lost on a missed conversion by Paul Hornung.

The Packers suffered another loss at Minnesota because of a missed conversion and will be in precarious shape if the Colts deal them another.

The Colts have only one doubtful performer, fullback Jerry Hill with a sore knee. His replacement would be Tony Lorick, a fast-coming rookie.

Hockey Tourney Scheduled

The schedule of games for the coming international ice hockey tournament at the Broadmoor World Arena, for the world Arena, for the Walter A. Brown Memorial Trophy, has been announced.

Teams involved willl be the national squads from Russia, Canada and Czechoslovakia. They are generally rated annually as among the top four or five in the world of amateur hockey.

The schedule will start Saturday, Dec. 26, with Russia playing Czechoslovakia. The rest of the slate has the following games: Dec. 27, Canada vs. Czechoslovakia; Dec. 28, Canada vs. Russia; Dec. 29, Russia vs. Czechoslovakia; Dec. 30, Canada vs. Czechoslovakia; Dec 31, Canada vs. Russia.

All the games are slated for 8:15 p.m. in the World Arena and the tournament winner all will be determined by World Tournament scoring system of points for the double round - robin.

Tickets for the entire series are on sale at the Broadmoor.

The tournament will be held in memory of the late Walter Brown, long - time promoter of hockey throughout the world and a close friend of Wm. Thayer Tutt, president of the Broadmoor. Brown was owner of both the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey Leage and the Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Getting Around The Voters

There's a real neat device now being used by various city, county and state governments by means of which they can circumvent the wishes of the voters.

The Wall Street Journal of September 22 reports how it is done.

Let us suppose that a city wants to erect a building, or otherwise spend a considerable portion of tax money, but that it doesn't have the money on hand for this expenditure. This is a not uncommon occurrence.

Normally, the city will draw up a proposal to offer to the voters, requesting a favorable vote on a bond issue so that the money can be borrowed from a bonding company and be repaid at a rate of interest as tax funds come into the treasury.

Of course, tax increases not infrequently mar the bonding route, for if the money is not on hand at the time the proposal is drafted, it is unlikely that, at present taxing rates, it will ever be on hand. Thus, increases in taxes are an important adjunct to the bonding method. Government revenues can be enlarged by passing new taxing measures, or by enlarging the tax taken from people through already established routes.

This bonding route to civic indulgence was very popular for many years and worked quite well. Most people hate to be negative. They want to "go along" with the requests made by their elected officials. They assume the officials "know best" and when they ask for a few million more here or there, it always seems to the voter that others than himself will be called upon to foot the bill.

In recent years, however, as more and more people come to learn that there are no "other" people and that every tax measure and every bonded debt is going to mark an incursion against their own incomes and resources, the trend has been to defeat bond issues. More than one city or county government has been confronted with a resounding negative from the voters when the matter has come to their attention at the polls.

So, governments being what they are, schemes have been hatched so that a rejection by the voters will not prevent the particular government from going ahead with its plans. The procedure is quite simple.

The government approaches some organization prominent in city affairs. It can be a nonprofit corporation created for this specific purpose. Or it can be an existing institution, already occupying a position of respectability and usefulness in the community.

The government merely asks this institution to build the building or to provide the facility for them. Thus, a court house, a city hall, a new jail, a golf course, a zoo or anything else the city fathers want can actually be erected by some other agency than government.

The funds can be borrowed readily by the building organization, for it will obtain a lease from the government which will run for a number of years and which will guarantee them a profit. The government can readily sign this lease for facilities it contends it must have. Such leases do not have to be reviewed by the voters. And when the term of the lease expires, there usually is inserted a clause that the government will obtain the building "free of charge" once the rental fee is fully paid over the years it is in force. This way, the government can possess itself of the new facilities it wants by going directly against the wishes of the electorate.

As can be imagined, taxpayers and others have vehemently opposed this kind of circuitous procedure. But even taxpayer's suits which have sometimes been brought have usually found the city in the right and the taxpayers in the wrong.

Actually, the cost of proceeding in this way is higher than the bonding route. And the taxpayers, quite justifiably, object. Some cities are even using the enlarged cost of this method of working to serve as a club to bludgeon taxpayers' groups to go along with city demands for a bond increase. The city CAN get what it wants, so you might as well support the bond issue and save the extra cost.

We trust that the people will begin to understand the position they face vis a vis their governments. When men have power, they will almost always find a way to exercise that power. The idea that the people can control their governments by elections sounds good on paper. The fact is that the government rules, one way or another, and that the taxpayers will pay for what the government does, one way or another.

Hope

A dollar of profit is a hope that future wages may yet be earned.

Boy Beats the Planners

Well, the Battle of Fort Ticonderoga has been won.

Not the one fought in New York State almost 200 years ago, but the one just waged in Rocky River, Ohio.

This new one was sparked when Patriot Jim Probert, a 9-year-old Indian fighter from way back, built Fort Ticonderoga in his back yard to help him and his pals resist the attacks by bank bandits, train robbers, foreign enemies and cattle rustlers that every boy with healthy imagination knows are a vital part of growing up.

Now, Jim may be a better fighter than he is an architect or builder. For a neighbor regarded Fort Ticonderoga as more of an eyesore than a citadel of civil defense and took his views to the zoning board.

A building inspector dutifully looked up the law and ruled that Fort Ticonderoga did, indeed, violate a city statute which decreed that "accessory buildings" are not permitted in single-family residential districts in Rocky River

This decision really bugged young Jim. Chances are it would bug boys that age everywhere.

How can an honest-to-gosh, genuine, boy-built fortress possibly be an "accessory building?"

Didn't that building inspector ever build a fort or a tree-house when he was a kid? Did he call it an "accessory building?"

Did anyone ever hear of cowboys, FBI agents, Northwest Mounted Police, Forest Rangers, the Foreign Legion or even John Wayne successfully repelling enemy attacks from "accessory buildings?"

Well, Indian Fighters of America, you will be glad to know that the fierce fight put up by Jim and his dad has resulted in complete victory for you, and that as a result of a ruling by the Rocky River Zoning Board the Banner of Boyhood still flies triumphantly o'er the plywood ramparts of dawn's early light.

Wit and Whimsy

A man called upon a physician for advice. The physician diagnosed the case as one of nerves, and prescribed accordingly. The fee was five dollars and the prescription two dollars. The man had only five dollars.

He said to the physician: "Doc, five dollars is all I have. Lend me two dollars and I'll have the prescription filled."

The physician gazed at the man for a moment, then said: "I have made a mistake in my diagnosis. Your nerve is all right. You are afflicted with an enlarged gall. There is no remedy for that."

Each year, one vicious habit rooted out, in time ought to make the worst man good.

CLEAN GONE

The average American is clean,
A model for the dirty world to see.
He scatters bathtubs everywhere, we mean,
And bathes more often than the seals at sea.
He makes a fetish of his cleanliness
And others stand amazed at what he's done.
He always tidies up each
stinking mess—
Or buries it in whitewash by the ton.
And when officials smear
themselves with grime,
As politicians are so apt to do,
He covers them with whitewash
every time
Until they look as clean as me or you.
Then, just to help them think they're right as rain,
He lets the politicians wash
his brain.

An excellent example of brainwashing is the bill of goods we let them sell us on the voting machines. "Fool proof," they said they were, and "fraud proof." "Just buy enough voting machines," they said, "and we'll guarantee you honest elections."

"Voting machines will put the political machines out of business," they promised us. So, we bought many millions of dollars' worth of voting machines. But the political machines are more powerful than ever. And the voting machines, though honest enough themselves, are being rigged and filed and manipulated and doctored by all manner of crooks from the ward heeler to the candidates for the highest offices.

Voting machines have proved to be far easier for the crooks to control than the old method of voters laboriously marking Xs with a pen.

An article in Reader's Digest for September says, "Let's make this an honest election." Then the article goes on to prove, to your horror, that an honest election is impossible under the circumstances.

It seems that voting machines can be rigged like slot machines to pay off to the "right" person at the "right" time. Not only that, the ballot can be so placed that when you think you are voting for one candidate, you vote for his opponent. And crooked election officials have been known to arrive early and lever up enough votes for their favorite to insure his election and then make the machine read "zero" until the first authentic voter pulls the lever.

The article tells of many precincts where the total vote registered by the machine was more than the total population of the precinct, including those in the cemetery.

They not only have rigged machines, they have misleading instructions posted on how to work them. Many voters, following these instructions, pull the WRONG lever and vote the opposite of what they intended. And there are always eager, but crooked, helpers standing ready to help the confused voters — as who isn't? — pull the wrong levers. And then we have the incorrect reporting of totals and planned traffic jams that hold up long lines of voters until the polls close without them ever having a chance to vote.

This latter is a good gimmick worked often by the crooks. They round up all the bums, loafers and those who want to make a fast buck and vote them early. Then they create the jam so that workers coming in after shift and shortly before the polls close, are left out in the cold while the polling place doors are slammed in their faces.

According to the article, written by Bill Surface, "In Chicago's Cook County alone, a special state's attorney charged 662 election officials with misconduct." This about the 1960 election.

We all remember that there was a big scandal in Illinois in 1960 and many believed that the state was "stolen" by the Democrats. I recall reading one columnist's opinion wherein he stated that Kennedy was the first man ever elected to the presidency whose election could be said to be clouded by fraud.

After reading of all the ways an election can be thrown, the only thing we can conclude is that the way to have an honest election is not to have one at all. Call the whole thing off. We might just as well.

With an unscrupulous party in power that controls all the great political machines throughout the country and has all the know-how about rigging the voting machines and about voting cemeteries and blocking voters from the polls, it is going to be impossible ever to defeat them. We have become a one-party nation, simply because the party in power has all the advantage and can rig the election to suit its own sinister designs.

From now on, we can expect the Democrats to stay in power on the national scene. The election may be close, but they can not lose. I am not saying that it wouldn't be the same if the Republicans were in power. But they aren't — they have never had the chance. And now they'll never get it.

The Old Mountaineer

Beware

By FRANK McDONOUGH

The question recurs, as we look back over the past several years, as to exactly who is running this country.

The news of the late President's tragic assassination was hardly on the wires when from behind the iron curtain came a dispatch saying that it was undoubtedly the work of extremists of the right. This came almost simultaneously with the tragic event itself. It came from Russia so quickly that it almost preceded the assassination and was as though it knew of the event to come before it actually happened. The dispatch was hastily withdrawn but became rather official within a very few days. Plainly, the tragedy had been anticipated but whether that is true or not, it has furnished the campaign slogan of the Democratic Party.

Actually, our cold war enemies began to spit their venom upon Mr. Goldwater long before his nomination. They realize that the worst thing that could happen to the progress of communism would be for a solid leader to guide America back to the fundamentals of the Founding Fathers. Their domination of the conduct of the present political campaign commenced long before the campaign itself. It finds fertile leadership in Mr. Humphrey, who through his socialistic tendencies has for years sought to weaken fundamental American doctrines. His Americans for Democratic Action was a pure unadulterated fake. At its inception it sought to do away with investigations of communism and to weaken those who would oppose this creeping death to American institutions. He is now in full cry against those who would oppose the socialistic state and the danger to American would be disastrous should he ever become president. We must look to this danger from a man who is altogether too close to the party line. If people in America should ever weaken themselves to the point of following him, we would be in complete socialism and perhaps communism itself. Perhaps our people want communism and if they do, they are but a few steps away from making their choice.

And so the question arises as to whether we are at the brink of real disaster to true American foundation stones. Personally, I prefer to take a few steps backward with my feet on solid American ground rather than edge forward into that which we should dread most. The venomous leadership of our enemies across the seas gives rise to the question as to who in fact is running America. Let us beware of false gods and false leaders.

IMMIGRATION

To the Editor:

Why increase immigration? You and LBJ say we need the skilled tradesmen. Is it more moral to import skilled men, rather than train our own hundreds of thousands of unemployed or is it just cheaper? It isn't cheaper for me but it might be for General Motors.

What a curious stand for a Democrat!

Editor's note: The only way to prevent immigration is by initiating government force. Initiated force prevents freedom from existing. Mr. Hendrickson's forefathers undoubtedly immigrated to the U.S. from elsewhere. What a curious stand for any American to be against immigration!

RED CROSS

To the Editor:

In connection with the National Newspaper Week, October 11-17 may I take this opportunity to express the heart felt thanks of the Pikes Peak Chapter of the American Red Cross for the wonderful cooperation you have given us in the past year.

As you know, the majority of our work is performed by volunteers with the ratio of paid staff to volunteers approximately 1 to 125. Securing these people and replacing losses in this field is a never-ending job particularly with military dependents, who constitute a big share of our volunteers, being transferred quite frequently.

It has been our experience, that articles in the newspaper are frequently necessary to recruit new people to replace those we lose yearly.

Your cooperation and almost automatic response to our needs in this and all of our other publicity requirements has been outstanding and has played a major role in the success of our efforts.

On behalf of the board of directors, the paid staff and the many volunteers, may I extend our sincere appreciation of your efforts.

COUNCIL MEETING

To the Editor:

Today I witnessed a total disregard for the people and consumers, home owners, and nonhome owners of Colorado Springs. I am referring to the city council meeting held in the city auditorium by our so-called servants of the people. It was evident from the start that it would be cut and dried. The city council wanted a tax and it made no difference if the people did or not.

A statement was made by a member of this council that sometimes the people don't always know what is best for them. Who is better qualified to know what is good for them but the people themselves? Two other councilmen said that "I think that the people". . .Why don't they stop thinking and ask the people? I am sure that if the people were able to vote yes or no on this issue they would make it quite clear what they wanted. Then the councilmen wouldn't have to think so hard.

They were presented with 13,500 signatures on petitions. They saw a majority of the people present raise their hands in opposition. Yet a handful of men decided what the people should decide by a vote. The people present didn't even have a choice of a tax or not a tax. Two questions were worded in such a way that if you answered yes to the first, you hurt the home owner; or yes to the second, you hurt yourself. They both had to do with a tax. This is not fair.

I ask the people of this city to demand their constitutional right to vote on an issue of such importance to themselves. I encourage the businessmen of this town to again put out petitions on a yes or no vote only. Let every man and woman who oppose this tax sign such a petition and maybe in this way we will again have what the majority of the people want and not what a handful of men dictate.

ORIGINAL INTENT

To the Editor:

According to one of the writers in the Sunday issue of a Denver daily paper the name of Barry Goldwater does not appear as a sponsor in any legislation. To that writer, this fact was points against a senator. In view of the present condition of our nation I can readily understand his point of view, but to those who believe in individual freedom it would be a feather in his cap and should merit a medal on his lapel.

Is is my impression that the men who established the United States of America intended that our government was an instrument to be used to protect the personal freedom of the individual citizen. Through the passage of many amendments to the Constitution and a myriad of laws the USA has become a government of welfare, using its political powers to solve the personal problems of the people. In order to accomplish this, many personal freedoms of the citizen had to be restrained, coerced or prohibited. It seems safe to say that most historians would agree that the thing that has been different in America is the willingness of the citizen to be responsible for his own welfare and, of course, his welfare depends on the willingness of his neighbor to assume the same responsibility.

Nation's Press

Thoughts on Newspaper Week

From Santa Ana (Calif.) Register

Since this is the start of National Newspaper Week, we comment on the business in which we are engaged.

It is no secret that The Register and its sister newspapers in the Freedom Newspaper organization are not in complete agreement with a great many of the newspapers of the nation. The Register believes too many newspapers have lost sight of the fact that their responsibility is to the individual, not to the political powers ruling their lives.

We often have quoted Henry David Thoreau, who before the Civil War criticized the press which he said "is, almost without exception, corrupt." Thoreau, an ardent foe of slavery, believed the press had a responsibility to oppose the politicians and their support of slavery.

Today there is a new sort of slavery, in which the individual is lost in the conformity required by subservience to his political masters. And today the press, almost without exception, has adopted the idea that what the rulers say is good, and that he who criticizes his governors is "against government."

We lay a great deal of the blame on the fact that the press has encouraged rather than opposed the establishment of a whole new arm of the bureaucracy — the government public relations men. As government has grown, the press has encouraged the politicians to hire newsmen to hand feed them the news of the departments. The occasional cries of "managed news" from some arms of the press have a hollow ring to those who opposed the establishment of the news managers who are financed by taxes.

However, all of the press is not subservient. The difficulty of reporting what the government is doing becomes greater, but there are agencies still attempting to uncover the news which is not handed out on a platter. It is for this reason that in the past year The Register has supplemented its regular wire news reports with services of the Chicago Tribune - New York News and of the North American Newspaper Alliance. These, with the regular United Press International and Associated Press wires, enable us to give our readers a more comprehensive view of the news of the nation and the world. We have added a special service in Sacramento to help our readers to understand the state news better.

Newspapers have a responsibility to inform the people to the best of their ability. If they do the job adequately, the people will be in a better position to be self - reliant and self- responsible. They have a better chance to do this since they are not required to have a government license as are the radio and television media. Whether they do depends on whether their publishers have convictions and are willing to stand by them.

One of our associates once wrote that the life of a good reporter is a lonely one, since a good reporter will report the facts without fear or favor and will have few friends. This holds equally true with editors and publishers. So we would amend this statement to say a good newspaperman's life is a lonely one.

Still — if happiness is the reward of accomplishment and if, as we believe, telling the truth about his community and country is an accomplishment — the good newspaperman's occupation is satisfying indeed.

New Post Office!

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Every so often I've noticed a nice, new post office building in an incongruous setting. I've tried to avoid pondering over such matters knowing that the omnipotent mind of the bureaucrat passeth all human understanding.

Did the old post office building become worn and delapidated? Did the population in the area "served" by the post office grow by leaps and bounds?

Well, Rep. George Senner recently announced that the City of Kingman, Arizona, will have a new post office. The postmaster general explains the matter in these words: construction of the new building will have a beneficial economic impact on Kingman. Not only will the project provide jobs, during the construction period, he pointed out, but the new facilities will increase the community's attractiveness for industry and commerce. This, in turn, can be translated into new economic opportunities for Kingman.

The postmaster general said the building will be constructed under the department's lease construction program, with the government's capital investment limited to the postal equipment. While leased to the government, the building will remain under private ownership and the owner will pay local real estate taxes. Plans and specifications for the new building, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date.

If none of this makes good sense to you, don't worry about it. If a statement from any government official makes sense to anybody but another government official, it's time to worry because a sensible statement from government indicates that somebody was misquoted.

I've known quite a few business people during my lifetime but I have never met one who decided to go into business in a community because of the attractiveness of a post office. Have you?

Kingman is the county seat of Mohave County, fifth largest in the country. The population runs to about 12,000 men, women and children, spread over an area which reaches from the California border to Boulder Dam, 150 miles or so. The most important real estate development is Lake Havasu City, about 50 miles south of Kingman. You can get a pretty good idea of the market place potential, at present, if you realize that the paid circulation of the weekly paper is less than 1,500. Supposedly, there are about 5,000 eligible voters but I suspect the voter turnout in November will be closer to 3,000. Kingman will remain on Highway 66 until it is by-passed within the next couple of years. It needs a new post office like it needs a disaster — disasters provide jobs, too.

But, take a look at the pattern. One or more business concerns or individuals will bid on that post office job, just as too many business concerns cooperate with something as ridiculous as the zip code thing. I realize that if nobody bids on the post office building, government may go right ahead and build it, anyway, but the conscience of the market place would be clear, anyway. There's also the possibility that politicians might decide not to worry about a new post office in an area involving so few votes.

The post office department is a gigantic, bloated and horribly inefficient bureaucracy. Those in government have no intention of letting this monopoly get away from them. On the other hand, the market place, private enterprise, has shown no real interest in fighting this stronghold of tyranny and socialism. Wouldn't YOU like to see what would happen if post offices were operated privately?

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Rural Schools

By RUSSELL KIRK

Many Americans, happily, still are interested in local control of their schools, and in schooling on a humane scale.

When, a few months ago, this commentator described an attempt to close (despite the protests of parents) the little school at Gold Hill, Colorado, he received hundreds of letters of comment and inquiry.

The misguided war upon rural schools proceeds in other lands than these United States. You can learn about this struggle in Scotland, for instance, by reading a lively article written by Mr. George Scott Moncrieff, the Edinburgh man of letters, in the current number of The University Bookman (a small educational quarterly edited by your servant). Interested readers can obtain complimentary copies of this issue by writing to me in care of this newspaper.

"Another 'reform' in our educational system that is going ahead at the present moment," Mr. Scott Moncrieff writes, "is the closing of the rural schools. Some years ago, the little country schools were deprived of their pupils of eleven and older. It was not altogether a good thing, especially in the unyielding way in which it was done. But today, all over Scotland, the single-teacher schools are being closed and the children transported by bus to central schools.

"Now these rural schools with their small classes allowing for individual attention and the intimate knowledge the teachers were able to gain of the children and their backgrounds, regularly produced the best - grounded pupils. It was not uncommon for a keen teacher to give up a post in a larger school in order to get to a country school where she knew she would have a better opportunity to educate children. Furthermore, these teachers are usually most important persons in the life of the rural communities, able and happy to organize local activities. The school buildings, which will now be shut down, are often the only available meeting-place for such organizations as the Women's Rural Institutes. At a time when our government pays much lip-service to halting the flight from the land, it is actively destroying the essential community life there."

One may trace the same process in most American states. Not only has the little red school house almost totally vanished in the East, but the smaller high schools are being consolidated apace — sometimes for sound reasons, but more often simply to produce a basketball team with a better record at a consolidated school, regardless of the consequences to the little towns or to the pupils trundled for many miles on buses.

As Mr. Scott Moncrieff puts it, "This new development suggests a lack of understanding of what education is about. It removes children far too early from effective parental influence, and it reduces the sense of community, of being a part of their own society. Plainly, education is being seen as an impersonal manipulation of the individual into something that will primarily be of use to the state, a bureaucratic ideal not unknown in Russia. And even as such it is proving unsuccessful."

Automation Is a Must

By AMBROSE HILLS

It is said that within the next thirty-odd years the present population of the world will be doubled. We will need twice the food and then some to feed them. The same goes for clothing and shelter.

Surely, these important requirements will not be met unless man uses all the skill at his command.

To my mind there is something indecent about efforts to stop such progress. We must have automation in order to survive.

True, there are problems of distribution, but they are picayune compared with production problems. Instead of so much concern over who gets the biggest share from a small bowl of stew, our main effort should be to fill the bowl to overflowing.

Instead, many organized groups seem to be more interested in promoting scarcity in order to keep prices high. Some unions have make-work rules, and there is a great deal of featherbedding: Some fight against automation every step of the way.

If Canadians fail to adopt automation, then we will have unemployment with a vengeance! Our products will cost so much more than those made by new methods. We must not forget that we compete with the world as well as sell to it. And we have a moral obligation to try to meet the needs of others at prices they can afford.

Democrat Farm Case Argued By Humphrey

By HARRY KELLY

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey argued the Democrats' farm case today at the National Corn Picking Contest, charging that Sen. Barry Goldwater "intends to make a shambles of agriculture."

Humphrey, due to follow the Republican presidential candidate on the platform at the big farm event, said in his prepared remarks that Goldwater's votes in the Senate and his public statements "show one thing — the Goldwater wrecking crew is ready to roll. And the wreckage would be somthing to see."

He quoted Goldwater as having called for "prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program" and added: "Imagine the empty stores — the empty cash registers. Imagine the farm foreclosures — the abandoned farm houses."

The farmers, he said, "had a trial run of Goldwater's final solution to the farm problem" under Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture in the Eisenhower administration.

Under Benson, Humphrey argued, "managed deflation of farm prices and income was the policy" and in the eight years from 1952 to 1960 the number of farms fell 25 per cent and the "total net income of the remaining farm operators fell 26 per cent."

"But," said Humphrey, "the leader of the Goldwaterites would make Benson look like a bush leaguer."

Thursday night Humphrey hammered on education issues at a Milwaukee rally and contended that Goldwater "refuses to face the facts" of education problems.

Humphrey said "Goldwater tells us he wants to go back to 'the good old days.' I remember those days of drought, dust, crop failures and depression — they don't bring back fond memories."

The individual, Humphrey said, found he could not cope with the forces of drought and depression, "but united we could save — did save — America."

The people then, he said, approved the decisions to create the Tennesss Valley Authority, the Rural Electric Cooperatives "and the nationwide system of soil and water conservation which helped farmers preserve their land."

But Goldwater, said Humphrey, is seeking to persuade the country "to turn its back on the blessings that have flowed from our learning of the hard lessons of yesterday. Sen. Goldwater would seek to repeal the past and veto the future."

New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Following is the complete tabulation of Friday stock transactions on the New York Stock Exchange.

[illegible]

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took in stride the explosion of an atomic bomb by Red China and showed a substantial gain late Friday afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.2 million shares compared with 6.59 million Thursday.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to more than a point along a broad front.

Wall Street was digesting the political events in Russia and Britain and seemed to have gotten over Thursday's uncertainty. The rise was dampened slightly by the news from China but at no time did the list show a loss.

The leading motors, most steels, aerospace issues, electrical equipments, nonferrous metals, airlines, building materials, office equipments, rails and electronics moved higher.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed as investors tried to assess the impact of the Labor party victory. U.S. government bonds drifted slightly lower.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures were mostly steady on the Board of Trade late today.

Near the close of trading wheat was fractionally ahead for the session and soybeans traded in a narrow range on both sides of the market. Corn was mixed.

Communist China's detonation of its first atomic bomb, Premier Khrushchev's resignation and the British election had little effect on the grain markets.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 24 ,corn 230, oats 4, barley 2, soybeans 274 and rye none.

White - Davis Store to Close In Pueblo

Morris Guberman, president of Kaufman's, Colorado Springs, and President of Guberman's, Inc., a corporation now operating the White & Davis Store in Pueblo, announced that the White & Davis Store, formerly run as a subsidiary of the Colorado Springs store, will terminate its operation on or before Jan. 31, 1965.

The present lease of the premises expires on that date, and Guberman stated that there was no intention to renew the lease.

Guberman stated the reasons for this decision included the fact that the White & Davis building in Pueblo was outmoded and not suitable for a modern up-to-date retailing operation.

Also, he is devoting all his time to the operation of the Kaufman's Store in Colorado Springs (which is now a subsidiary of Goldring, Inc., of New York).

A going-out-of-business sale at Pueblo will start Monday.

Money Earmarked For New Air Fields

WASHINGTON(UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency today announced federal aid allocations for airports on a 50-50 matching basis for the fiscal year which started July 1. The allocations included:

Colorado — Broomfield $23,494; Denver Stapleton $198,814; Fort Collins $97,000; Grand Junction $161,465; Greeley $41,574; Hayden $340,779; Rangely $20,441.

Wyoming— Laramie $54,395; Pine Bouffs $12,220; Riverton $43,519.

FIRE CONTROLLED

ESTES PARK (UPI)—Fire in Roosevelt National Forest was controlled Thursday after blackening about five acres. The Forest Service earlier had reported it covered 20 acres. A B17 bomber from Colorado Springs dumped 2,000 gallons of slurry on the area.

"Dolly, have you given any thought as to how we're going to vote in the Presidential election?"

Curtis Reported Seeking New Man

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Raymond McGranahan, former executive vice president of the Times-Mirror Co. of Los Angeles, has been offered the presidency of Curtis Publishing Co., his wife said Friday.

McGranahan was out of town. Mrs. McGranahan said her husband had not yet decided whether he would accept the offer.

She said her husband had been offered the top post in Curtis but she did not know if he would replace Matthew J. Culligan, who presently is both chairman and president of Curtis and is under fire from two of the company's executives, who have been suspended.

The two are Clay Blair Jr., editor of the Saturday Evening Post and Marvin D. Kantor, head of the magazine department.

The New York Times said flatly Friday that McGranahan Curtis and that Culligan would Curtis and that culligan would be asked to resign.

Medicine Bow Forest Scene Of New Fire

Fire fighters mopped up on a dying forest fire in the Shoshone National Forest Friday when another fire broke out in the Medicine Bow National Forest.

William Augsbach, supervisor of the Medicine Bow Forest, said the new outbreak destroyed about 40 acres of lodgepole timber during the afternoon.

Nearly 50 men and heavy equipment battled the blaze. Augsbach said converted bombers would start slurry drops on the fire, believed to be man-started. He said the fire was within 10 miles of Fox Park, a small logging community near the Colorado border.

The town's population is about 150. The fire was located about 40 miles west of Laramie.

More than 400 men fought the Shoshone fire, about 30 miles southwest of Cody, to bring the five-day-old blaze under control. It began dying under a four-six inch snow fall early Friday, the first of the season in the Absaroka mountain range.

Unofficial estimates placed damage at more than 700 acres.

Accused Spies Are Deported by U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alexandre Sokolov, RQ, and his wife, 34, accused of espionage until their trial was abruptly ended by the Justice Department, have been deported to Czechoslovakia.

Five federal agents put the couple aboard a jet airliner bound for Prague Thursday night. "I'm very happy about it, not to be sitting behind bars," said Mrs. Sokolov.

The couple had spent more than a year in jail after their arrest in Washington, D.C. On the fifth day of the trial here, the prosecution dropped the charges for "national security" reasons.

They waived deportation hearings.

U. S. Suspends Red Spring Wheat Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Friday it is suspending until further notice the sale of government-owned hard red spring wheat for domestic use because ample supplies are now available for this year's production.

This class of wheat is grown largely in the upper Great Plains.

Some farm groups have criticized government sales of wheat, contending they have tended to depress grower prices for this year's wheat.

The department said its action is designed to encourage maximum use of hard red spring wheat out of private trade channels and minimize unnecessary movement of this class of wheat into government stocks under price-support programs.

It said government sales will be resumed when and if it appears desirable, to provide adequate supplies for market needs at reasonable and stable prices.

Maytag Sees Possible Loss

DENVER (UPI)—State Democratic Chairman Robert Maytag estimates the Colorado economy will lose $700 million if Barry Goldwater is elected president.

Maytag said he was basing his view on Goldwater's book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," in which he suggests establishing by law "a rigid timetable for a staged withdrawal" of the government from social welfare, education, public power, agriculture, public housing and urban renewal.

Maytag said this also would cause the loss of "thousands upon thousands" of jobs in the state.

Newsmen Visit Area Military

Fifteen members of the Oklahoma Press Association arrived at Peterson Field Thursday afternoon for a two-day visit to military installations in the area.

The group is headed by Ben Blackstock, secretary of the association, from Oklahoma City and comprises publishers and reporters representing a cross-section of Oklahoma's newspaper fraternity.

The visit is sponsored by North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) headquarters here. It is part of a continuing program to keep newsmen and, in turn, the citizens of the United States and Canada abreast of latest developments in aerospace defense and the functions of the two-nation command.

This morning the group visited NORAD headquarters and attended briefings by the NORAD Briefing Team. Then followed a tour of NORAD's combat operations center, the hub of this continent's defense, where constant watch is maintained against surprise attack.

After watching day-to-day operations in the combat operations center, they had a chance to discuss aerospace defense with General John K. Gerhart, NORAD commander in chief, and several of his senior staff officers during a workshop hession.

District 3 Board Studies Classroom Space Problem

The board of school district 3, Widefield - Security, struggled again Thursday night with its continuing problem — classroom space.

Only three members attended the meeting: Rodger Fay, who acted as chairman, and Thomas Slack and Ted Forde.

Supt. Richard Taylor told the board that the district is to get $225,000 in federal funds with all of it earmarked for building, and may well get another $150,000.

However, he added that the district at this time has 5,352 students, a total of 559 more than it had at this time last year.

Taylor projected a plan to build an addition to the high school with the first $250,000, and an addition to the Watson Junior High School with more than half of the other $150,000. The remainder of that money would be used for equipment in the buildings, he said.

The board agreed that Taylor should have preliminary plans drawn up by the architect, Carlisle Guy, for the two projects.

The addition to the high school would be to house vocational education.

Taylor's projected plan called for these classrooms: auto mechanic and body shop; metal working shop; business machines and programming classrooms, and carpentry and cabinet making shop, in addition there would be a room for home economics and another for graphic arts.

Taylor pointed out that Watson Junior High was built for maximum student capacity of 450, with federal specifications indicating that fewer than 400 students would be ideal. The building now has 502 students, he said.

Taylor's suggestion approved by the board, is to add five classrooms and a science classroom to the Watson building.

The superintendent admitted he didn't know what the situation would be in the district by the time that the additions are completed.

The board also instructed Taylor to work out an agreement with Widefield Homes for five lots to be added to the school ground total of South Elementary School because it is likely that an addition will have to be added to the school in the not too distant future.

The school board also learned that another administrative board in the area was up against problems.

Alfred Cooke represented the Security Water and Sanitation District before the school board to ask for a chance to survey a bit of school - owned land for water supply.

Cooke asked for permission for the water and sanitation district to investigate the potential of the well on the old Widefield School site which is west across the highway and just south of the main entrance to Security.

The district owns the land and building there but doesn't use the property as it has been leased to the Lion's Club. The original deed on the land, which was drawn up when the school district acquired the land in the last century states that the land must be used for community purposes or it will revert to the original owners.

By holding on to the land, the district is able to rent it to the Lions Club which maintains the building as a community center.

Cooke told the board, "We are looking for water. We had a hectic summer and we now have a committee checking the aquifer from which we get out water."

He pointed out that the Sproul-owned wells are low on water and that the Clear Springs Contract allows for only 30 acre feet of water between now and the end of the year.

The board agreed unanimously to allow the water district to check the well for water potential, depending upon the legal status of such a probe, which is left yet to be worked out.

Purchase of two vehicles was authorized:

A four - door carry - all with V-8 engine was purchased from the Colorado Springs Equipment Company for $2,670, and a pick-up truck was purchased from Phil Long Ford for $1,828.44.

The Security Volunteer Fire Department was given permission to use the high school gymnasium for its annual fund raising dance on the night of Dec. 19.

Navy Ball May Be Complete Sell - Out

"The Navy Relief Ball ticket committee reports that ticket sales for this year's affair is surpassing all expectations," said Lt. Cmdr. Jim Holbrook.

Guest star Jackie Cooper, Everett Conover as emcee, and the best in dance music provided by the NORAD "Commanders" orchestra and the "Noradaiers" will highlight the Navy Relief Ball, at the Broadmoor International Center, October 31.

"Although the $4 ticket price is slightly higher this year, reservations now indicate the Ball will be a sell-out," commented LCDR Holbrook.

Only 1,000 tickets will be sold for this top social event. Ticket outlets are the Naval Reserve Training Center at Prospect Lake, Blick's Sporting Goods, the Palmer House, Swiss Chalet, and Helen Atwater at the Broadmoor Hotel.

The Naval Forces at Ent (635-8911 Ext: 2260) will also handle ticket and table reservations. Ticket and table reservations can only be confirmed upon remittance of admission.

Boys Camp Members Visit Newspaper

Members of the Frontier Boys Camp, Divide, Colo., visited the Gazette Telegraph plant Friday and saw how the paper is prepared and printed.

In the group were Mark Steffan, Tommy Trussell, Art Maestas, Tony Pletcher, Dwayne McCoy, Teddy Bova, Kenny Reisbeck, Albert Morris, Chuckie Garland and Emory Otto.

Now, Poor Time To Spray For Pine Scale

Now is not the time to spray for pine scale infestation, according to the City Forestry Department.

City Forester Bill Schacht said that the hard shell infestation is not vulnerable to spraying at this time. The time to spray, he said, is during the larvae stage in the spring.

Schacht said there has been door - to - door soliction here by out - of - town persons wanting to spray trees for pine scale infestation.

Motion for New Trial Denied

Bennie Thomas Martinez who was found guilty Oct. 7 of aggravated robbery and conspiracy had a motion for a new trial denied in District Court Friday by Judge William M. Calvert and Oct. 30 was set for sentencing Martinez, 30, formerly of 609 S. Sierra Madre St. was accused of holding up the Self Service Drug Store, 506 W. Colorado Ave. March 17, escaping with a quantity of drugs and conspiring with Henry Eddie Maestas and Henry Filimone Vigil.

Maestas, 28, 513 Walnut St. will be tried Dec. 1 for his part in the offense. Vigil, 22, formerly of 609 S. Sierra Madre St. will also be tried on the same day.

Security Park Head To Attend Texas Meet

Security Park and Recreation District Superintendent Paul Morris will leave Sunday to attend the American Institute of Park Executives convention in Houston, Tex.

The convention will be Sept. 18-23. Under consideration at the convention will be joining the AIPE with the American Recreation Society into one professional society for park directors and planners.

Gene German, park superintendent for the Colorado Springs Park and Recreation Department, will also attend the meeting.

Fountain Okays Record Budget Of $550,468

Fountain Trustees have approved a record $550,468 1965 budget to run the town of 2,100 persons south of Colorado Springs.

The town property tax levy will remain the same as the 1964 levy at 18.9 mills, according to John Dahlman, the town office manager.

The 1964 total budget was $368,197.26 with a 7.9 mill general fund levy and 11 - mill bonded indebtedness levy.

The 1965 levy will have a 1.6 — mill general fund levy and 17.3 - mill bonded indebtedness levy.

The hike in the bonded indebtedness levy is partly due to new issues of water bonds, Dahlman said. In addition, all water department salaries will be paid - with water bond money until the current water main improvement project is completed.

Part of the lowering of the general fund levy for 1965, Dahltown revenues.

About $320,000 is expected from sale of electricity, including such areas as Widefield. The town is also enforcing its ordinace requiring business licenses. Revenue from water meter deposits is reported up.

Auditions Scheduled For 'Tosca' Sunday

The Colorado Springs Opera Association will hold auditions for "Tosca" in the choir house of Grace Episcopal Church, Monument and Tejon Streets on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The Puccini opera will be presented at the Wasson High Auditorium on Feb. 5-6.

CHEEVER TO SPEAK — State Sen. Vernon A. Cheever will speak on "Aviation History in Colorado Springs" at a meeting of the Historical Society of the Pikes Peak Region at the County Office Building at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. He will tell the story of the famous Bullet and other early planes and relate some of his own aviation experience in World War I.

Former Resident Named to Pueblo Planning Unit

James F. Poole, Central High School mathematics teacher in Pueblo, who Monday night was appointed by the Pueblo City Council to the City Planning and Zoning Commission, the first Negro to seek and receive a municipal office provided by the city charter there, has Colorado Springs connections. He was formerly at Ent Air Base, here and his wife Martha, is the former Martha Spann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Spann, 3132 W. Colorado Ave. Members of this family were employed at Glen Eyrie, home of the late William J. Palmer, founder of Colorado Springs, in his lifetime. It is a pioneer Colorado Springs family and well known.

Poole will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles E. Berry, who is named to the City Council.

Poole had previously taken an interest in Pueblo municipal affairs and is a member of the Citizens Advisory group of that city. He was reared in a family of teacher in Laurens, S. C. and received a bachelor of science degree from Benedict College, Columbia, S. C. He joined the Central High School faculty in 1962, after completing military service. His wife is a School District 60 kindergarten teacher and was formerly a kindergarten teacher of Colorado School District No. 11. The couple have a two -year-old daughter.

Driver Found Guilty on Reckless Count

Phillip Cullens, 23, 2572 Elvin Ave., was found guilty of reckless driving by Judge Allan Asher Friday in Municipal Court, and was fined $75.

The judge suspended $25 on condition Cullens attends the traffic course Nov. 18 in the City Auditorium.

Charlie Lee, 24, 1522 Cheyenne Rd., was also found guilty of reckless driving on two charges, and also guilty of a charge of injury to city property.

Judge Asher fined Lee $100 on one charge, and suspended his right to drive in the city for 30 days, and levied a $50 fine of the second charge, and a $10 fine on the injury charge. He also ordered a writ of execution issued immediately as Lee failed to appear in court for his trials.

John Mosansky, 19, 816 W. Kiowa St., was found not guilty of disobeying a traffic signal, in a companion case with Wilfred Oldehoeft, 37, 2504 Mt. Vernon St., who was given a warning by the judge on a charge of disobeying a traffic control sign.

Frank Rameriz, 19, 1912 W. Colorado Ave., was fined $50 on a guilty finding of taking the right of way from a pedestrian, and $5 on driving with defective brakes.

Charges of reckless and careless driving were dismissed against Isabel Disantis, 25, 2715 N. Wood Ave.

John Reid, 20, Pueblo, was found guilty of careless driving and his $15 bond was applied to the fine of the same amount.

Bonds were ordered forfeited by the following who failed to appear in court: Edwin Young, 22, Denver $5, right turn only; Cyrus Padgett, 20, 31 Mt. Washington Dr., $5, right turn, wrong lane; and John Hecimovich, 41, Denver, $10, following too close.

Fines of $25 each were imposed on three persons who pleaded guilty to drunk charges. They were Onesimo Madrid, 21, 219 E. Vermijo St.; Frieda Thompson, 49, 3308 Virginia Ave. and John Trucker, 23, Ft. Carson.

Miss Thompson also pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge and was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

FAA Does Not Object to Radio Antenna

The Federal Aviation Agency will not object if KRYT-Radio extends its radio antenna 121 feet in excess of regulations, according to Donald E. Pearson, chief, Airspace Utilization Branch, FAA.

KRYT proposes extending the height of its antenna to 321 feet, from an existing height of 146 feet.

This, the FAA pointed out, would exceed the standard defined in Federal Aviation Regulations in extending more than 200 feet above ground within the Colorado Springs Control Zone.

The FAA said the antenna is outside the runway approach for Peterson Field and the Rocky Mountain Airport, which are located respectively 3.1 and 3.2 miles from the antenna.

They said the antenna is outside normal traffic patterns for both airports.

The FAA said pilots conducting flights in accordance with Visual Flight Rules should not be adversely affected by the higher antenna if it is "conspicuously marked and lighted."

Rites Held Thursday For David Bates

Services were held Thursday morning at the Memorial Gardens Cemetery for David James Bates who died recently at a local hospital.

He is survived by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bates, Colorado Springs; Robert Earl Bates, brother, Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Prewett, maternal grandparents, Colorado Springs; two aunts and one uncle, all of Colorado Springs; Mrs. J. O. Kopp, paternal great grandmother, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Alice Prewett, maternal great grandmother of Alexandria, Ind.

Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg officiated at the ceremony and Law Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

HOMER SHARPTON

Homer Sharpton New Manitou Chamber Head

Homer Sharpton was elected president of the Manitou Springs Chamber of Commerce Friday at a board of directors meeting.

He will be installed Oct. 29 at a C of C membership dinner.

John Smith of Pitcock's Rexall Drugs was elected a director of the Chamber. Outgoing directors are: James Miller, Russell Wolfe and Joseph Graham.

Sharpton has been in the real estate business for almost 30 years. Presently he is associated with Region Realty. He has lived in Manitou over 35 years and presently lives at 454 El Paso Blvd.

He served two terms on the Manitou City Council, was a past director of the Chamber of Commerce and has been on the Manitou Volunteer Fire Department for over 20 years. He belongs to Manitou Masonic Lodge and Al Kaly Shrine. He was past president of the Manitou Springs Kiwanis Club and in 1960 was elected Kiwanis lieutenant governor for Southern Colorado.

The membership dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Garden Lane Restaurant, 104 Manitou Ave. Reservations are requested no later than the evening of Oct. 27 at Chamber headquarters, by the Chamber.

General Grants Troops Two - Day Holiday Here

Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized; and Ft. Carson commander, has granted a two-day holiday to his troops in recognition of the rating of Superior which they attained in the Fifth U. S. Army training inspection of division and post units which was completed this week.

Superior is the highest rating that can be attained on an inspection of this type.

Most of the Mountain Post personnel take the holiday Saturday and Monday, Oct. 17 and 19. However, those few who will be on duty during the weekend will be given other days off by unit commanders.

The Fifth Army inspectors announced during their critique on Friday that they were particularly impressed with the military courtesy which was demonstrated throughout the week at Fort Carson as well as with the enthusiasm with which the troops participated in their training.

Subsequently Gen. Maroun complimented the assembled key commanders and staff officers of the post and announced the holiday.

Motion for New Sanity Exam Denied

A motion by attorney Lawrence Hecox to have another psychiatrist examine Raymond Anderson at the expense of the court was denied Friday by District Judge William M. Calvert.

Anderson, 52, 230 E. Victoria St., who has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon has already been found legally sane by Dr. Richard L. Conde.

Hecox told the court that Dr. Conde's examination had been "perfunctory" and that the doctor had spent less than one hour with Anderson.

Judge Calvert gave the lawyer permission to file a motion for the court to appoint a second psychiatrist at the expense of the defendant.

Anderson is alleged to have stabbed J. D. Fontenberry, 43, 230 E. Victoria St., in the stomach with a butcher's knife Aug. 5 during a disagreement over a woman.

Samuel Bronston's "The Fall Of The Roman Empire," starring such top names as Sophia Loren, Stephen Boyd, Alec Guinness, James Mason and Christopher Plummer, opens Friday at the Cooper Theatre.

Set around 108 A. D., when Rome was at its apex as a great power under the reign of Marcus Aurelius, the Paramount release traces the disintegration of the empire after the emperor's death and the rise to power of his corrupt son. Alec Guinness portrays Emperor Marcus Aurelius, Sophia Loren is his daughter Lucilla and Christopher Plummer is his son Commodus.

In re-creating one of the most spectacular eras in world history, producer Samuel Bronston and his porduction designers Veniero Colosanti and John Mooe built the largest and most extensive sets ever constructed for any motion picture, including "Cleopatra" and "Intolerance." The re-construction of the Roman Forum, the Via Appia and the barbarian village outside the Roman gates, covered an area of 55 acres.

Filmed in Ultra - Panavision and Technicolor, "The Fall Of The Roman Empire" also stars John Ireland, Mel Ferrer, Omar Sharif and Anthony Quayle. The film was directed by Anthony Mann and written by Ben Barzman, Basilio Franchina and Philip Yordan. The music was composed by Dimitri Tiomkin.

90 Bristol Court to Tell Three Tales in One Show

Three neighboring families — the Scotts, the Gentrys, and the Harris family, provide three different storylines for NBC-TV's new Fall entry, the 90-minute comedy series "90 Bristol Court," which will have its premiere Oct. 5.

Stories about each family will be linked by a common theme, common characters and the common apartment court setting — complete with heated swimming pool. Tnis programming innovation — three interrelated comedies — features a high - spirited teenage girl, a newly married couple and their star boarder, and a harassed father of a family, who never gives up the battle to escape from behind the eight ball of conformity and family finances.

The three comedy sequences are: "Karen," which stars Richard Denning and Mary LaRoche, and introduces 15 - year-old Debbie Watson in the title role: "Tom, Dick and Mary," starring Steve Franken, Joyce Bulifant and Don Galloway, and "Harris Against the World" starring Jack Klugman in the title role and co-starring Patricia Barry.

The apartment superintendent - handyman will serve as the connecting link between each story. Guy Raymond, as Cliff Murdock, plays this role.

The two-level balcony apartment court — built at Revue Productions — in exact detail down to the ornate doorknobs, provides the focal point for the activities of the three families.

"90 Bristol Court" opens with the Scott family in "Karen." The hub of this particular family is a teenage girl named Karen (Debbe Watson), a dynamc variable defeat her family. In their battle to be "perfect parents," Steve and Barbara Scott (Richard Denning and Mary LaRoche) are forever bested by their charming child. Her little sister, Mimi (Gina Gillespie) has her own preoccupations (ambition: to make the Olympic team in the 100-yard dash) which are not always in harmony with Karen's plans. The household cook, Florence (Bobo Lewis) sometimes finds herself an unwilling accomplice in Karen's schemes.

The Gentrys, 90 Bristol Court's second family, consist of Dr. Tom Gentry (Don Galloway), his best man, Dr. Dick Moran (Steve Franken) and Tom's bride, Mary (Joyce Bulifant). Because Tom's meager salary as an intern, augmented by Mary's as a medical secretary, fail to stretch far enough to afford their apartment at "90 Bristol Court" they have taken in a well - heeled intern as a star boarder to ease the economic squeeze. The newlyweds hate the "three's a crowd" setup — except on the day the rent is due.

The thrid segment of "90 Bristol Court" is "Harris Against the World," the story of an American husband, determined not to give up in the constant battle of debts, bosses, the pressures of society, automation, conformity and taxes. Although he seems to finish in last place more often than not, Alan Harris (Jack Klugman) a "plant superintendent" at a huge movie studio, has several postive things going for him. He has a beautiful wife (co-star Patricia Barry), a champion at running up hills and promoting projects in which Harris has to serve as muscle and brain power, and two children of whom he is inordinately fond. Though the demands of his family and job are many, Harris always manages to come back for another round, since the rewards of his effort in the long run justify the battle.

Freson Set To Shoot Kim. Sophia

Magazine photographer Robert Freson has arrived in Israel on assignment to shoot Sophia Loren on the set of Paramount's "Judith."

Freson, who has worked all over the world, has never before shot on movie sets. On his current trip he is covering Paramount's "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders" in London, and "Judith" in Israel.

The first scenes to go before the camera on his arrival here were filmed in a Haifa street redesigned to look like a section of Damascus. Involved in the sequence, along with Miss Loren, were Peter Finch, Hans Verner, Shraga Friedman and Joseph Gross.

Sam Jaffe Finally Is Dr. Zorba

Sam Jaffe, the Dr. David Zorba of "Ben Casey," figures his video characterization has finally taken permanent hold.

"When I first started playing the role four years ago, I led a dual life. . . .as Sam Jaffe and Dr. Zorba," Sam recalls. "Then, with the series gaining more and more popularity, Sam Jaffe became completely submerged to Dr. Zorba. Now, the transformation is complete.

"On Fifth Avenue in New York the other day, my wife (Bettye Ackerman) and I were introduced as Dr. and Mrs. Zorba."

The real - life Mrs. Jaffe plays Dr. Maggie Graham in Bing Crosby Productions' "Ben Casey."

Claire Bloom Set for 'Spy'

Claire Bloom has been signed to co-star oposite Richard Burton in "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold," scheduled to go before the cameras in January on location in Europe.

The exciting spy thriller, based on John Le Carre's will be photographed in London, Ireland and Germany.

The important film marks the second time Miss Bloom has worked for Martin Ritt, having recently co-starred with Paul Newman in "The Outrage."

Bridle to Horse

Leon Ames, co-star of "Mister Ed," had the title role in the former "Father of the Bride" series, also on the CBS Television Network.

It took Staff Photographer STAN PAYNE two weeks to get the shots for the two-headed pictures on today's cover. Actually they didn't come that way. STAN took the profiles without make-up and costume one week and returned to FAUST rehearsals the next week for the second shots. Then with a sharp cutting blade and a pot of glue we came up with the TWO FACES OF THE PEOPLE OF FAUST. MAJ. Cobras Need Stands-ins

Thanks to hot lights, even a cobra needs a stand-in. Cornel Wilde found this out shooting scenes with Golden Cobras (the most deadly kind) in a South African village for his Paramount film, "The Naked Prey."

For each cobra seen on the screen, four had to be used. The hot lights from the Technicolor and Panavision cameras made the reptiles more frenzied and dangerous than usual. This meant that twenty cobras, none less than five feet long, had to be caught before the required scenes could be filmed.

The cobras were supplied by Dawie Van Heerdan, production manager on the film, who is also one of South Africa's leading animal and reptile men who furnishes both for zoos around the world.

BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Mizokami Brothers Produce Co. of Blanca, Colo., were given permission Wednesday to have their $320,000 damage suit against the government heard before the U.S. Court of Claims. President Johnson signed a bill enabling the action. The company said their suit is for damages caused by an erroneous 1962 finding by the Food and Drug Administration. The federal agency ruled the firm's spinach was contaminated by the pesticide heptachlor.

Ball playing goes back to prehistoric times. Homer and other early writers reported that the ancient Greeks found their recreation in ball playing. Isaiah wrote: "He will surely turn and toss thee like a ball." A form of ball game is portrayed on many Egyptian monuments. STARTS THURSDAY—Flipper greets his pal Luke Halpin and a new friend Pamela Franklin in this scene from "Flipper's New Adventure." The color movie, filmed in the Florida Keys and the Bahamas, starts Thursday at the Ute Theatre.

'Flipper' Flips Back To the Ute

Still another orphan has fought to overcome adversity in early life and has risen to achieve Hollywood stardom.

Separated from her father at the age of six months and orphaned completely when her mother died less than a year later, this pretty young girl never gave up. Finally, she won a beauty contest and qualified for her first motion picture role.

Although she has grown to 300 pounds and spends most of her time in the water, she is still a No. 1 world-wide box-office attraction. Her name is Flipper and she is the bottle-nosed dolphin starring with Luke Halpin and Pamela Franklin in "Flipper's New Adventure," starting Thursday at the Ute Theatre. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sequel to last year's tremendously popular film, "Flipper."

As a matter of fact, the public has so completely flipped for Flipper that she is now starring in an MGM-TV series on NBC.

But let's take the story from the beginning. Flipper and her mother were separated from her father in 1962, when scientists capturd them in Biscayne Bay for exhibit in the main tank at Miami's Seaquarium. Less than a year later, Flipper's mother succumbed to a disease caused by minute marine parasites in her blood stream.

Ricou Browning, Flipper's trainer, recalls this crisis in the young dolphin's life.

"At the time her mother died she was still on a milk diet and had never eaten or even tasted a live fish. Normally when this occurs, the baby dolphin will die soon after its mother. Fortunately, Flipper quickly learned to eat such cut fish as imported Icelandic herring, blue runner and mackerel. Dolphins swallow their meals whole, so their diet can be supplemented with vitamin pills secreted inside the fish."

With the help of her friends at Seaquarium the worst crisis in Flipper's life had passed. If she hadn't been in captitivy she might well have perished.

Several months later, producer Ivan Tors and Browning joined forces to search for a dolphin which could play the title role in a motion picture. During their talent search they "auditioned" more than 80 dolphins, noting age, figure, sex (females are more docile and easier to train) and personality. It was much like a beauty contest.

Flipper scored a "perfect" in every category. A very friendly dolphin, she loved to have people swim with her. Since she had been in captivity almost since birth she was completely free of scars from shark fights. This also was an asset.

The dolphin immediately went into training with Browning, who is considered to be one of the finest scuba divers in the world. Since he had never before attempted to train any kind of animal he attacked the problem without preconceived ideas about techniques or limitations. He used his swimming talent to advantage and went into the water to work with Flipper, whereas previous dolphin trainers had stayed on the shore.

Producer Tors planned a six to eight-months training period for Flipper, but Browning had her ready in three. Even he was amazed at the intelligence of the dolphin.

"Once I figured out how to communicate what I wanted, Flipper was happy to perform," he said. "She has total recall and has never forgotten a trick. The difficulty in communication is from human to dolphin, not the other way around. Flipper will perform on a voice command or by a hand signal which can be given above or below the water."

Browning's enthusiasm about dolphins is boundless.

"Many animals can be trained but not tamed," he declared. "A dolphin when tamed can be trusted completely. Flipper has 96 needle-sharp teeth but she can hold a human being's arm in her mouth without making a mark on it. Even if someone should accidentally hurt her or play too roughly, Flipper doesn't retaliate. She merely swims away.

Up-Staged

A trained sea gull, who was supposed to feed a herring to Marlon Brando in a scene for Universal's "Bedtime Story," starring Brando, David Niven and Shirley Jones, decided to change the script. The bird landed on Brando's head, instead, and looked directly into the camera.

Dusk to Dawn At Aircadia

Two extra features have been added to the regular program at the Aircadia Drive-in Theatre for an all night dusk - to -dawn show.

First, Hayley Mills and Eli Wallach are starred in Walt Disney's "The Moonspinners" in color. Next, Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin are starred in "Four For Texas" an all out action musical in color. The third big hit, "The Lonely And The Brave" stars Kirk Douglas. The last hit on the program, "The Spiral Road" stars Rock Hudson.

'Candidate' Set Tuesday At FA Center

"The Manchurian Candidate," first-rate thriller starring Frank Sinatra, Laurence Harvey and Janet Leigh will return to the Fine Arts Center by popular demand Tuesday.

The tale of Washington espionage and political intrigue is based upon the highly controversial novel by Richard Condon. As in the book, the film chronicles the experiences of a supposed "hero" (Laurence Harvey) whose Achilles heel is a personality weakness resulting from utter domination by his mother, Angela Lansbury.

Returning from the Korean conflict a medal-of-honor winner, Harvey does not know that he is really a remote-controlled tool of the Communists who had captured him. It is Frank Sinatra who finally uncovers the terror and the national menace implicit in this one man, and who leads the chase to prevent disaster.

Beautiful Leslie Parish is featured in the large cast, which includes Henry Silva, James Gregory, James Edwards, John McGiver and more.

Frank Sinatra, the singer, once more proves himself a competent actor in another military role. He also performs his wildest fight scene in a Karate battle with Henry Silva.

Molly Brown Moves to the Broadmoor

Like most actresses, Hermione Baddeley, who plays "Buttercup" Grogan in Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer's big color musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," now at the Broadmoor Theatre. Keeps a scrapbook of tributes she has received in a memorable acting career which covers a span of almost half a century.

But of these accolades, Miss Baddeley treasures three above all: (a) her Academy Award nomination for the small part she played with Laurence Harvey in "Room at the Top." (b) The enthusiastic reception given her by American critics for her Broadway debut in "A Taste of Honey." (c) A note she received from George Bernard Shaw after he had seen her in one of her first London plays.

The note read: Change your name from Baddeley to Goodeley."

In "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," Hermione co-stars with Debbie Reynolds and Harve Presnell, with Ed Begley and Jack Kruschen also in top roles.

'Iguana Set At 8th St.

Signing the stars for the screen version of Tennessee Williams' prize - winning play, "The Night of the Iguana," starting Sunday at the 8th st drive-in, kept Ray Stark, producer of the Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer and Seven Arts presentation, on the run.

In one memorable weekend the producer flew to Ireland for a meeting with John Huston, who was to direct the film, took off for Madrid to sign Ava Gardner for the Bette Davis role of "Maxine Faulk," jumped back to Switzerland to get Deborah Kerr for the Margaret Leighton part of "Hannah Jelkes" and wound up the three - day jaunt by obtaining Richard Burton in London for the role of "Rev. T. Lawrence Shannon."

The second feature, "Lady In A Cage" stars Olivia DeHavilland.

HEARTWARMING TALE — Burl Ives, Luana Pattern and Bobby Driscoll are featured in Walt Disney's heartwarming tale, "So Dear to My Heart," which opens Wednesday at the Chief Theatre. The film features both live and animated characters.

Chief Sets Disney Film On Wednesday

While the main story in Walt Disney's motion picture feature, "So Dear to My Heart," is told in live-action, there is also the traditional Disney cartoon animation to embellish the wonderful narrative, all in color by Technicolor.

The animation, amounting to about 15 per cent of the total footage, serves to picture a boy's reflections as he thumbs through a family album and treasure book, while the narrator — representing that same boy now grown to manhood — relates what happened.

In this fashion the album opens to start the tale, to the accompaniment of the title song, "So Dear to My Heart." In animation, the Wise Old Owl comes to "life" as the boy substitutes the picture of his little black lamb for that of the race horse, Dan Patch, as the new idol of his boyhood. The Owl and the cartoon version of the boy's pet ram go through a droll daydream scene until reality again is resume by living actors.

Another vivid animation scene has the Owl inspire the boy with examples of courage and venturesome ambition, citing Christopher Columbus, and Robert Bruce and the spider as examples, in the scrapbook.

A County Fair fantasy again shows the Wise Old Owl and the prize black ram enjoying a gay time, in animation, with scenes evoked from gala postcards and trophies of days now faded into the time of youth. And finally, there is the cartooned brief epilogue as the hand of the man who-was-the-boy closes the aged album, with its special award ribbon betokening that the youngster has indeed "made" something from what he "had" — an animal of merit from a discarded lamb, and the foundation for his own happy and well adjusted adult life.

The black sheep is a live animal for the main story action, and a cartoon character only for the animation interludes.

"So Dear to My Heart," in color by Technicolor, stars Burl Ives.

Wild Navy Sails Into The Aircadia

It's Lt Commander Quinton McHale (beter known as Ernest Borgnine) and his nautical cohorts in their first full-length motion picture feature as they cavort o'er sea and land in "McHale's Navy," set to open Sunday on the screen of the Aircadia Theatre.

America's most riotous comedy crew, fresh from their first two years on television as ABC-TV's popular half - hour comedy series, are bound to have theatre audiences rolling in the Isles. . .the Pacific Isles. . . when they set sail on their maddest escapade.

Especially written and produced for the nation's movie theatres, "McHale's Navy" is a 90 - minute Universal Picture, filmed in color, and produced and directed by Edward J. Montagne, who produces the TV series. Montagne is also responsible for the highly successful "Sergeant Bilko" television show.

With Academy Award winner Ernest Borgnine heading the cast, and with Joe Flynn and Tim Conway co - starring, the motion picutre theatre presentation of "McHale's Navy" also presents the zany crew of PT 73 which includes Carl Ballantine, Gary Vinson, Billy Sands, Edson Stroll, Gavin MacLeod, John Wright, Yoshio Yoda and Bob Hastings.

The featured feminine roles in the film are played by Claudine Longet and Jean Willes.

James Darren and Pamela Tiffin are starred in the second feature, "For Those Who Think Young."

Starlite Has 'Under Age' On Wednesday

Teenagers who are full of spice and ginger, the kids who live down the block, the youngsters facing the complex problems of growing up — these are the kids that "Under Age" is all about.

In this drama which is slated to open at the Starlite Theatre on Wednesday, two cleancut, decent kids get into trouble. They are not kids who go in for sudden crushes and sudden impulse desires. They are average youngsters whose only crime is that they are young and inexperienced.

But this startling new Hollywood release does not put the kids on trial. It is the mother of the girl who is in court to answer the shocking charge of rape.

Based upon an actual court case tried in a southern court, "'Under Age" bares the facts of parental selfishness, ignorance and misguidance.

In "Under Age," two attractive high school sweethearts take their problems to the adults from whom they should be able to receive proper guidance: the Boy Scout counsellor, the minister and the girl's mother.

Perhaps all are unwise. Perhaps they are out of touch with today's young people. Perhaps they are ill-prepared to cope with the problems of youth, adulthood and motherhood as they interrelate and affect each other. But the result is that the youngsters get into trouble, and the mother is brought into court on he unusual charge of rape for having aided and abetted the acts the kids commit which offend social sensibilities.

The verdict will startle and amaze moviegoers who will find "Under Age" one of the most informative, excitign and entertaining pictures of the year.

Jock MaHoney is starred in the second hit, "The Walls Of Hell."

Bonus Film At Vista Vue

A third and bonus hit has been added to the regular program for tonight's showing at the Vista Vue Drive-in Theatre.

Marlon Brando and David Niven are starred in the first hit, "Bedtime Story" in color. Next, Glenn Ford and Paula Prentiss play for laughs in "Advance to the Rear." The third and bonus feature, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" stars Glenn Ford and Ronnie Howard. It is in color.

Top Stars Are Featured In Chief Pic

"The 7th Dawn," Charles K. Feldman's Technicolor adventure romance which is now showing at the Chief Theatre, recreates the terror-filled days when guerrilla warfare raged in the Malayan jungles. It stars Academy Award - winner William Holden, Susannah York and Capucine, who portray the principals in a turbulent triangle of love, passion and intrigue against a backdrop of the film's authentic locations.

Holden portrays an American who has settled in the Malay states and has become a wealthy plantation owner. Miss York is the daughter of a British official, who is held hostage by the communists. Capucine is a Eurasian school-teacher in love with Holden.

For the actual locations filming of "The 7th Dawn," a massive ground-air operation, using hundreds of Malay troops was set up. Low flying spotter planes, supported by fighter bombers were also employed. And they turned the Ula Klang Valley into a spectacular battlefield for the film's tumultuous battle sequences.

Nothing like it had been seen or heard in Malaysia since the security forces swept through the area, mopping up the last-ditch enemy forces, more than a decade ago. For the thousands of natives recruited by director Lewis Gilbert, the filming of "The 7th Dawn" on the Malay Peninsula provided a horrified fascination as they participated in this motion picture recreation of their country's history. However, they found the pay they received as extras ample compensation for disturbing their present peaceful lives.

In the role of the Communist guerrilla leader, top Japanese actor and Karate champion, Tetsuro Tamba, co-stars with a distinguished trio of British players, Michael Goodliffe, Allan Cuthbertson and Maurice Denham. Co-producer Karl Tunberg wrote the screenplay for "The 7th Dawn," which is a Holdean Production, based on the novel by Michael Keon.

Lady Prez Makes for Happy Film

The Presidency of the United States—long a subject of interest to movie-makers — reached a record for frequency of appearance on the screen during 1964. Warner Bros. alone has two Presidential entries.

"Kisses for My President," now showing at the Peak Theatre with Fred MacMurray, Polly Bergen, Arlene Dahl, Eli Wallach and Edward Andrews starred, is Warner's newest offering on the subject. The comedy considers what might happen were a woman to become Chief Executive, and depicts the scramble of family-life, romance and politics which results.

The other Warner film which touches on the Presidency is "PT 109," a graphic account of the World War II heroism of the late John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

But the Chief Executive is not the exclusive concern of Warner Bro. during 1964. Columbia is in the field with another pair, "Dr. Strangelove" and "Fail Safe," United Artists with "The Best Man," and Paramount with "7 Days in May." Thus, in a single year, no less than six motion pictures which touch on the highest office in the land are in circulation.

As far back as 1909, however, there was a movie which dealt with a President, in this case Theodore Roosevelt. Abraham Lincoln leads all other Presidents as a character in films. He first appeared on screen in D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation," made in 1915. Two years later, he was the subject of a cycle of shorts. In 1924, his life was filmized under the tiele "Abraham Lincoln." Griffith made one of the earliest sound-pictures under the same title. In the Thirties there was a movie of Robert Sherwood's play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Three of John Ford's films used the Lincoln character, "Young Mr. Lincoln," "The Iron Hose" and "The Prisoner of Shark Island."

George Washington has appeared in pictures many times. Franklin Delano Roosevelt was depicted in "The Beginning of the End" and "Sunrise at Campobello." Woodrow Wilson was put on the screen in "Wilson." Andrew Jackson figured in "The Gorgeous Hussy" and "The President's Lady." James Madison appeared in "The Magnificent Doll." And there have been two mystery films about the Presidency, "The President Vanishes" and "The Phantom President."

Top Film Now Showing At Cooper

A book that is fast becoming one of literature's modern classics, "Island of the Blue Dolphins," made its bow as an exciting and memorable motion picture yesterday at the Cooper theatre. From Universal, and in color, it was produced by Robert B. Radnitz, and entirely photographed among breathtakingly beautiful sites.

Moviegoers will find in this beautiful color adventure film found in "Treasure Island" and "Robinson Crusoe" — both likewise classics read by children which became very enjoyable screen fare for adults. "Island of the Blue Dolphins" is matchlessly written, directed and photographed.

The photoplay by Ted Sherdeman and Jane Klove carefully transfers to the screen the John Newbery Medal award novel by Scott O'Dell, which also has won numberous other awards. In the process it becomes a more intense adventure and a tribute to the invincibility of the human spirit. This is the story based on an actual incident in California history, of an Indian girl who, on the order of Robinson Crusoe, finds herself along on a deserted island. It is this island which gives the tale its name; the story having very little to do with dolphins.

Celia Kaye, in her first feature film role, plays the lead so convincingly that it is difficult to realize she is not really living the part. At times, fear, pathos, loneliness and pain predominate to be replaced in her acting tour de force, with joy, gladness and excitement. Of the other human players, most of whom are seen briefly, Larry Domasin and Ann Daniel give powerful performances. George Kennedy, as the Aleut captain; Carlos Romero, as Miss Kay's father and tribal chief; Hal John Norman, as the sub-tribal chief; and Martin Garralaga as the mission priest, are memorable.

This is another masterpiece from producer Radnitz whose previous films were "A Dog of Flanders" and "Misty". He has taken infinite care in all departments, again exhibiting his great capability.

James B. Clark's direction shows ingenuity and intelligence in handling both the human and the animal members of the cast. Rontu, son of "A Dog of Flanders," enacts his part of the story with a naturalness that marks great acting, even in a dog, and is a credit to the ability of his trainer, Frank Weatherwax. In addition there are a pack of other dogs, two birds and a baby dolphin.

Photographed by Leo Tover on property owned by world-renowned artist Millard Sheets in Anchor Bay, Norther California, each scene is a lavishly colored painting. Many of the locales actually have been painted by Sheets and hang in galleries and museums.

The music by Paul Sawtell does much to add to the overall quality of the production in that dialog is kept to a minimum throughout. All of the technical work is fine.

KUALA LUMPUR — Malaysia is short of fertilizer.

Top Comedy Now Showing At the Ute

Tony Curtis adds still another tour de force to his long list of successes in Universal's romantic comedy in color, "Wild and Wonderful." In a very hilarious film, he is pitted against his best friend and yet most intense rival — a French Poodle dog, no less, named Monsieur Cognac — for the love of Christine Kaufmann. What happens before Tony wins out filled the Ute Theatre with gales of laughter at the opening of the movie.

Only an actor of Curtis' ability and stature would dare to challenge the entertainment business idiom that children and animals always steal the show. In his recent "40 Pounds of Trouble," Tony contended successfully with a six-year old girl. In "Wild and Wonderful," he competes with the dog and carries off the honors with his ample histrionic ability. Tony and Christine are a delightful romantic couple in the film — as they are in real life.

Michael Anderson's direction carefully points up the comedy and the romance. Under his patient handling, Monsieur Cognac is almost human in adding to the merriment. At the same time, Anderson manages to keep the actors in clear focus so that the animal never overshadows the stars.

Larry Storch, Marty Ingels and Jacques Aubuchon contribute outstanding character portrayals. They are supported by Pierre Olaf, Cliff Osmond, Fifi Dorsay (returning to the screen after a number of years away) and Marcel Hillaire who handle their lesser roles with believable realism always pointed towards creating laughs.

Top production mounting by producer Harold Hecht makes it possible for Joseph LaShelle's color photography to capture and impart the French atmosphere to the whole piece. The camera work is excellent.

Larry Markes, Michael Morris and Waldo Salt's well written screenplay plots a story of comedy and romance. When Cognac, one of France's most famous movie stars, finds the wine cellar of his master's palatial mansion open, he indulges in his old habit of imbibing, and "under the influence," he escapes into the streets of Paris. Tony, who with Storch and Ingels are an American Jazz trio working at a Montmartre club, has just finished his evening's stint and starts for a small bar. On the way, he is picked up by Monsieur Cognac. The dog and man make a night of it, drunkenly ending up in the combo's apartment.

In the morning, the American musicians are awakened by the police, accompanied by Cognac's mistress, Miss Kaufmann, and her guardian, Aubuchon. Tony is accused of dognapping. While he explains his innocence, he sees and falls instantly in love with Miss Kaufmann.

The secret romance survives the wild efforts of the now jealous Cognax to separate them, and they elope. The poodle's clever scheming turns wedding nights into a shambles, and Tony walks out when his wife refuses to give up the dog for a honeymoon.

It all works out when while Cognac and his mistress are doing a person-to-person type interview show for French television, Curtis, Storch and Ingels, independently decide to supply Cognac with his own girl friend. They each secure female poodles from an act in their nightclub, and release them in the mansion, creating one of the wildest episodes ever put on the screen, wrecking the television show.

Sellers Film Moves to The Sky-Vue

Screenwriters, credits for Pan-Arts new comedy presentation in Deluxe Color and Panavision "The World of Henry Orient," now showing at the Sky - View Theatre, read "Nora and Nunnally Johnson."

That, it happens, is a father and daughter.

But what makes the credit unusual is the fact that Nora wrote her part of the script while sitting in her studio in New York while Nunnally made his contribution from England!

It was this way:

Nora wrote the higly successful novel "The World of Henry Orient" some years ago. It was based mainly on some hair-brained adventures she remembered from her prep school days. The book was a success.

It was only recently, however, that Producer Jerome Hellman and Director George Roy Hill decided to make a movie of it and this required the competent hand of an expert Hollywood film adapter. And one of the best for years has been Nunnally Johnson. So the novel went to Nunnally for screen adaptation. It was then returned to Nora for final brushing, and now it's a highly successful motion picture — one of the ten most successful, in fact, to play New York's Radio City Music Hall in its 31 - year history.

"The World of Henry Orient" introduces the two teen - age comedy finds Tippy Walker and Merrie Spaeth and stars Peter Sellers, with Paula Prentiss, Angela Lansbury, Tom Bosley in strong supporting roles. Its music was written by Elmer Bernstein.

TRIVOLI CONCERT HALL — This spectacular view of the Concert Hall of Trivoli Garden of Copenhagen, Denmark, is one of the many breathtaking scenes from Capt. Irving Johnson's new film, "A Yankee Sails Across Scandinavia, which will be presented here for three performances only Oct. 31 at the Ute Theatre. There will be two matinees at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. with tickets sold on a non-reserved seat basis. Seats will be reserved for the 8:30 p.m. program. The program is being presented by the Theodore Fisher Management in cooperation with Cooper Foundation Theatres. Capt. Johnson will narrate the film in person. Tickets may be obtained from the Ute Theatre or Theodore Fisher Management, P.O. Box 146.

Rehearsals Set Monday For Elijah

Rehearsals for the Colorado Springs Chorale's production of "Elijah" will begin at 7:30 p. m. Monday. Rehearsals will be held on the top floor of the Riss Building, corner of Cascade and Bijou Strets.

Mendelssohn's "Elijah" ranks second only to the "Messiah" in populairty, but is not performed as often, perhaps because it demands such a large chorus. O chorus of 150 voices is expected for this tremendous work which will be performed January 31 under the direction of David Porter.

All area singers are urged to attend Monday night's rehearsal. There are no membership fees in the Chorale and rehearsals are held each Monday evening. For additional information, call Mrs. R. E. Ives at 634-6432 or David Porter at 392-5950.

Weekend Excursion Is Sold Out by Burlington

Burlington's weekend excursion to the Vail - Breckenridge area is sold out. So, the more than 400 who will arrive in Denver Union Station this morning, will leave behind several hundred others who were't quick enough to get to the ticket counter before reservations were exhausted.

After arrival, chartered buses will take the weekend vacationers to Morrison, Bear Creek Canyon, Evergreen, Elk Creek, past the "Christ of the Rockies" statue south of Shawnee, Kenosha Pass, Buena Vista, Leadville and Climax. Overnight rooms are reserved at the Vail-Breckenridge ski resort.

The railroad weekend package includes a reserved seat for the 2,068 - mile round trip from Chicago, most meals, hotel room, sightseeing bus rides, escort service and all tips.

Burlington passenger men are still catching their breath after last weekend's strenuous efforts, when some 7,500 persons traveled in organized groups, in addition to normally heavy weekend travel aboard the fleet of Zephyr trains.

One of the largest group movements on the Burlington last weekend was that of football followers who journeyed from Chicago and the Midwest to see Notre Dame's powerful squad overome the Air Force, 34-7. Two 24 - car extra trains were required, and five extra cars were also added to the Denver Zephyr to accommodate the fans. "We could have sold many more tickets," says Burlington's passenger chief, W. F. (Bill) Burke, "but we were able to obtain only 1,500 football tickets.

Another sizeable group to arrive in Colorado the past weekend were 128 members of the National Association of Mutual the Burlington accommodated in extra cars added to the California Zephyr; the Denver Zephyr was completely "filled out" with extra cars carrying football fans, although 24 members of the Nalco Chemical Company enroute to a meeting at Colorado Springs were furnished with rooms in an extra Pullman added to the train.

"I wish Notre Dame could play the Air Force every year," says passenger man Burke. "Everyone had a ball on the special trains, and all wanted to return to Colorado next year."

Doris Day Will Star In New Film

Doris Day will star in "The Glass Bottom Boat," an original story by Everett Freeman, which the latter and Martin Melcher will co - produce for MGM release. Freeman also will write the screenplay for the film.

Miss Day was named number one box office star for the eighth consecutive year by the more than 5,000 exhibitors polled for the annual Laurel Awards, which were announced last week.

No director has been signed as yet for the Melcher - Freeman Production, which is scheduled to go before the cameras in the spring of 1965.

Everett Freeman previously produced "Sunday in New York Seven Arts Production starring Rod Taylor, Jane Fonda and Cliff Robertson, for MGM.

A Weak Joke Even Back In 1903

Funny stories, like old soldier usually fade away, unless they been corraled down the years as everlasting favorites of versatile veteran comic Ed Wynn — like the first one he remembers telling back in vaudeville in 1903.

Ed recalls the story when he traces his early stage career in Walt Disney's nostalgic musical potpourri, "The Golden Horseshoe Revue," an entertaining featurette starring Annette and the cast of the Disneyland show that has chalked up nine years of continuous performances.

The vintage joke, which Ed calls "horrible" in today's sophisticated comedy world, went something like this: "A policeman on the waterfront heard a cry for help from a little boy in the river....he dives in, rescues the boy and gets him up on the pier. The officer said, 'How did you come to fall in the river?'....And the little boy answered, 'I didn't come to fall in, I came to fish!' "

Yankees Slated to Lose The Pennant Oct. 21 at CU

— The New York Yankees lost the 1964 World Series Thursday and on Oct. 21 they're going to lose the American League pennant when the University of Colorado Theatre presents its Homecoming musical, "Damm Yankees."

The musical, taken from the book, "The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant," will be performed at 8 p.m. Oct. 21-25 by a veteran CU cast. It is the story of a never - say - die Washington Senator fan who sells his soul to the devil to become a long - ball - hitting hero and to lead his beloved team to the league crown.

The sight of the Bronx Bombers dropping the pennant promises to be a refreshing one for the many confirmed Yankee haters attending.

The production will be highlighted by a hit score, including songs such as "You've Gotta Have Heart," "Two Lost Souls" and "Whatever Lola Wants."

"Damm Yankees" is presented by the University Theatre in collaboration with the College of Music and the Department of Modern Dance.

It is directed by Assoc. Prof. Albert H. Nadeau, whose latest success was last summers record - setting Shakespeare Festival production of "As You Like It."

Charles Byers is musical director, Marilyn Cohen and Patty Eckert are choreographers and Asst. Prof. Richard K. Knaub is technical director.

Heading the cast are a number of experienced actors and singers. Lawrence Gallegos son of Mrs. Grace A. Gallegos of Arvada, remembered for his performance as Richard III in the 1963 Shakespeare Festival, appears as Applegate, the devil.

In the role of Joe Hardy, the Senators' new - found hero, is Zachary Hatcher, son of Mrs. Edna Hatcher of Clinton, La., who was featured in the 1964 Festival as Orland in "As You Like It" and Paris in "Troilus and Cressida."

Kirk Sparks, Harold Hill in last year's Homecoming musical, "Music Man," plays Van Buren. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix L. Sparks of Lakewood.

Making her CU debut in the part of Lola, the temptress, after a year of study in Europe is Mary Wilcox, daughter of Mrs. Rachel S. Wilcox of Boulder.

Others in the cast are Jane Etta Gaskill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom D. Gaskill of Ft. Morgan; Connie Simmons, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Simmons of Fort Morgan, and Peter Haloulos, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Haloulos of Greenville, S. C.

Damm Yankees opens Oct. 21 and runs through Oct. 25. Curtain time is 8 o'clock each evening and tickets are available at the University Theatre Box Office, 10 a.m. to noon and 2-4:30 p.m. and immediately before each performance.

Fairy Tales Do Come True In Hollywood

Fairy tales happen in Hollywood all the time. They are the principal crop of Never-Never Land. But sometimes it's difficult to tell where the play ends and reality begins.

As in the case of Kris Nelson, for instance.

From age 13, she was a devoted fan of her idol, Rick Nelson. She, like tens of thousands of other teenage daughters never missed an episode of the Nelson family show, "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" to watch him act and hear him sing.

Then fan met idol, just like a scenario writer would have it, and they were married in a big church wedding, and moved into an idyllic homeymoon house in the Hollywood hills.

When fans demanded to see what Rick's new wife looked like, she made a token appearance in a show. The mail response was so good that she was written into more and more episodes.

This season, she'll appear as Rick Nelson's TV (and real) wife in many shows. No token appearances...full feature roles. She's a fine natural actress.

Where does the fairy tale be-
Where does the fairy tale begin and does it end?

The Matterhorn, one of the most difficult of the Alpine mountains to climb, rises 14,688 feet into the air. It is on the frontier between Switzerland and Italy. It was first conquered in 1865 by E. Whymper's party, three members of which perished with the guide by a slip while descending the steep Italian side.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetler

Former Student at CC Is Hit as Folk Singer

EX-CC STUDENT GAINS SINGING CAREER — Carol Hedin, former Colorado College student in 1952 through 1954, has made a hit as a folksinger on the East and West Coasts, working out of Washington, D. C. She recently made a recording of a number of folksongs, a copy of which she sent to Woodson Tyree, her former teacher in drama and speech, who now teaches radio and speech at CC. An inscription says: "Chief, with fondest wishes and much thanks for making so possible." Folk singer Carol Hedin has a rich voice and beautiful tone, charm and wit, and sings folk music with fine arrangement. At Colorado College, she was very active in dance under Norman Cornick, and in drama under Tyree. Recently, she met old friends during a singing engagement in Denver, from where she went to Honolulu, and then will go to Los Angeles for singing appearances. Her recent record has been done by Frank Recordings, featuring the following numbers: Devil Take Me With You, Some Old Woman, Once I Was Happy, I Know You Rider, You Put Me Down So Easy, If She's Gone, Part Time Man, Happiness Blues, Ain't Gonna Let It Happen, Turtle Dove, Easy Rider, Tomorrow Is A Long Time.

WHERE CAN TEENAGERS GO — The closing of the Black Cat folk singing coffee evening spot has brought up discussion of more problems than just its operation and demise. There was good reason why at least some teenagers of high school age found the spot attractive, because it was one of the few places they could "go" where they could find a more personal atmosphere, instead of congregating outside drug stores, or riding their bikes or obnoxious motorbikes and scooters. Moreover, the spot was well-chaperoned.

This brought up the problem of apparent lack of congregating places for teenagers. True, Wasson High, and we imagine Palmer High, does keep its swimming pools open nights for teenagers, but one can hardly go swimming every night. The YWCA and YMCA have programs for the youth of the city, but of course, the percentage which can be accommodated, especially if youths from outlying areas, presents a definite problem of transportation.

Suggestions have been that parents in suburban areas might spark creation of youth centers, perhaps in unused stores in shopping centers, where the youths can be provided with supervised activities, instead of wandering or riding aimlessly on traffic-filled streets or pester the drug stores. Besides, from a business viewpoint, the teenage crowd does present a certain customer group which could benefit the shopping centers in other ways, without creating a disruptive influence, a problem in the dime stores, too. Such a program, of course, could be launched on an entirely volunteer basis, and there have been suggestions that the Y's could perhaps decentralize somewhat in this manner and serve the community on a far-flung basis, or it could be accomplished by the volunteerism of parents and other interested citizens, perhaps with the cooperation of businessmen, in the creation of little, suburban, or shopping center area, youth centers, where the youths could fulfill their primary need of congregating, and, as well, of finding wholesome activities, etc.

The point is that the city has grown so rapidly, with so many youths of the city find themselves in a situation which can only be described as being "adrift."

The situation of adrift, or even rampant, teenagers has been reported in various outlying areas of the Pikes Peak area, such as for instance in the Audubon district, on the West Side, on Nob Hill, and there have been reports that youthful destructiveness has been particularly severe in the Ivywild, Broadmoor and Cheyenne Canon areas. It seems a rather immature attitude to leave the youngsters to their own devices, for they need not only care, but guidance by adults as well, and suburban, volunteer youth committees might well come up with plans and answers to this problem, since it has proven successful in other communities.

COMPETITION FOR MUSICIANS — The Artists' Advisory Council of Chicago has announced auditions in three categories, piano, voice and strings, for those prepared for professional careers in opera, concert, light opera, television, and other media. In addition to cash awards, "every effort will be made to open necessary channels in the fields. No fee is required for any service rendered. If in the opinion of the judges no winner is declared, no award will be given." Auditions will start Jan. 30, 1965. Applications may be obtained from Mrs. Wm. Cowens, Artists' Advisory Council, 55 East Washington St., Room 201, Chicago 2, Illinois. The cash awards will be $1,000 for first place, and $500 for second place in each category: Piano, strings, female voice, male voice. Applicants from Eastern states will be heard in New York, the others in Chicago.

ABSTRACT LIMITS—It might seem that "abstract art" has reached its limit, by a rediscovery that there is really no such thing as "abstract" art. Alice Elizabeth Chase, for instance, a writer and lecturer on art at the Yale University Art Gallery, said the other day that teaching history and appreciation of art should go right alongside reading, writing and arithmetic instruction. "There's no age too early to start," she says, and then explains triumphantly that "I've found that kindergartners get very excited about abstract paintings. They see all sorts of things in them — buildings, shapes, people. . ." Apparently she let the cat out of the bag without realizing it. We can assume that children have not been "spoiled" yet to see abstract as a pure abstraction which is the original purpose of abstract art. Instead, with their unspoiled eyes, they immediately see "buildings, shapes, people. . ." In other words, it would seem that the eyes have a basic need to see "buildings, shapes, people," even if they are seen in blotches and smears. Which would indicate that at least for the unspoiled eye, "abstract" art does not really exist, for it will always try to see "buildings, shapes, people" in it, even if they are not there. At best, therefore, abstract art, in a subjective sense, could be described as an art puzzle game. This does not mean that for more sophisticated eyes, abstract art does not exist: But it is a sophistication, and the basis of art, as a mirror of "nature" remains as it always was.

The North Texas State University Chorus and the Dallas Civic Chorus will also be heard with the orchestra.

Unusual program features of the anniversary season include a performance of Byron's "Manfred" with incidental music by Schumann; Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem;" and the world premiere of a commissioned work from Gunther Schuller.

February and March will be devoted to a 35 - concert tour of southern and eastern states that will include performances in Washington, D. C., and in New York's Carnegie Hall.

Diane's a Big Star Down Home

A pixy, pig-tailed redhead is changing the skyline of two sleepy Missouri towns . . by remote control from Hollywood.

The redhead is Diane Sherry, 11, one of Bing Crosby's TV daughters in ABC - TV's new family comedy series, "The Bing Crosby Show". The towns are Dexter and Bloomfield, several miles apart.

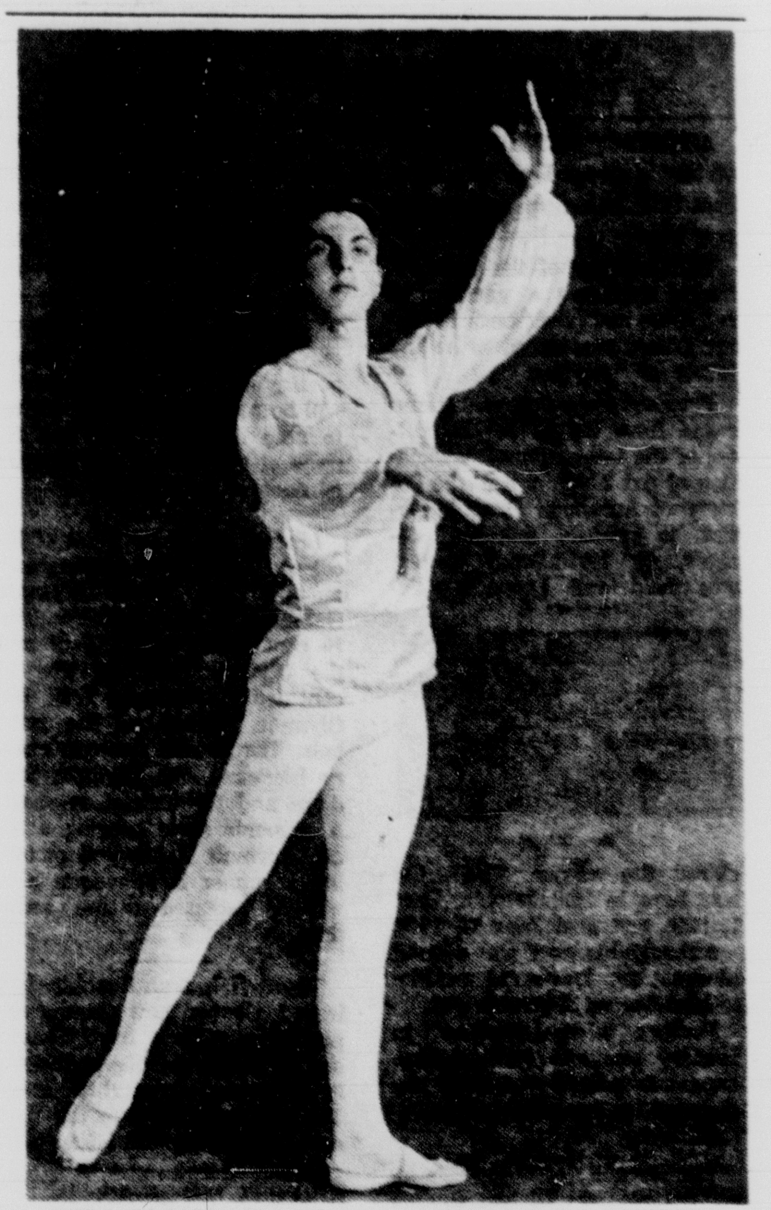
Diane's grandparents on both sides live here, and here is where the precocious actress spends summer vacations.

While the sleepy communities do receive video programs on a limited scale, there is no ABC-TV outlet closer than Cape Girardeau, some 75 miles away, beyond range of ordinary antenna installations.

When word spread that Diane, "one of our own," was on TV, local dealers had a fast run on tall towers and powerful antennas capable of reaching "The Bing Crosby Show."

Diane's impact on the community was summarized by a local newspaper columnist like this:

"Diane is the first celebrity to put Dexter and Bloomfield on the map since Jesse James passed this way in 1880."



GETS GRANT—Dancer Jim Raney, formerly of Colorado Springs, has been awarded a Ford Foundation grant for study at the San Francisco Ballet School. The grant furnishes full payment for daily lessons at the school for one year. Raney received his initial ballet training from Ilse Reese Gahart and was soloist with the Rocky Mountain National Ballet Co. here this summer.

Pete Lawford Set for Film

Peter Lawford has interrupted his fund - raising activities for the John F. Kennedy Library to report to Paramount Studios in Hollywood for his role in "Sylvia."

He will resume his efforts in behalf of the Library as soon as he completes "Sylvia," which is his first film in more than a year.

Stamps in the News

ABSTRACT ART soon will be vividly portrayed on a new 5-cent U. S. commemorative postage stamp.

The designer of the new adhesive depicting a variety of red, blue and black lines is Stuart Davis, considered to be the father of "pop art."

Proposal for a fine arts stamp came from the U. S. Committee of the International Association of Art which asked the Society of American Graphic Artists to produce suitable designs. An invitational contest was held and Davis was declared the winner. The artist was born in Philadelphia, Dec. 7, 1894, and died June 24, 1964.

Although his work was termed abstract art, Davis did not like to becalled an abstractionist.

Further information as to firstday site and date of issuance has not as yet been announced by the Post Office Department.

The Republic of China has issued a new set of two stamps honoring "Animal Protection Week," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The design common to both stamps shows a Chinese rancher clasping a calf in his arms against a background of a spacious ranch and a mountain village.

The Territory of Papua and New Guinea has announced the replacement of 11 of its present definitive set stamps. The new designs will feature colorful Birds of Paradise and Bower Birds of Papua and New Guinea. The present pound stamp portraying Queen Elizabeth will be retained. It is interesting to note that the male and female of the species will appear on each of the stamps.

Liberia will issue a set of bicolored stamps to commemorate the 18th World Olympic Games to be held in Tokyo. The 10 cent shows Mount Fuji and the Olympic symbols. The 15 cent depicts Japanese Torii, the Olympic Flame and the symbols. The 25 cent features cherry blossoms, the Olympic Stadium and the official symbols. A souvenir sheet bearing a 50-cent airmail stamp and picturing a runner in silhouette also will be released at the same time.

The Syrian Arab Republic has issued a set of new stamps depicting a mosaic from Sheba, one of the masterpieces recently excavated from that area. The art dates back to the first centuries of the Christian era.

SWEDISH FOLK ART — This drinking bowl (top) and silver cup are examples of the Swedish artisan's concern with beauty even in ordinary and functional objects. These pieces are among nearly 500 which will be on view at the Fin Arts Center in the Swedish Folk Art exhibition which opens next Sunday.

Dual Exhibition to Open Next Week at Arts Center

The Fall season at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center will be highlighted by two important exhibitions — one an extensive collection of Swedish folk art and the other the Fall art rental gallery — both opening Sunday, Oct. 18, with a preview for members and guests from 3 to 5 p.m.

The rental gallery will offer an excellent selection of new works by local and regional artists, a special group of pictures from the permanent collection and six originals being sent by a New York dealer.

As in the past, any of the paintings shown may be rented on a three-month basis with an option to purchase if desired. Members attending the Sunday opening will have first choice from the exhibition which will remain hanging through Nov. 13.

The originals from New York include two Picassos, one each by Bernard Buffet, Max Ernst, Clave and Bissiere.

The Swedish exhibition of folk art, being circulated in this country by the Smithsonian Institution, contains nearly 500 of the finest objects from the collections of the Nordic Museum of Stockholm and other Swedish art museums.

The objects run a wide range through textiles, wall paintings, wood objects, basketry, ceramics, iron work and jewelry, almost all of the character of applied art in that most were created for practical use.

As implied by the term folk art, a large proportion of the objects in this exhibition could be found in the average farmer's home from the mid-18th through mid-19th Century: tapes tries, silver cups, intricately woven wickerwork, rakes, cradles, cups with ornamental carving and elaborate costumes for festival times. These objects were generally made within the community or locale, so styles naturally varied from place to place.

The display is divided into eight parts to cover all aspects and periods of Swedish folk art: The Community, making a living, the farmer's home, costumes, festivals, from the cradle to the grave, modern Sweden and old folk art and the arts of the Lapps. Smaller objects are shown in cases with photographs and caption to explain their use.

The exhibition demonstrates that the humblest everyday objects could be works of art. A horse harness, for example, was often carved with flowers, ending in finials with horses' heads. A wooden drinking bowl, hollowed out of a block of wood could have handles shaped like the head and tail of a bird. A young man, when courting, would present his girl with a gaily decorated rake for haying. Not only was this a practical item, it was also a gift the young women could show off with pride.

Weddings and births were occasions of much festivity and many gifts. There is a wedding crown of silver, betrothal spoons, a Lappish cradle and many more objects associated with these events.

Throughout the entire exhibition there is a definite flavor of functional simplicity, directness and ornament which has surely influenced much of Sweden's contemporary design now accepted and copied the world over.

This is the final week to view the popular "Kids and Cars" exhibition of paintings of cars by German school childern. The show, which ends Saturday, contains the prize-winning entries in a contest sponsored by a German auto company. The kids, ages 6 to 17 years, were told only to draw what an auto meant to them.

Another fine exhibition is the biennial "Artists of Colorado Springs and Vicinity" which this year drew a record number of entries from artists living within a 20-mile radius of Colorado Springs. Over 100 paintings, sculpture, and crafts are shown in this exhibition which reflects a high level of artistic excellence in the area. This exhibition will be on view through Nov. 8.

Newsmen Play Newsmen in 'Harm's Way'

Eight editors and newsmen participated in sequences for the Otto Preminger film, "In Harm's Way," recently.

It was a scene in which John Wayne, Kirk Douglas, Dana Andrews, Burgess Meredith and Patrick O'Neal are involved in a press conference. Wayne and Andrews are being grilled by war correspondents.

The group included one former war correspondent, Bill Ewing, now editor of the Honolulu Star - Bulletin, who made the Peleliu invasion landings for ABC Network during World War II. The others included Eddie Sherman and Bob Kracse, Honolulu Advertiser columnists; Ed Miller of Seventeen Magazine; Vytas Valaitis, New York magazine photographer; Ted Scott of Honolulu's KGU Radio; Tom Moffat of KPOI Radio and KHVH-TV, and Mark Waters of the Honolulu Star - Bulletin.

Preminger shot the scenes at Sand Island in Hawaii. The locales represent the island base where preparations are made for Pacific invasions in the film based on James Bassett's best-selling novel. The all - star cast also includes Patricia Neal, Tom Tryon, Paula Prentiss, Brandon de Wilde, Jill Haworth, Barbara Bouchet, Hugh O'Brian and Henry Fonda.

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetler

Target Tokyo History Interests Air People

TARGET TOKYO — The Halsey - Doolittle Raid - By James M. Merrill - Rand McNally & Co. — This 208-page book is advertised as being the first comprehensive account of the famous Tokyo raid, which now reads a bit like pre-history, considering the advent of the "Atomic Age," but which remains a military classic of long-range bombing.

It has several facets of importance, especially of interest to the big contingent of Air Force people in the Pikes Peak region, whose lives are devoted to the developing and maintenance of the U.S. Air Might, and thus, undoubtedly, should find a large readership in this region.

Another facet is rather unusual, in that the author presents the story not only from the American viewpoint, but also from the viewpoint of the Japanese and Chinese. Records of the Halsey - Doolittle raid, for instance, are scattered throughout the U.S. and Japan. In order to get the Japanese side, the author sent letters to former Whittier College students who reside in the Tokyo area. He contacted friends in Japan and placed advertisements in the New Japanese American News, urging individuals who remembered the raid to get in touch with him. He received tapes and letters, and a Japanese student at Whittier college translated these for him. From this material, plus the Tokyo newspapers for 1942, and the reports of the Japanese governmental censors he pieced together the Japanese side.

In addition, of course, he obtained official Navy and Air Force documents, and it is some what amusing that "the staffs" (at Air Force and Navy) wer cordial and helpful in supplying me with research aids, pulling out long - buried boxes of records, and suggesting where additional information might be found." And, "the Navy furnished the researcher with typewriter, paper, pencils, and an assistant who cheerfully carts out the files and directs you to the coffee mess."

Merrill had to depend mostly on documents of one kind or another. It is curious, but rather understandable, that he discovered that "the personal interview" in the United States was "practically worthless. Almost 25 years after the event, people forget."

So that they do not forget, then, is one of the features of this book, describing in painstaking detail not only the famous Tokyo Raid, but also the reactions of the men and of the enemy, as they carried out the historic mission.

A rather contemporary note is injected when the author describes the negotiations with the Russians, to permit the American bombers to land in Vladivostok, after their run on Tokyo. The Russians, already then, curtly refused, even though later some of the men did land in Russian hands and were "interned" in Russia.

For the military student, Merrill's book bristles with facts and details, and he gives hundreds of names, including the combat crews of the 16 airplanes that made the Tokyo Raid. It makes not only interesting, but fascinating reading.

As the author explains, the Tokyo Raid proved the need for the long - contemplated Japanese invasion against Midway Island and the western Aleutians...."The Tokyo Raid marked both an end and a beginning for the Americans. It ended five lean months of unmitigated bad news. The mission marked, by happy coincidence, the start of the Allied drive in the Far East ... After the Tokyo attack, came the Coral Sea victory, then Midway, then the la ings on Guadalcanal. The Eighteenth of April, like a false dawn, held the promise of eventually victory in the Pacific."

And so, Merrill adds another chapter to the ever - growing lore of World War II for future war scholars to ponder. —JF..

BUBBLE GUM AND KIPLING — By Tom Mayer - Viking - $3.95 — We were given this book of short stories, some of them vignettes, through the request of the alumni office at Colorado College, since the author's family are among CC alumni. This 281 - page volume is of interest not only for readers, but for writers, as well. In the first place, Tom Mayer, who now lives in Santa Fe, and writes about the Southwest, is a 21-year-old author who has the happy gift of storytelling in a light vein — that is, his prose flows and skips happily, even in the more dramatic of these stories, as they propel themselves; there is nothing labored in the style, and the pattern is that of slick, fine magazine fiction, with hints of opportunities for growning depth.

It is not surprising that three of the stories in the book have appeared in national magazines: Harper's and the New Yorker. The unusual title, which might lead one to think first of a scholarly work on Kipling, is actually taken from an incident in one of the short stories, and as such is probably designed to arrest the attention of the book buyer, which it undoubtedly does.

One of the qualities of Mayer is a freshness and an immediacy in his stories which can be the envy of more seasoned writers. His writing is a method of presenting a series of pictures, which sometimes become poignant, such as in his appealing story about his little brother who is taught by his father to fight with the school bully; the insight of this young writer, or his nearness to, the younger age is a striking illustration of his capacity to observe, and to put down, with economy but also with a flash of communication, the essentials of character and action.

Jessamine West's comment on Tom Mayer is probably the most telling, as she describes him as having "a natural gift of narrative." Not only does he have that, but he tells the story without dragging it into the contrivances that have been the bane of much magazine fiction, and this economy serves to make the stories complete entities in themselves, even though they are loosely connected, dealing with his family, and himself growing up.

To writers, it may be of interest that Tom Mayer has been given a writing fellowship at Stanford. Which means that he will devote his full time to writing during the period of the fellowship. Stanford is one of the two universities in the country which offer fellowships of this kind, the other being Iowa at Iowa City, although the one at Iowa City seems to follow a somewhat different pattern with its writers, offering them subsidies, while it seems that at Stanford the writers have to hew to a stricter schedule.

But his selection for the coveted Stanford fellowship has come after several years of writing already. Tom Mayer attended Harvard College, and as a sophomore wrote the story "Just Fine" which was chose in 1963 by "Story" magazine as the best college work of short fiction. Then, as mentioned, his stories were printed in Harper's and New York, and in addition, another story has been selected for inclusion in the 1965 edition of the O Henry Prize Stories. He also has written for Sports Illustrated.

Writing fiction, especially in the "fiction schools," however, poses a problem for a writer. The trend in fiction for some time has been the complete working out of scenes, the logical end - result resembling that of a movie or television screen; which brings the problem of depth, or lack of depth, for when everything is presented as a surface picture, it is left to the reader to find any greater depth; and, alas, it may be a mistake to leave the reader to his own devices; for the author's purpose is not merely to entertain the reader in television - fashion, but to make an impact on his mind, to capture him, for which the fiction acts as bait and reward. The point is that Thomas Mayer does show promise of widening circles and greater depth, and it may be that, the writing discipline at Stanford will provide an avenue in that direction. —JF.

Huston Set To Direct Two Films

John Huston will direct two forthcoming films for Seven Arts Productions, which will be released by Paramount Pictures. They are Tennessee Williams' "This Property Is Condemned," starring Natalie Wood, and Rudyard Kipling's "The Man Who Would Be King," starring Richard Burton.

Huston, who is now in Rome completing "The Bible," will begin "This Property Is Condemned" early next summer on location in Baton Rouge, La., with interiors to be filmed at Paramount Studios in Hollywood.

"The Man Who Would Be King" is scheduled for filming in late 1965 on location in India. Stark will personally produce this film with Huston and Anthony Veiller collaborating on the screenplay. All three men were teamed on the filming of "The Night of the Iguana," which received internatiional acclaim.

Blue Jeans Orchestra Has New Program for Schools

In the small community of Estes Park atop the Rocky Mountains another unique cultural movement has come to life. Since Walter Charles accepted the position of full time music director - conductor of the Blue Jeans Philharmonic last April, many new and refreshing plans are being developed.

The orchestra, which just completed a season of twenty-three concerts that received high priase from critics across the nation, is in itself unique. The players are young, talented professionals gathered by audition from the major conservatories and music schools around the country. Each summer, in Estes Park, they play one of the most formidable orchestral festivals to be heard. During the winter of 1965-66 another orchestral season is planned. Some of the concerts will be played in Estes Park, but the majority will be played on tour.

With this expansion in mind and with the national significance of the program, chairman of the board Michael Marden and Charles discussed the possibility of introducing an interesting and different kind of music program to the youth in our tri-state area — a program that has had unusual success on television and in the classroom when presented in the past by the conductor of the Philharmonic. It will be available to all schools, service clubs, P.T.A. groups and music clubs in the three state area. For further information write the Blue Jeans Philharmonic, Box 1743, Estes Park, Colo.

When asked to describe the program, the young conductor said: "We take the components that go into making an instrument and as we show how the instrument is assembled, we also relate the pieces of wood that make a violin to the geographical and historical as well as the mathematical and scientific. The instument becomes more understandable and more acceptable. We then relate the sounds of the instrument to sounds we as humans utter. Now we are entering the realm of music which, for most adults, seems to be a world somewhat unrelated to life and therefore most unnecessary. Since the adult will be the one who will destroy the natural understanding that the child has for music in the beginning, it is now necesary that we equip the child with a solid aswer to the question 'Why music?' Then comes the use of music to grow food, the use of music to kill pain, and aid in mental illnes. Notice I stress the word music. The so-called music of 'rock 'n' roll' is in reality a destructive force, and not related to music.

"I am convinced that with the proper relating of music and life around us from the early moments of childhood we could eliminate the 'mad crowd' scenes of the 'rock 'n' roll' world. Youth has a disinterest in fine music because adults have not had the courage to realize it as the great force it is, and therefore, as adults, have failed to give proper encouragement to the growth of the natural love and understanding for fine music and art that is and will continue to be an instinctive part of the makeup of youth. We hope to turn the tide of fads back to the forcefulnes of great music."

JUDGE ROONEY PRESIDING—In dream sequence in "The Way the Cookie Crumbles" episode on Channel 13's "Mickey" Wednesday, the dynamic Mr. Rooney is judge, witness and prosecutor in the trial of Sammee Tong.

IN 'FANTASTICKS'—Bert Lahr and Stanley Holloway sing a duet in which they describe the best way to get children to do what you want them to (by saying "don't"), in the NBC colorcast of "The Fantasticks" on "The Hallmark Hall of Fame" Sunday, on Channel 5. The pair play the respective fathers of a young boy and a young girl whose ideas of love and life are tempered by bitter reality. The musical, originally presented off-Broadway, also stars Ricardo Montalban, Susan Watson and John Davidson.

TUNE TIME—Host Andy Williams, center, is set to strike the cymbal to start a tune with his guest stars—trumpeter Al Hirt, left, and "trombonist" Tennessee Ernie Ford—during "The Andy Williams Show" colorcast Monday, on Channel 5.

ROMANCE SEEKER—Margaret O'Brien stars as a lonely girl who sets her romantic sights on a Korean War GI who defected to the enemy, in "Turncoat," a drama on "Bob Hope Presents The Chysler Theatre" color series Friday, on Channel 5. Other stars in the full-hour drama are George Hamilton, Carroll O'Connor and Jack Weston.

Separate Rooms

Even though they're husband and wife, Tony Curtis and Christine Kaufmann, co-starring in Universal's "Wild and Wonderful," have separate dressing rooms on the set marked "his" and "hers." Tony insists that personal and business lives are two separate things.

It's Topless All Right

The topless bathing suit, which received more publicity than warranted, has lost much of its "shock" value and vogue.

However, a variation has been employed again — this time in the cause of film making. A scene in "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders" required Kim Novak to climb from a lake where she had been swimming in the nude, only to discover her clothing stolen.

Based on Daniel Defoe's cassic novel about England's lustiest wench, Kim Novak enacts the role of Moll, and did the swimming scene in the lower half of a flesh - colored bikini.

JOSE MOLINA

Miolina Began Dancing At Tender Age of Three

Born in Madrid 25 years ago, Jose Molina, through natural instinct, started to dance at the ripe old age of three. He continued to express such exceptional feeling for the dance throughout his childhood that his parents enrolled him as a student of "Clasico Espanole" with Pilar Monterde in Madrid on his birthday.

After but a year of training the boy, Senora Monterde recognized a strong strain of Flamenco rhythm in his style and she urged that he pursue that dance form as well as the classic. Soon Jose was attending daily classes in Flamenco and Clasico simultaneously, and he continued these intense studies for four years. Despite his extreme youth, Jose auditioned for the role of second dancer in the company of the famed Soledad Miralles at the age of 14. After presenting but three minutes of his audition he was interrupted by Senora Miralles, who acclaimed Jose to be the youngest, yet most promising, Flamenco dancer of his day. She hired him on the spot.

During the following year, Jose performed throughout all of Spain with Soledad Miralles. He then became first dancer of the very popular "Brisas de Espana."

It wasn't long before Jose was renowned in Spain for his complete mastery of all aspects of the Spanish dance. In his seventeenth year he enlarged his reputation with a tour throughout Europe and the Orient. He toured for three years, receiving magnanimous acclaim in Burssels, Helsinki, Paris, Copenhagen, Luxembourg, Amsterdam, London, Cairo, Jerusalem, Beirut, and Istanbul.

At nineteen, Jose arrived in the United States and was seen by thousands of televiewers when he danced on the Steve Allen Show over network TV. Among his audience was Jose Greco, who had heard stories about this exciting new dancer from Spain. Greco immediately invited Molina to join his company as first dancer. Molina did so, and he remained with Greco for five years receiving lavish praise from press and public wherever he performed in the United State, Canada, and Europe.

The next logical step in his career, and the fullfillment of the dream of every Flamenco dancer, was the formation of his own company two years ago in Madrid, a company designed to complement his own talents and effectively present the beautiful dances of Spain.

Bailes Espanoles made its debut at the Caribe - Hilton Hotel in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The show's North American premiere occurred at the Trinity Theater in Washington, D. C., May 8 - 13, 1962. Within the amazingly short span of two years, JOSE MOLINA'S BAILES ESPANOLES has soared to the Number One spot among touring Flamenco dance attractions in the U. S.

Molina and his superb company will appear here for their only Colorado engagement on their third American tour at Palmer High School Auditorium, Thursday, under the sponsorship of the Theodore Fisher Management. For information and ticket reservations telephone 632-6849 or address P. O. Box 146. Down town box office opens at Chinook Bookshop Monday the 19th, Ph. 634-6820 only.

A TWO BIT JOB

matter of Fact

Louis Braille, to whom the blind owe their alphabet, was blinded at the age of three when the knife slipped as he was cutting leather in his father's shop. By the time he was 15, Braille, inspired by a 12-cell dot system used by an artillery officer, worked out an adequate adaptation that adequately met the needs of the sightless. Braille first published his type in 1829 and a more elaborate system in 1837.

MUNICH — NATO plans to build a communications center somewhere in Bavaria.

ARTIST AT WORK—Mrs. Hansel is shown working on one of her "smaller" works. For this creation she abandoned the mop in favor of a regular paintbrush.

Housewife Uses Mop as Paintbrush

— A mop may not usually be considred a "tool of the trade" for an artist but the wife of an Air Force Academy officer once found this unusal technique just right.

Mrs. Irene Hansel, wife of Maj. John Hansel Jr., Department of Economics and Geography, used the unusual "brush" to paint the back groung of an 80 - foot long, 9 - foot tall mural she was doing for a Denton, Tex., high school pageant.

The mural, representing a cattle drive, illustrates just one facet of Mrs. Hansel's many talents. Busy enough being a housewife and mother of three children, Mrs. Hansel still finds time to pain, sculpt, design jewelry in metal and plastic, do lithographing, ceramics, and weaving.

Although interested in art from an early age, Mrs. Hansel's first recognition came in high school when some of her work was chosen to appear for a teen show exhibition.

She studied art throughout her school years and polished her technique at the Cincinnati Art Museum.

While in Japan, Mrs. Hansel concentrated on ceramics and at one time was teaching a class of 60 youngsters.

The busy Academy artist is now composing a set of stations of the cross for a church in southern Japan.

First Job As Actor Was A Failure

Bob Dowdell, the good-looking, tow - headed actor who plays Lt. Cmdr. Chip Morton in "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" on ABC-TV every Monday night, will never forget his first professional thesping job. It was in an off - Broadway production entitled, "The Dybbuk."

"It taught me one monumentally thing," Bob recalled. "I didn't know how to act."

To get money for acting lessons he waded into an assortment of jobs, including brakeman on a railroad, washing airplanes, driving a cleaner's delivery truck, selling books and working on an auto assembly line.

Nowadays, Bob knows the struggle was worth it. He's in his second series ("Stoney Burke" was the first) and is challenging series stars Richard Basehart and David Hedison for the lead in the "Voyage" fan mail derby.

PUTS THEORY INTO PRACTICE—One of the theories behind music is that it should be able to convey or evoke every human emotion and Doyle Muller puts this theory into practice in his role of Faust in the opera "Faust." When he isn't putting the theory into practice he's teaching the theories of music at Southern Colorado State College.

DEVIL OF A TEACHER—Naymond Thomas goes from a full night of singing to a full day of teaching singing. He's Mephistopheles in "Faust" and a devil of an instructor of music at Corwin Junior High School in Pueblo during his off-stage hours.

INTERNATIONAL FLAVOR — "Faust" is an opera about Germans originally written in French which will be presented in English here. But Wini Pyle, who plays Martha in the local production, prefers Chinese —cooking that is. Here she demonstrates one of her recipes for the rest of the cast during rehearsals.

SINK TO STAGE — Bonnie Graves makes a complete switch in "Faust" where she is cast as the boy Siebel. But after the performance, Bonnie wipes off the make-up and begins wiping dishes for the four men and the girl in her life and this can add up to a big stack of dishes.

SUPPLIED DEMAND—The law of supply and demand is a basic rule of economics. And when the Colorado Springs Opera Association demand a baritone for the role of Valentine in "Faust," Capt. Paul Ballantyne supplied the talent. He also supplies the talent in the economics department at the Air Force Academy.

SUPPORTING ROLE — Juliette Hester may have the female lead in "Faust", but off-stage she plays a supporting role for her family. And like all housewives there's dusting to be done which gives Mrs. Hester a chance to practice her singing.

Area Walk Around With Two Faces

Their Time and Talent Belong to the Community

Text By MAJ. JIM GIBNEY

Photographs By STAN PAYNE

There are people in Colorado Springs who have two faces.

One face they present daily to their friends and neighbors, relatives and business associates, teachers and students. They are the faces of housewives, teachers, physicians, lawyers, students and businessmen.

The second face they save for the bright lights of the stage and with this face they become someone else — a hero or villian, a clown or a tragedy victim.

To use this face they give up their time and energy; they give up social affairs. They become strangers to their families and they walk around mumbling to themselves — mumbling the lines and the melodies they must memorize.

These are the people who appear on stage and work backstage for the Civic Players, the Symphony, the Chorale and the Colorado Springs Opera Association.

Seven of these people have leading roles in the Opera Association's production of "Faust" to be presented at Washon High School Oct. 23 and 24. They will don their second face those nights. But here is a look at the faces they wear every day:

Singing the title role of "Faust" is Doyle Muller. The handsome Pueblo tenor is an instructor in voice and choir director at Southern Colorado State College. Doyle was born in Huron, S. D. and attended Huron College where he obtained his B. A. and B. M. degrees in 1959. He taught school for the next two years and then earned his master's degree in music at the University of Colorado. He married the former Linda Sue Kronenberger of Littleton, Colo.

When he isn't singing or teaching, Doyle enjoys playing piano and organ and was formerly organist at the First Congregational Church in Pueblo. Away from his music, he can generally be found tinkering with his Austin-Healy sportscar which he says he drives solely for his own enjoyment. Winter time will find him heading for the hills with his skis.

Lovely Juliette Hester, who sings the soprano lead as "Marguerite," was born in the south of Holland where she studied voice and ballet there and in Germany. Juliette is the wife of retired Army Lt. Colonel Henry Hester, president of the local opera association, and the mother of 16-year-old daughter, Mary. Her operatic career covers singing in operas, operettas and at recitals in Holland, Germany and the United States and a film appearance in a German movie. Her repertoire includes the singing of arias in Dutch, German, French, Italian, Spanish and English.

Juliette enjoys being a housewife and working in her flower garden which abounds with roses and chrysanthemums. Asked about her favorite cooking delight, the vivacious blonde singer said she loves making a thick, Dutch pea soup during the winter months which has the Hollandic name "snert." Her many friends receive letters written in English, Dutch and German.

The thrilling voice of Naymond Thomas will be heard in the role of "Mephistopheles" the Evil One. The Pueblo basso is an instructor in voice at Corwin Junior High School in Pueblo during the day and teaches classes in opera workshop at Southern Colorado State College in the evening. He is married to the former Patricia Johnson of Denver. Next to singing, he enjoys playing the tuba and trombone.

Born in Philadelphia, Naymond studied music at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore and attended the University of Louisville and the University of Colorado. He has performed with the Kentucky Opera Association, the Stephen Foster Drama Association, the Denver Businessmen's Symphony and the Boulder Philarmonic Society.

Wini Pyle, mezzo soprano from Chipita Park will sing the role of "Martha." She is the wife of the Rev. Conard G. Pyle, minister of the Church in the Wildwood at Green Mountain Falls, and is the mother of three children, Tony, 11, David, 7, and Conwyn, 5. In addition to being a housewife and mother, this winsome brunette finds time to sing in the church choir and act as president of the Women's Fellowship of her church. Wini enjoys swimming, hiking, cooking Chinese dishes, and skiing, but admitted to being the "perennial snow-bunny" when it comes to skiing.

Born in Richmond, Ind., Wini attended Earlhan College and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. While this is her first appearance on the opera stage, local theatregoers will remember her for her appearances with the Civic Players in "The Best Man" and "Farewell, Farewell Eugene."

Soprano Bonnie Graves has the role of the boy "Seibel" in the Charles Gounod opera. Bonnie is the wife of Capt. Ted Graves, instructor in the Department of Economics at the Air Force Academy, and the mother of four children, Mark, 9, Audrey, 6, Paul, 4, and Phillip, 1½. Illinois-born Bonnie attended Carthage College where she earned diplomas in voice and organ in addition to getting a B. M. degree in music.

She enjoys sewing and playing the organ and was organist at St. Raphael's Chapel in Security during the past two years. She and her husband enjoy cadet activities at the Air Force Academy and are sponsors for two cadet squadrons. The cadets are frequent visitors to their home and they in turn attend many of the cadet functons.

Singing the baritone role of "Valentine" is Capt. Paul Ballantyne, associate professor of Economics at the Air Force Academy. Paul attended Iowa

FAUST FACE—This haunting photo reveals the second face of Naymond Thomas. During the day he is a music teacher, but for the Faust production, Thomas takes on the role of "Mephistopheles". Thomas's booming basso compliments the evil one's costume and the face he will wear for the performances.

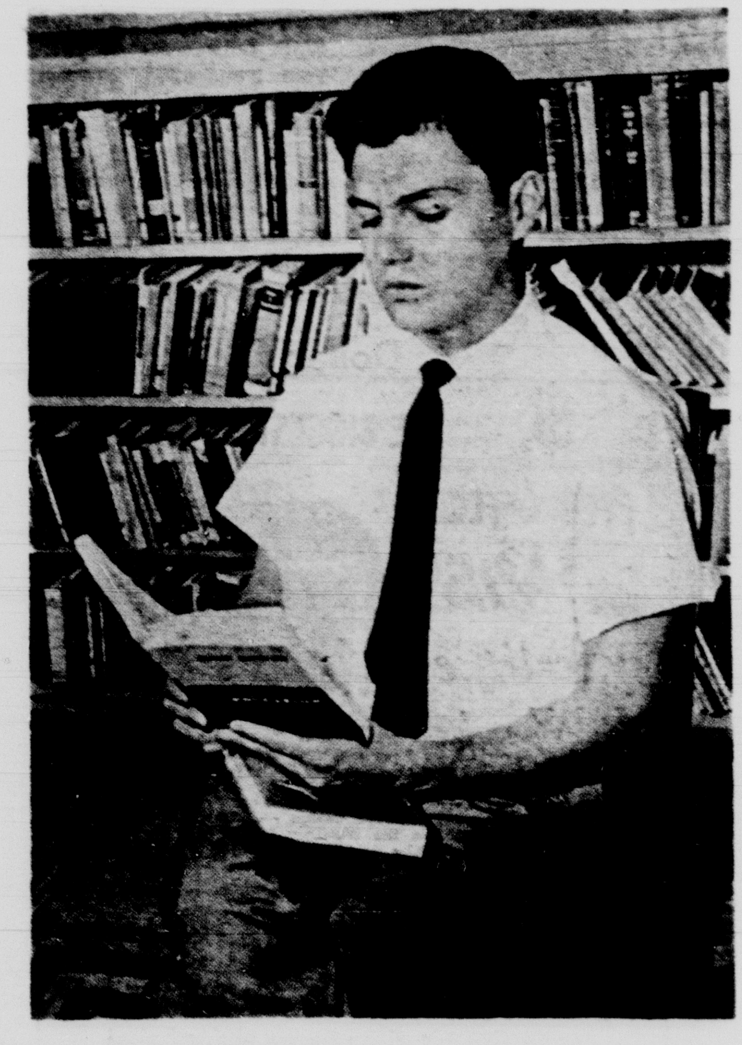
THEIR SECOND FACES — Juliette Hester and Doyle Muller reveal the second of their two faces in this scene from "Faust." The pair's other faces, the ones they show to their friends and relatives away from the stage, will be found elsewhere on these pages.



SINGING STUDENT — Jimp Clamp is a singing student studying singing so that some day, among other things, he might teach singing. But in the meantime, he's putting his lessons and voice to work in "Faust" in the role of Wagner. In between scenes, Jim, a student at Colorado College, hits the books.

They Say All Cats Have 9 Lives; If So, the Black Cat Has 8 Left

By SUE LOEWINSOHN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

While the outraged culture groups and financially ambitious civic grops are waging battle with high finance and indignant matrons to save the Trianon, a small but earnest battle is under way to save that little stronghold of folk culture and good coffee, the Chat Noir, which closed its doors last week, sympathetic to, but unmoved by the protesting howls of its many fans.

It all started, said Lee Wheeler, co-owner of the Chat Noir, when she and a few friends sat around of an evening, talking about what fine coffeehouses can be found in New York and San Francisco, and wasn't it a pity that there wasn't one in Colorado Springs.

The idea hit, said Lee, and they all leaped up and exclaimed, "Well, let's start one!"

Since that time, she said, the Chat Noir (or Black Cat) has not operated for one minute in the red, and has seen such diversie cultural events as plays, poetry readings, jug bands, jazz combos, old movies and even Broadway shows, as well as an almost continual program of good folk music.

Lee likes to speak of the imposing historical signifiance of the coffeehouse.

"Coffeehouses," she says, "were the newspapers of their time. They were the organs through which the public opinion of the metropolis vented itself. Every man of the upper or middle class went daily to his coffeehouse to learn the news and talk it over with his friends and the notables of the time."

In England, the "Jerusalem" even had a newsroom, which reminded this reporter that things haven't changed much, if the ten o'clock coffee break at the Gazette - Telegraph is any indication.

"The first coffeehouse in England opened in 1650. One of the most famous of that time was Garraway's in Change Alley where, believe it or not, the first tea was served in England." Lee said.

Colorado Springs coffeehouse, however, seem destined to linger merely in memory.

"We're going on to other things" said Lee apologetically, "we just can't keep the Chat Noir going."

She brought out the well-filled scrapbook and leafed through it fondly indicating various performers and nights to remember.

She said that the Chat Noir had become a badly needed gathering place for both the high school and college students, and the more culturally inclined service men in the area.

"They could sit here all evening long over a cup of coffee and enjoy not only good music, but the company of their contemporaries in a pleasant, sophisticated but essentially wholesome environment."

Lee spoke of the many fan letter the coffeehouse has received over the past several months of existence. Some of them, she said, have shown an interest in buying the Chat Noir and keeping it going. She expressed an earnest hope that a buyer does turn up soon.

A phone call from Lee after "Le Hootenanny Au Revoir", the closing evening at the Chat Noir, revealed that not only had the place been mobbed by its many anguished fans, but that the kids themselves had attempted to pool their resources and "Save the Cat".

She did not indicate whether this move was any more successful than the recent attempts by certain civic organizations to "Save the Trianon", or if well - meaning sentimental gestures are ever really effective in the face of the inevitability of progress and change.

But this much is certain the darkened stained glass windows of the Chat Noir, and the silence left by the vanished banjos and young voices will leave a void in the hearts of many Colorado Springs young people, unless a buyer is found, and the Black Cat walks again.

Their Time and Talent Belong to the Community

State University and was graduated from the University of Southern California in 1952 with a B. A. degree in Economics. He earned his master's degree at Iowa State in 1953 and is presently completing his dissertation at Stanford University to receive a Ph. D. in economics in January.

Paul enjoys basketball and volley ball during his off duty time and last year played with the Faculty basketball team at the Academy. He married the former Wanda Lowry from his hometown of Cherokee, Iowa. They have two children, Arny, 8, and Lisa, 5. Mrs. Lowry is also a talented musician and teaches music in School District 11 in Colorado Springs.

Youngest member of the cast, but already amassing considerable vocal experience is Jim Clamp, Colorado College senior. Jim was born in Colorado Springs and was graduated from Palmer High School in 1961. He attended Colorado State College for a year and then transferred to Colorado College where he is a music major.

Jim is a soloist at Unity Church. He will be remembered for his singing role as Dr. Engel in the Colorado Springs Opera Association production of "The Student Prince" last season. He sings the role of "Wagner" in "Faust." He enjoys older forms of music, but next to music he says his big interest is working on his German-made Porsche sportscar.

Add to these seven singers, a chorus of 53 voices in the Rolf Zinger led choir, the 20 - voice Air Defense Command Chorus led by Lt. William Medford, Norman Cornick's ballet group of 20 dancers and the 43-piece Colorado Springs Opera Orchestra led by Dr. J. Julius Baird and you get a fair-sized view of what a big production "Faust" is going to be.

And if you need more answers then talk to Trudi McDonald and her 12 costumers about the 100 costumes they have been working on over the past two months.

Better yet, go and see and hear "Faust" and learn what fine operatic talent we have in this fair city.

Star Solves Big Casting Problem

Hal Kanter, producer of 20th Century - Fox Television's "Valentine's Day" series seen on ABC-TV, was having a problem casting the role of a romantic Mexican for an upcoming episode of the hip comedy when he recieved a reel of 16 - mm. film with a note attached to it: "Looking for a romantic Mexican? Here is the answer to your problem." The note was unsigned.

Kanter screened the film and discovered that the romantic Mexican was none other than Tony Franciosa, who stars in "Valentine's Day" as a bachelor book publisher. The film was a reel from "Rio Conchos," 20th Century - Fox's soon-to-be-released action - outdoor drama in which Franciosa stars as a romantic Mexican, with Richard Boone and Stuart Whitman.

Franciosa was kidding but Kanter wasn't. Tony will play a dual role in the future "Valentine's Day" episode — as Valentine Farrow and as Alejandro Gonzalaz — a romantic Mexican.

CC Prof Says Arts Prefer To Remain Uncommitted

DR. THOMAS O. BRANDT

Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, proffessor of German and chairman of the department of German and Russian at Colorado College, examines the "spiritual climate of our time in the arts" in the current edition of "Universitas," a German review of the arts and sciences.

"The arts of today like to remain spiritually uncommitted unless they are 'engaged', " professor Brandt writes. "To be against something does not necessarily mean to be for something, and built - in interpretation presuppose a core which, however, is frequently lacking. I[illegible] noteworthy that art and religion have hardly anything in common anymore.

"Everybody has a message, a built - in manifesto, and the philosophers' stone lies about like sand in the desert," he says. "Lyrical poetry admonishes the reader by means of a moralizing tone that carries no moral. Possessed by an urge to express itself in a new manner it wishes to create new forms at any cost disregarding rhythm and language itself. There is much invention and little discovery, and a detachment which accompanies phrases in the subjunctive mood.

"The arts are unthinkable without the creative genius of man who sets out to grant the moment eternity' and thus endeavors to emulate his creator." he said. "With humble materials he shapes a world of his own, but it stands to reason that he cannot succeed past the ornament if he lacks a truly great idea, indeed is possessed by it. Time - honored and worn forms have not only become obsolete but have disintegrated as well. Looking for new forms in the arts we do not seem to care too much for the great themes about us. When we look up at the sky we do not think of heaven anymore, and when we speak of nature we mean her conquest and control. We may have become more clever, have acquired greater knowledge — but have we really become wiser?"

Professor Brandt, a member of the faculty at Colorado College since 1947, is the author of three books and numberous articles in professional journals and literary publications.

Bust Became Big Break For Parker

For Fess Parker, who stars in 20th Century - Fox Television's "Daniel Boone" every Thursday on NBC-TV, his greatest diappointment turned out to be his greatest break.

His star potential had been recognized by the late Adolph Menjou during a visit to the University of Texas. With Menjou's encouragement, the optimistic young collegian headed for Hollywood immediately after graduation.

The dreams of overnight stardom were almost fulfilled when producer Bryan Foy thought the athletic young Texan would be perfect as Grover Cleveland Alexander in the movie of the famed pitcher's life story. Then the blow fell. It was decided to give the role to a big - name star — Ronald Reagan.

Instead, Fess made his film debut in a small role in "Untamed Frontier." The setback proved to be the proverbial blessing in disguise. With a succession of bit roles, Fess was professionally experienced when the big break came some years later. Walt Disney was looking at the motion picture, "Them," with the idea that its star might be the man he wanted for Davey Crockett. Parker's performance in one small scene captured Disney's fancy. Instead of signing the star, Disney hired the bit player and Fess became internationally famous.

Fess is back on the frontier again as "Daniel Boone," fully aware of how lucky he was that he didn't become a star overnight.

White Takes Top Honors In Camera Club Contest

George White was high point-winner in the monthly competition of the Pikes Peak Camera Club with two awards in black and white and one in color. Ray Schmad of the Englewood Camera Club acted as judge and offered constructive suggestions for improving the entries that failed to place.

As winning slides in the subject, "Selective Focus," Schmad selected for awards: George White's "Sunlit Leaves," Russ Walcher's "Red Amaryllis," Eva Keller's "Golden Glow," and Wanetta Draper's "Navajo Imp." For honorable mention he chose: Bill McMillion's "Shooting Star," Claire Rutledge "Brown's Tousled No. 2," Edith McMillion's "Pointsettia," and Margaret Sharp's "Yellow Ladyslipper."

Award winners in open slides were: Edith McMillion with "Carol," Bonnie Camden with "Seaside," Bill McMillion with "Heidi Glismann." Honorable mention in open slides went to Elaine Bonge for "Desert Beauty," W C.. Glover for "Azalea Trail," and Hal Brown for "Sentinal."

In the selective focus monochrome prints Schmad chose "Cooling Off" by George White and "Three Graces" by Nancy Huse. "Roots and Shoots" by Rosemae Campbell and "Woodenface" by Sam Vickerman received honorable mention. In open black and white, George White's "Tammy" and Sam Vickerman's "Painters at Sea" took awards and Margaret Sharp's "A Find" and Bene Manfrin's "I Made It!" were honorable mentions. All winning prints are on display at Cameraland.

A club workshop will be held, Oct. 27 at the home of Sam Vickerman, 1718 North Prospect. There will be a demonstration of dry mounting ofprints and a critical discussion of slides and prints.

Photog Tries Sneak Pics Of Nude Kim

Another "scandal almost rocked the British Isles the other day. Kim Novak was on location at Chilham Castle in Kent, England, for a scene in "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders."

The filming of the 18th Century story based on the Daniel Defoe classic requires a highwayman to steal Moll's clothing as she is bathing in the lake adjacent to the castle.

While Miss Novak was in the buff — for the sake of art — and the filming of "Moll Flanders," Lord Massereene, squire of the estate which is 300 years old, stood by viewing the proceedings along with director Terence Young and the crew. Just as Miss Novak emerged from her dip, presumably naked and unashamed, but actually wearing a flesh - colored bikini, a photographer with a telephoto lens popped out of the bushes.

Security men captured the and started clicking away. intruder and destroyed his illicit photos of Kim Novak and Lord Massereene.

Said Lord Massereene, a bit miffed by the poacher's disturbance, "What a pity....After all, Miss Novak is my estate guest. and this chap acted terribly rude and uncouth about the whole affair!"

"The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders," starrring Kim Novak as the wayward wench, will be a Paramount release.

Auditions Set By Ballet Co. For Oct. 24

Auditions for the Rocky Mountain National Ballet Co. will be held Oct. 24 at 3 p.m. at the Rocky Mountain National Ballet School, Carpenters Hall, 9 E. Costilla St. Advanced and professional dancers, male and female, are needed.

A limited number of performances is scheduled during the winter season, and promising dancers will be offered the opportunity to receive professional contracts for the Summer Touring Season of 1965.

The Company presented its first season last summer, performing in the Broadmoor International Center, Pueblo, Denver, Boulder, and at Colorado State University in Ft. Collins, where it scored its highest success. Lawrence R. Dawson, Chairman of the Fine Arts Series Committee, wrote that the group is "clearly an enthusiastic, able, and highly promising cultural asset to our region."

The director of the Company is Ilse Reese Gahart. Further inquires may be made by calling 636-1456.

'Finian's Rainbow' Is Chock Full Of Wit, Humor and Memorable Music

In bringing "Finian's Rainbow" to the Fine Arts Center, the Colorado Springs Choral Society will be borrowing from old Ireland a wee bit of gay wit, magic, fantasy and even more suitable during this election year, "politics!" This sparkling production is chuck full of wit and humor, beautiful music, dances and everything that is appealing to the entire family as entertainment.

"Finian's Rainbow" is a story based upon the McLonergan Theory, and the exciting corollary is all too plain: Any man can bury a bit of gold in the ground near Fort Knox, and become a millionaire. Getting the gold to launch his project is, for Finian, less a problem. Some of his best acquaintances are gnomes and elves, and the leprechauns whose crock of gold provides the power to make wishes for the mortals of Ireland. So he lies in ambush one night when the moon is high and the cup is flowing, waylays a leprechaun who is busy laying down a blanket of dew, and "borrows" the little fellow's crock.

This is when the fun starts! Finian gets to Rainbow Valley, Missitucky with his daughter Sharon and plants the crock of gold. The leprechaun, Og, comes in pursuit, magical things begin to happen, the skies are strange, love enters the scene, politicians are throughly confused, the poor become rich through credit and humor and wit are predominate.

The "Finian McLonergan" that authors E. Y. Harburg and Fred Saidy dreamed up, will probably go down in theatrical history as one of the most lovable people ever created for the stage. Finian is a rougish teller of tall tales, at one moment throttling a monster "vertebra by verterbra", at another arranging the wedding of his daughter, all the while bracing himself with Irish whiskey. Playing this part to perfection will be Jack Connelly.

Jack Connelly came to Colorado Springs from Lamar where he was chief engineer of radio station KLMR for five years. He attended Colorado College and served four years with the U. S. Navy during World War II. Following this he went into the electronical engineering field and the past four years has been assistant chief engineer forthe Pikes Peak Broadcasting Company which includes KRDO Radio and TV.

His musical experience is wide. He has been a church soloist for years, performed with various dance bands, appeared in the Lions Club Minstrel Show, performed solo parts in Handels "Messiah" and played the male lead in the musical "Look For The Silver Lining". He has been a member of the First Methodist Church Choir. He and his wife, Zoe, have four children.

What manner of thing is a leprechaun that the authors could transform a pygmy sprite into the most astounding character that ever hit Broadway? A study of leprechaunology via Encyclopedia Britannica, proves that these wee people have always been antisocial among themselves. But they seem quite devoted to mortals who sow them a little kindness. Here the authors have discarded legendary fact for fiction and have presented our leprechaun, Og, as a halfway menace out to get back his stolen crock o'gold. Delighting everyone with his realistic song & dance, leaping and magic, Rolf Zinger will play the part of Og, the leprechaun.

Rolf was born in Stuttgart, Germany, July 1, 1930, is married and has two daughters. He came to America and grew up in New York City. He graduated from State Teachers College, West Chester, Pa., with a B. S. in Music Education. He studied piano with Henry Levine in New York and also studied organ and percussion. He was technical instructor in radio mechanics in the USAF.

He is currently employed as Chairman of Vocal Music at Horace Mann Junior High School and has been an employee of district 11 since 1959.

He has appeared in many operas including Carmen, Cavalaria Rusticanna, La Boheme, Devil and Daniel Webster, Down in the Valley, and has had minor roles in "Bartered Bride", The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County", Mr. Angel in "The Impressario", "The Merry Widow", "Student Prince" and "La Traviata". Currently serving as chorus master for the opera association, Zinger is also on the board of directors of the opera and chairman of promotion, and has participated in Civic Players.

Original compositions which have been performed to date include "Two Preludes" for piano, "Divertisements for Brass Ensemble," and a musical comedy, "Ten Guys and a Gal", which Rolf produced at Horace Mann Jr. High in 1964.

At this time of the year when political tempers are razor thin, it does one good to look at politics from the light side. Edward J. Rodgers, Jr. will portray the part of Senator Billboard Rawkins, the pompous old Southern gentlemen who believes in "the sweet tranquility of the status quo" and wants to go "forward to yesterday." Ed is one of the most forceful and magnetic characters in "Finian's" and although at times he might be considered the villian, he is also a comedian.

Ed hails from Jersey City, N. J., and is a graduate of the John Marsahll Law School, class of 1940, and a member of the New Jersey Bar Assc. He has been with the F. B. I. since 1940, is married and has seven children. He came to Colo. Springs in 1953.

Lead roles to his credit include roles in "La Boheme", "Merry Widow," "Student Prince" and La Traviata. He has sung with the opera chorus for four years and has also been a member of the Chorale. He is currently 1st vice president of the Opera Association and has been solosit for the Divine Redeemer Church for the last eight years.

"Finian's Rainbow" can be classed as a fantasy and a comedy and will delight the entire family. Children will marvel at the magical tricks and laugh with Og, the Leprechaun.

The show will be presented in its entirety on November 5, 6, & 7th at the Fine Arts Center Theatre. Tickets may be obtained by making reservations through Mrs. Reimer at 636-2688, by picking them up at A. & A. Music 122 N. Nevada or sending a check to Colorado Springs Choral Society, P. O. Box 1051, designating your choice of nights Season tickets are still available for all four shows and are only -7.50. Single tickets for "Finian's" Rainbow" sell for $2.50 each.

He's Fencing With Kim

Lord Massareene of Chilham Castle, Kent, England, is giving Kim Novak fencing lessons during breaks in filming scenes for "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders."

Kim plays the title role in the film version of Daniel Defoe's novel about the uninhibited life in 18th century England.

In one scene Moll Flanders has to defend her honor with a sword. Kim Novak, insistent upon authenticity, decided to find out about thrusts and parries. Lord Masareene, one of England's most noted swordsmen, offered his assistance and the duo have been practicing an hour each day.

Two Steppers Have Record Crowd at Dance Wednesday

The Country Two Steppers experienced another record crowd at their dance on the seventh when their regular first Wednesday caller, Don Franklin, called to an enthusiastic house full. There were 30 guest couples present including couples from Michigan, Iowa, and Connecticut. The next dance will be Wednesday with Martin Schweers calling.

The Circle B's are planning a special Thanksgiving dance on the 14th of November. A turkey will be awarded as attendance prize. A "hot rod" session will be offered after the regular dance for any who would like to participate in some fast and varied dancing.

All dancers are invited to a free dance being sponsored by the Eagle 8's and held at the Eagles Lodge, 109 West Colorado, on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 25th, from 1 to 4. The regular caller Spencer Yates, will be MC and all callers present will be asked to participate in calling. The dance is free and after the dance, members of the Eagles Auxilliary will sell refreshments of hot dogs, hamburgers, chips and coffee. Everybody will be welcome to remain in the lounge for the regular Sunday afternoon "hootenanny" from 4 to 8.

Spencer Yates announces that his Eagle beginners class is nearing the finish line and any former dancers who would like to brush up may enter the class now and graduate with the class.

Several couples drove to Pueblo lost Friday night and attended the Boots and Calico dance with Butch Pritchett calling. After the dance, the Colorado Springs guests and many others were invited to the home of Martin and JoAnn Schweers for refreshments.

Don't forget the Southeast Council meeting at the Carriage Stop tomorrow afternoon at 2. Hosts will be Dream Drifters Trail Winders. Everybody is welcome to the meeting and to the dance that will follow. All callers will participate.

GOOD APPETITE by Marguerite Mitchell

Good Recipes Can Spread As Fast as Waistlines Do

Ever so often a recipe strikes the combined fancy of the American woman, and before you can say Jack Robinson, it has spread across the country.

You eat it here, you eat it there, you eat it everywhere, for a few months until another recipe comes along to take its place.

Such has been the case of the German's Sweet Chocolate cake, the carrot cake, beet Strogonoff, lasagne, Idiot's Delight, and nuts and bolts, to name just a few.

In many instances, as in the cases of Strogonoff and lasagna, the housewife adds variations of her own to make her dish a little bit better than the one she sampled the week before at a friend's home.

Guessing games start then, for curious wives want to know what another woman did to make her dish a little more outstanding than the ones they serve. Sometimes the women jealously guard their secrets and refuse to divulge what particular ingredient or method they use.

Many such dishes have become favorites and although repeated time after time, seldom become stale because of their excellence.

This is what happened several years ago when a food economist introduced the Holiday Cheese Ball. It not only became the festive main attraction at many holiday parties, but stayed around later in the year for all kinds of parties.

HOLIDAY CHEESE BALL

6 ounces blue cheese
2 five-ounce jars processed Cheddar cheese spread
4 three-ounce packages cream cheese
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 cup ground pecans
½ cup finely chopped parsley

Allow the cheeses to soften at room temperature. Mix with onion, Worcestershire sauce, and MSG until thoroughly blended. Add one - half cup of the pecans and one - fourth cup of the chopped parsley. Shape the mixture into a ball and place in a waxed paper - lined bowl to chill overnight. About an hour before serving, roll the ball in the remaining pecans and parsley, and serve surrounded by crisp crackers.

For a holiday dress, omit the half - cup of pecans and one - fourth cup of parsley you've rolled the cheese in, and submit finely chopped stuffed olives for the traditional red and green colors. Or you can separate the mixture into two balls, and roll one with chopped parsley and the other with finely chopped pimientos.

Studio Has To Build Bomb Ruins

Producer - director Gottfried Reinhardt has ended a fruitless two - week search for bomb ruins in Southern Germany for exterior sequences for "Situation Hopeless, But Not Serious," which stars Alec Guinness, Robert Redford and Michael Connors. Bombed - out buildings are non - existent and Reinhardt has started construction of a wartime ruin on the backlot of Bavaria Studios at Geiselgasteig, outside Muinch.

The Reinhardt production is based on a best - selling novel by Robert Shaw. Guinness reports for work on October 26th, following the closing of "Dylan" on Broadway and a brief vacation in England for the actor.

Shirley Jones, starring with Marlon Brando and David Niven in Universal's new romantic comedy, "Bedtime Story," introduces a new neckline, the "W," in the film. Created by couturier Jean Louis, Shirley describes the "W" as a double V .

AFA Faculty Has Work in FAC Exhibit

An Air Force Academy faculty member is among the artists represented in the current display at Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

Other faculty members are continuing Academy support of civilian technical and educational facilities.

Capt. C. J. Kielcheski, Department of English, has his sculpture, "Zuni Drummer," on display in the Biennial Exhibition of Artists of Colorado Springs and Vicinity.

The exhibit will be open until Nov. 8 at the Fine Arts Center.

Capt. D. D. Mueller of the Astronautics Department presented a paper, "Preliminary Investigation of Space Maintenance under Zero Gravity Conditions," before the Amercan Psychological Association Convention in Los Angeles. The paper was the result of a joint research effort by NASA and the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratories.

The Academy was represented by Col. W. C. Fowler, Associate Dean for Education Services at the Department of Defense Real Property Maintenance Management Conference.

Colonel Fowler served on the cost reduction panel.

Auditions Set For 'Tosca'

Auditions for the Colorado Springs Opera Association production of "Tosca" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Grace Church Choir House.

Spokesmen said the auditions will be for the leading roles in the Puccini opera which will be presented Feb. 5 and 6 at Wasson High School Auditorium.

The opera audition committee will be on hand to conduct the tryouts. Additional information on the auditions may be obtained from Mrs. Donald W. Galvin at 633-7129.

The practice of espionage is as old as recorded history. Five thousand years ago the Egyptians had a well-organized secret service, and the study of espionage was considered one of the many secret sciences. During the reign of King Thutmose III, a Captain Thute, with the aid of his spies, successfully smuggled 200 heavily armed soldiers into the city of Jaffa by having them sewn in flour sacks.

Bad Pictures Could Be Result of Processing

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

TOO MANY people who take pictures judge their efforts solely by the prints which they receive from the drug store, camera shop or other commercial processor of films. They look at their results and often decide that they took "bad pictures."

In many cases, however, the "bad pictures" are only bad machine automation, inadequate checking or the necessity of turning out quantity work rather than quality work.

A camera fan should always check his prints with his negatives. By doing so, he will eventually be able to "read" his negatives. It is a matter of experience, of studying each batch of negatives and matching prints side by side.

Sometimes obvious printing mistakes are made such as cutting off portions of a person's head or feet. When an important object is photographed too close to the edge of a picture, an automatic printing machine might easily trim part of it away.

However some snapshooters airm at a subject and their marksmanship is poor or the viewfinder sees something different from the lens which actually snaps the picture and as a result an amputation takes place.

Besides such obvious printing errors, some pictures are too dark or too light and it is only by knowing something about negatives that the fault can be pinned on the photographer or the printing machine. A perfectly good negative can be pinned on the photographer or the printing machine. A perfectly good negative can be printed too light, too dark or out of focus. A good sharp print can not be made from a badly underexposed, badly overexposer or out-of-focus negative.

To view a negative properly, the shiny gelatine side is held facing the eye. If the dull, slightly embossed emulsion side faces the eye, the picture would be seen in reversed position. A negative is held at the very edges to prevent fingerprint marks on its surface. The quality of a negative is judged by looking through it at light or a white surface.

A negative may be described as thin, normal or heavy. A thin negative is transparent and indicates underexposure or possibly, under development. A heavy negative is dense or black and indicates too much exposure or overdevelopment. Thin negatives normally result in dark prints while heavy negatives usually result in light, washed - out- looking prints.

In addition, negatives may be contrasty or "soft." A contrasty negative has a combination of thin and dense areas with little range of tones between. A soft negative has little contrast range in its image area.

To compensate for the different types of negatives, printing paper comes in different grades of contrast. A contrasty negative when printed on a "soft" paper makes a good quality print whereas a soft negative gets its sparkle by printing on a contrasty grade of paper.

However, automatic printing machines cannot cope with some problem negatives of extreme contrast. They demand individual attention. By skillful manipulation, the dense portions of a negative can be burned in" or exposed longer while the thin areas can be "dodged" or held back and the work is most easily done on an enlargement.

Rollicking Comedy Set As Civic Players Opener

The rollicking comedy, "Take Her, She's Mine," which enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway, will be the opening play of the 1964 - 65 Civic Players' season. The play will run for one week, opening Monday, Oct. 26 and continuing through Saturday, Oct. 31.

Of the play, written by Phoebe and Henry Ephron, director Orvis Grout says:

"Art Carney and Phyllis Thaxter played the Broadway roles of parents of two typically American girls enroute to college. The phases of a girl's life are cause for rich enjoyment-except to fearful fathers.

"Through the first two years, the authors tell us, college girls are frightfully sophisticated about all departments of human life. Then they pass into the "liberal" period of causes and humanitarianism, and some into the intellectual lethargy of beatniksville. Finally, they start to think seriously of life and marriage to come."

There are rippling scenes of ogling students from the nearby male schools, of jibberish verse and folk - singing, and of the devious habits of American dating. It's an experience in growing up, as much for the parents as for the girls."

Grout has cast most of the leading parts as follows: Mollie Michaelson, Judy Komar; Frank Michaelson, Tom Fischer; Anne Michaelson, Mary Cameron; Liz Michaelson, Pam Girard; Emmett, Les Baird, Sarah Walker, Carolyn Browsky; and Alex Loomis, Jim Justis.

The play requires a cast of nineteen, and the remaining characters will be announced next week.

"Take Her, She's Mine," will ship drive staged each all by the Civic Players. Season tickets for five plays are $7.50 which entitles the purchaser to voting membership in the organization.

Season tickets may be reserved any day through Oct. 31 in the Civic Players' box office, Chamber of Commerce Bldg., or by calling 633-3003. Mail orders will also be accepted.

Yael Dayan Set to Work On 'Judith'

Israeli novelist Yael Dayan has been retained to prepare special feature material for "Judith," now filming in Israel with Sophia Loren in the starring role.

Miss Dayan, often called the Israeli Francoise Sagan, has published three novels and one non - fiction work. Her latest novel, "Dust," is being prepared as a film subject in its own right.

Novelist Yael Dayan is the daughter of one of the nation's most famous war heroes, General Moshe Dayan, the present Minister of Agriculture.

"Judith," based on an original story by Lawrence Durrell, also stars Peter Finch and Jack Hawkins.

Walter Wagner Will Produce 'Justin' Pic

Walter Wanger will produce "The Rector of Justin," Louis Auchincloss' best - selling novel, for Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer

Currently ranked number one on the New York Times best-seller list, and also at the top of the list of Publishers Week LY, "The Rector of Justin" is the dramatic story of a young teacher's efforts to chronicle the life story of the rector - headmaster - founder of a well - known New England boy's school. Delving into the private life of his subject, the teacher uncovers startling facts about the revered rector from the latter's friends and family, in particular his youngest daughter.

Wanger, internaionally acclaimed for his work in motion pictures, has previously produced "Cleopatra," "Stagecoach," "The Long Voyage Home," "Foreign Correspondent" and "I Want To Live!" for which Susan Hayward received an Academy Award as best actress.

Louis Auchincloss, a familiar name to best - seller lists, is also the author of "Portrait in Brownstone," "Power of Attorney," "The Romantic Egoist" and "Venus in Sparta."

No production date has been set for the film, which will have a director and cast of international importance.

Mann Pulls Big Switch In Casting

Don't always believe what you see on the screen. While shooting Paramount's "Judith," hundreds of extras were needed for a crowd scene in an Arab bazaar.

The Dolphin House Hotel, where many of the cast were staying, has an excellent staff. Director Mann decided to use them in the picture. However, he did some switch casting.

Mann took the head waiter and made him into a bell-boy. The barman became a head waiter, a member of the band, the barman, and a client upon whom all were fawning was the hotel's dishwasher — dressed as an elegant tourist.

"Judith stars Sophia Loren, Peter Finch and Jack Hawkins, and is being produced by Kurt Unger on location in Israel.

Sweet Revenge

It is little wonder that Louis L'Amour, author of Universal's "Taggart," starring Tony Young and Dan Duryea, sends so many hostile Indians to their happy hunting grounds in his literary works. L'Amour's great grandfather was killed and scalped by the Sioux in 1863.

String Quartet Will Tour Area Elementary Schools

Elementary school students in the Pikes Peak region will once again have the opportunity to enter the world of chamber music.

A string quartet from the Colorado Springs symphony began its annual tour of the region's elementary schools this week.

The project has been made possible by a grant from the Recording Industries Music Performance Trust Funds through the cooperation of Pikes Peak Musicians Association, local 154.

The initial concerts will be performed in District 11 schools. Gus Jackson, supervisor of music for District 11, has arranged the schedule of performances.

Under the leadership of Conductor Walter Eisenberg, who serves both as marrator and musical director, the quartet consists of Marjorie Eisenberg, first violin; Andrea DiSessa, second violin; Beverly Austin, viola and Gunter Paetsch, cello.

These concerts which are given at no charge to the students or to the school administration, were originally started in 1959 with a grant from the Recording Industries Music Performance Trust Funds. The first year 44 concerts were given in the elementary schools of the Pikes Peak region.

In following years grants from the Colorado Springs Community Trust Funds and the Colorado Springs Symphony Sustaining Fund have augmented the continuing monies from the Musicians Performance Trust Funds enabling this Youth of [illegible]y mounting of prints and a Concert Program to grow in scope. The program has been cited for its excellence throughout teh music world with special mention in the Annual Report of the Recording Industries Music Performance Trust Funds.

Status Is A Colored Cotton Shirt

Until Cornel Wilde's "The Naked Prey" movie company moved into Northern Transvaals Vandaland in Africa, the status symbol to end all was a spear blade with a wave in it. It meant that its owner had killed a lion who had twisted the blade in its death throes.

Now the leading status symbol is a colored cotton shirt. It means that the wearer has been chosen to work with the crew of "The Naked Prey," the first to invade their land for a major theatrical film.

Yellow means the wearer is helping the prop department. Green is forthe electrician helpers. Red is a camera crew assistant. Purple is for the runners carrying messages back and forth when that's needed despite walkie talkies.

The reason for the colored shirts is that the tribesmen have a bewildering, instinctive capacity for melting into the country's foliage, and it is difficult to spot them when they are urgently needed. Now they stand out like beacon lights on a clear night.

KEEPS SEAT

LONDON (AP) — Conservative Angus Maude today retained the Stratford on Avon seat formerly held by ex-War Minister John Profumo.

Maude won the seat by only 3,470 votes in an August 1963 election to fill the vacancy created by Profumo's resignation because of his affair with prostitute Christine Keeler.

Maude pushed his winning margin to more than 10,000 votes Thursday.

Am and Fm . . . AMEN—by Don Bennet

Radio May Be the Sexiest Media Around These Days

This week a record came to our station and on the cover was a picture of two bottles . . . a champagne bottle and a baby bottle complete with nipple. The baby bottle was explaining to the champagnee bottle:

"Well, it all started with one of those darn romantic albums."

Then it suddenly occurred to me that even though movies have beautiful girls in bubble baths, books their Peyton Places, and magazines their Playboy pin-ups. . . .Radio, both FM and AM is probably the sexiest media of all.

Take music. Aside from the claim that some rock and roll songs are taken from primitive erotic dances, any type of music that runs the whole field of human feeling must include sex also.

Probably two of the most brilliant musicals ever written, "Oklahoma," and "South Pacific" have "I'm just a Girl That Can't Say No," and "There Is Nothin' Like a Dame." "Kansas City," from Oklahoma" ends up with an exotic dancer stripping "about as far as she can go."

In classical music, lines from Wagner's opera "Tris'an Und Isolde," leave as little doubt as pages in "God's Little Acres" what is going on on stage as the garden scene is done with the lights out.

"La Boheme" with it's common law marriage. "Madam Butterfly" about a sailor and a beautiful Japanese girl. "Marriage of Figero" where the Nobleman chases his pre'ty maid who is about to be married, and "Tosca" where the wicked chief of police has a desire for a beautiful singer. The police chief says he will free the singer's lover who is condemmed to die for treason if she will submit to his lust. In fact, sex is such a frequent theme in classical music that C. R. Frank will do a two hour show during his Music Great and Good 10:00 on KLST - STEREO- FM Sunday, Dec. 1, 1964 dealing with erotic and roman'ic love in classical music.

The variety of sex in music is almost endless from the story of some guy going after some one else's wife on KPIK and "Itsey Bitsey Teeny Weeny Yellow Polka Dot Bikini" or KYSN to the sultry sounds of Julie London and Nancy Wilson and singing designed to make a healthy women's temperature rise by Frank Sinatra and Nat King Cole in large blocks on KLST-Sterio - FM, and frequently on KRDO, KVOR, and KRYT. One show on KSSS makes no bone's about it . . .it's "Music For Lovers."

Even the talk shows occassionally drift from the more domestic side of child care and cooking to romantic and sometimes even erotic topics. Usually critical of some racy book or movie, a lady will give details over the air so her friends can rush down to view or read and see if they will be equally shocked.

There are probably people that would just as soon censor sex out of radio as they would out of books, plays, and other forms of art. They'll have to wrap a cloak around Venus d' Milo though, and slash large portions from Chaucer, Shakespeare and even the Holy Bible.

Rhyme Lines Ratin' Peyton Glow Show

Twentieth Century-Fox Television's twice-a-week "Peyton Place" — nighttime TV's pacesetting 'sexial,' as it was dubbed last Wednesday by Weekly Variety, "the Bible of show business" — is creating poetic press interest.

Because of its phenomenal ratings (the series has outrated all competition on opposing networks the first three weeks out), newspaper coverage has headlined its "Peyton Place" coverage with such alliterative phrases as "Ratin' 'Peyton'," "Waitin' for 'Peyton'," "In Dayton, They All Dig 'Peyton.' "

Executives at 20th Century-Fox Telvision and the ABC-TV network couldn't be more pleased. Executive producer Paul Monash, whose earlier televison projects include "Cain's 100" and "The Untouchables," pointed out the inevitable. "Before long, we may expect to see a bannerline in print which reads, 'Datin' and Matin' in 'Peyton.' "

"As a writer, I can't resist getting into the headline act. My try would be " 'Peyton Place" Race Sets Pace,' " Monash exclaimed.

For those who are watchin' and waitin' for "Peyton," starring Dorothy Malone, Warner Anderson, Ed Nelson and Mia Farrow, it airs every Tuesday and Thursday on ABC-TV.

INVESTIGATION

NEDERLAND (UPI)— Boulder County sheriff's deputies said they were continuing their investigation into an alleged shooting incident near Nederland. Officials said the youth involved, Charles Wise of Nederland, turned himself in Wednesday but was released after questioning. Two deputies sent to a disturbance in Nederland Tuesday left the scene after the youth allegedly fired a rifle. However, authorities said they did not think the boy actually fired at the two deputies.

HEARING SET

GOLDEN (UPI)—Golden Dist. Judge George C. Priest said he would hold a hearing Monday on a request for a new sanity trial for a Denver man accused of murder. Defense attorneys William Erickson and Charles Brega asked for the hearing for Robert Eugene Wade, 30. The lawyers said an unauthorized exhibit was shown to a jury last Oct. 2 which found him sane. Wade was charged with first degree murder in the death of 92-year-old Mrs. Emma Nora Pike at her Morrison home in June.
